R-101 CLINGS TO SECRET

Cause of Blazing Doom Undecided

Discovery of Metal Parts Few Miles Away Hints a Break-up in Air

London Prepares for Great Public Funeral in Honor of Tragedy Victims

CHAPAIS (France) Oct. 8. (AP)—A twisted mass of twisted steel upon which investigators of the British and French governments today pored in the hope of finding the secret of the world's largest dirigible, the British R-101, met disaster in the early hours of yesterday with the loss of forty-seven lives, among them at least two titled officials, after officials had pried their way into the interior hulk of the stripped and gutted cabin they seemingly were nearer a solution of one of the most dire catastrophes of all time than when drawn yesterday at dawn by a sight of the fearful ruin.

Not all of the forty-seven dead give up the secret of the ship's tragic ending of a voyage designed as an 8000-mile trailblazing trip to India.

SURVIVORS INDICATED

Among the survivors, whose number was increased by the death of one more today, was placed today the only story of events leading up to the great craft leading up to the catastrophe.

Only one possibly two stowaways of the ship's company, were known to have become a prospective part of the inquiry being conducted in England by Air Commodore Booth, after the fiddle-shaped brass shoe with a buckle on it, one of the mysteries in the disaster, was cleared up late yesterday by the announcement by officials that only forty-seven persons, comprising the crew, reserved places on the ill-fated airship.

The announcement, conducting the search of the finders, left no doubt that the R-101 was overcome by the disaster was the discovery of metal pieces [illegible] where the airship struck a hillside and [illegible] which the R-101 [illegible] point of grounding.

EIGHT DIE IN AIR CRASH

German Tragedy Due to Storm

Six Passengers, Pilot and Mechanic Lose Lives in Wreck

Craft Turns Over Twice and Dashes Like Shot 1200 Feet to Earth

DRESDEN (Germany) Oct. 6. (Exclusive)—Eight persons met instant death today when a Lufthansa passenger plane from Berlin to Vienna was caught, like the British airship R-101, by a sudden and violent autumnal squall and dashed to earth.

The pilot, Erich Pust, one of Lufthansa's most experienced and able air officers, had started the plane on a downward curving glide for the purpose of an intermediate landing at the Dresden Airport when the ship was struck by a vertical gust of wind.

TURNS OVER TWICE

Observers on the airport watch tower saw the plane turn over twice at a height of 1200 feet and then start into a spin. It suddenly plunged arrowlike to the field, burying its propeller deep into the earth. The plane was completely wrecked.

Later it was discovered that Pust had the presence of mind to cut off the gas, thus averting fire. But the crash was so terrific that death was instantaneous for all occupants.

TWO WOMEN VICTIMS

In addition to the pilot, Pust, and the mechanic, Max Lange, the six passengers, two of them women, were killed. One of the passengers was the well-known Austrian author, Dr. Richard Kuehnelt, president of the Alpine Authors' Association. The women were Frau Greefe of Sofia, and Fraulein Bluewel. F. W. Blackwell, a British business man from Shanghai, and two men named Poeldes and Knittell were the others killed.

The plane, a single-motored all-metal machine, had only been in service for a fortnight.

HURRICANE CHEATED BY NAVY OCEAN TUG

CHARLESTON (S. C.) Oct. 6. (AP) The ocean tug U.S.S. Montauk is in port today, battered and streaked from a buffeting at the hands of a hurricane. Her crew of twenty enlisted men and three officers had been on duty almost continuously during the last five days.

The Montauk, station vessel at Guantanamo, Cuba, sailed last Tuesday for Charleston, and encountered hurricane winds early Thursday. She was in command of Chief Boatswain William J. Smith.

THOMPSON'S WIFE VICTIM OF BANDITS

Chicago Mayor's Spouse Held Up in Front of Home; Officer-Driver Slugged

CHICAGO, Oct. 6. (Exclusive)—Mrs. William Hale Thompson, wife of the Mayor, was held up and robbed of several thousands of dollars in jewelry and money by three bandits in front of her home at 3100 Sheridan Road at 11:30 o'clock tonight. Her chauffeur, Peter J. O'Malley, a policeman, was slugged.

After threatening to kill O'Malley because he is a policeman, the gunmen escaped in an unlighted automobile.

Mrs. Thompson, after seeing her chauffeur felled by a blow on the head, was forced to walk to the apartment building where she lives, accompanied by two of the bandits. She was in there several minutes while the robbers stripped her of her jewelry. As they left she followed, crying:

"They took everything I had, jewelry, pocketbook, everything."

Wrigley Aids Jobless Men

CHICAGO, Oct. 6. (AP)—William Wrigley failed to see his Chicago Cubs become baseball champions this year, but he became a champion in his own right today—champion of 2000 jobless men who will have a warm place to sleep because of the chewing gum magnate's efforts.

Wrigley, it became known today, has put men to work cleaning up a building on the West Side in the heart of the district long known as the "port of missing men." When it is ready, before the first snowfall, it will provide beds for 2000 men. Wrigley will heat the building and provide food and entertainment for its occupants.

Moralist Finds Russia Purest

NEW YORK, Oct. 6. (AP) — Dr. Robert Barrett, national president of the Florence Crittenton Mission in America, returned from a survey of sex standards in Europe today with the statement that Russia is the most moral country in the world.

Dr. Barrett, who debarked from the liner Westernland, said he found Sweden, Norway and Switzerland highly moral on sex matters, France liberal on the question of illegitimacy and England a bit prudish still.

Princeton Gets Large Bequest

CHICAGO, Oct. 6. (AP)—The alumni fund of Princeton University was bequeathed $500,000 in the will of Thomas Davies Jones, filed for probate today. Other educational and charitable institutions received sums totaling nearly $2,000,000 and the residue of the estate was divided among several nephews and nieces.

Mr. Jones died September 27. Chicago University and the Children's Memorial Hospital of Chicago received the second largest bequests, for $200,000 each.

ARIZONA FILES DAM SUIT

Permanent Injunction Asked in Supreme Court Action Against Boulder Project

BY LAURENCE M. BENEDICT
"Times" Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON, Oct. 6. (Exclusive)—Arizona today filed in the United States Supreme Court its long-threatened suit attacking the constitutionality of the Boulder Dam project.

The suit, which simply whips into legal phraseology all the contentions made by Arizona spokesmen in Congress during consideration of the Swing-Johnson legislation, charges that the entire Colorado River development is illegal because it attempts to deprive a sovereign State of its natural resources without its consent. It is contended that the Santa Fe compact, which Arizona refused to ratify, the Swing-Johnson Act and the water and power contracts entered into pursuant to the act, are all beyond the pale of constitutional authorization.

A permanent rather than temporary injunction is sought, which means that the work put under way by Secretary Wilbur at ceremonies held at Las Vegas, September 17, last, may proceed without interference pending final and full adjudication of the litigation. Besides asking that the entire project be stopped, Arizona demands damages in the amount of money the State has spent fighting the project throughout the last several years, and any further relief the Supreme Court may deem justifiable.

WORK TO CONTINUE

The suit was filed shortly after the high court reconvened for the fall term by K. Berry Peterson of Phoenix, Attorney-General of Arizona, and Dean Acheson and Clifton Mathews, Washington lawyers, retained to assist Arizona in the case. The defendants are the States of California, Nevada, Utah, New Mexico, Colorado and Wyoming and Secretary of the Interior Wilbur, who is referred to as "a citizen of California."

Secretary Wilbur, upon being informed that the suit had been brought, said that he had anticipated it and that construction

SCORE HURT AS TORNADO HITS TEXAS

Many Farmhouses Razed by Houston County Storm; Heavy Rains Follow

CROCKETT (Tex.) Oct. 6. (AP)—More than twenty persons were believed to have been injured and numerous farmhouses were demolished this afternoon as a tornado struck Houston county, skirting Crockett, and centered on a farming center near Latexo.

As Crockett hospitals began filling the relief forces battled torrential rains and tree-strewn roads to find other victims and South Central Texas began counting high property damage as a result of three days of unusual weather.

The tornado cut a swath of undetermined length. It first hit five or six miles southwest of here and was known to have extended one and one-half miles northeast of Latexo. Its path was from 200 to 300 yards wide.

Crockett was in darkness tonight. Six persons were in the Houston County Hospital here, some in a serious condition, and numerous others were being treated at physicians' offices and in private homes.

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 6. (AP)—Lillian Flynn, 10 years of age, was killed when she was struck by an automobile while playing in front of her home here tonight.

Milk War Cuts Price in Oakland

OAKLAND, Oct. 6. (AP)—A milk war broke out here today when the Co-operative Dairymen's League, controlling 75 per cent of milk sold by East Bay stores, slashed its price from 14 to 10 cents a quart. Refusal of the Independent Milk Distributors' Association to raise its price from 12 to 14 cents was given as the reason.

The league cannot afford to sell milk for less than 14 cents, Carl Jorge, secretary, said in admitting the cut was made in an effort to make that a universal price here.

F. H. Miller, secretary of the association, said its 12-cent figure is a "fair price."

SHULER MAY LOSE HIS RADIO

Federal Commission Will Investigate Complaints Against Broadcasting Pastor

WASHINGTON, Oct. 6. (Exclusive)—It became known on reliable authority today that the Federal Radio Commission is about to take steps looking to a thorough investigation of the radio broadcasting activities of Rev. R. P. Shuler over station KGEF at Los Angeles.

No formal decision has been made, but it is learned that when Shuler's station comes up for the usual ninety-day extension of license on the 31st inst. the commission in all probability will grant only a temporary privilege to broadcast pending a hearing to determine whether the station is functioning in the public interest.

This procedure has lately been followed in the case of more than thirty stations which, like Shuler's, have been complained against by the public because of the character of the programs. Several stations broadcasting the same sort of personal attacks, assertedly indulged in by Shuler, including that formerly operated by William B. Schaeffer at Portland, Or., have recently been forced off the air.

The Radio Commission has received numerous protests from private citizens in Los Angeles and Southern California against the Shuler broadcasts and there is a formal legal complaint before the commission from George D. Lyons, prominent in American Legion circles, which is expected to be set for hearing some time in November or December.

The Lyons protest, first made when Commissioner Eugene Sykes visited Los Angeles the past summer, has since been backed up by transcripts of actual speeches broadcast by Shuler, and a complete record of his whole radio career, including his frequent brushes with grand juries and the courts. This material is now being studied by William J. Clearman, chief investigator for the commission, after having first been gone over by Col. Thad Brown, general counsel for the commission. It is said the nature of the evidence is such as to compel a public hearing.

If Shuler is called before the commission, as appears practically certain, it will be up to him to make

SEA DEPTHS GIVE LIGHT

Bulbs Glow With Ocean Power

System Employs Difference in Temperature of Water Strata

MATANZAS (Cuba) Oct. 6. (AP) Prof. Georges Claude before a gathering of engineers and scientific men in his laboratory today produced sufficient electrical energy through utilizing variations in temperature of Gulf Stream water to light forty 500-watt bulbs and keep them burning.

The demonstration was viewed by those present as the forerunner of a great revolution in industrial power methods.

The French scientist, after five years' experimentation with a theory pronounced impracticable by some leaders in the field of hydraulics, kept the bulbs burning for more than half an hour.

COLD WATER PUMPED

When the group of government officials, engineers and members of the Havana Academy of Science, and newspaper men had assembled in his homely laboratory, he pressed a switch starting the pumps that bring up cold seawater from the depths of Matanzas Bay a mile from shore.

The cold draughts of water began to flow from the tube, more than 4000 feet long, which the scientist had laid a month ago on the bottom of the bay.

At the same time warm water from the surface of the Gulf Stream began to flow into the huge vacuum tanks. It was there converted into steam.

Within a few moments the steam reached such a pressure that the adjacent turbines began to revolve. The speed picked up until several thousand revolutions per minute were recorded on the turbines.

The cold water flowed about the vacuum tanks condensing steam in one while the other was filling. The condensation produced a fresh vacuum, so that by the time the full tank was exhausted the other was ready to begin functioning.

BULBS LIGHT UP

When the generators were turned on, the forty big bulbs, arranged in rows, began to burn dimly. Then as the generators attained full speed, they became increasingly bright.

The demonstration lasted long enough to convince the most skeptical of those present that the inventor's scheme was successful.

The French scientist, who has expended more than $2,000,000 of his own money to carry on the work, said he intended to continue improving his plant during the next few weeks, in order to secure the greatest possible efficiency from his machinery.

He has labored tirelessly in his laboratory, six miles northwest of Matanzas, to bring his experiment to the point where it would stand scientific scrutiny.

Will Rogers Remarks:

BEVERLY HILLS, Oct. 6. [To the Editor of The Times:] I don't know how it is in your part of the country, but brother, I am betraying no confidence when I announce to the world publicly that out here it's hot; not warm, but just downright hot. The Chamber of Commerce can use that as an ad or suppress it, but it's as true as everything I ever wrote about the Republican party, and right on top of it I get a long telegram from Death Valley Scotty (whom I have known twenty-five years,) asking me to come to Death Valley and he will show me all through it.

Mr. Hoover looks like he just said: "I will make all my year's speeches at once, and then go home and try and live 'em down."

Yours,
WILL ROGERS.

HOOVER EXHORTS LEGION ON RESPECT FOR LAW

Federation of Labor Urged to Aid in National Team-Work; President Wildly Cheered

BOSTON, Oct. 6. (AP)—Cheered in two addresses before the American Legion and the American Federation of Labor President Hoover today called for nation-wide team work to end the business depression and a quickened interest in the obligations of citizenship—respect for and proper enforcement of law, good will toward other nations, and discharge of national duty at the ballot box.

"The demonstration of nation-wide co-operation and team [illegible] and the absence of conflict during this depression have increased the stability and wholesomeness of our industrial and social structure," Mr. Hoover said at the fiftieth annual convention of the labor federation, held in the auditorium of the Hotel Statler.

STRIKES LESSENED

He asserted expansion of construction and freedom from strikes and lockouts had contributed greatly to lessening unemployment, referring to the bituminous-coal industry for specific remarks he held that it is suffering most from readjustment made by new discoveries and labor-saving devices and added that "destructive competition and breaking down in wages" had severely handicapped it.

Six thousand independent mine owners, he said, are operating 7000 mines and he urged elimination of this "destructive competition" as "one key" to the solution.

CHEERED BY LEGION

Earlier in the day a few hours after his arrival from the capital the Chief Executive received an enthusiastic demonstration from the American Legion. He spoke in the Boston arena where two years ago to the day he spoke during his pre-election campaign. Thousands of Legionnaires interrupted the President repeatedly as he asserted that the "peace of our country has never stood more assured than at this moment."

Taking as his text the ideals expressed in the Legion's constitution which he saw adopted in France in 1919, Mr. Hoover said the "realization of your ideal to promote peace and good will through active citizenship is the greatest guaranty of its continuance."

RESPECT FOR LAW

"Through your local posts," he said, "you can awaken the minds of the communities throughout the nation to a higher ideal of citizenship."

"We need the teaching that the foundation of government is respect for law," he continued. "A quickened interest on the part of the community can insist upon proper enforcement of law, can arouse public opinion, while any condition of lawlessness remains unchecked in that community."

The President said the Legion's own "expressed fears of 'autocracy of either classes or masses' can well come true unless the individual citizen takes at last his share in the burden of government."

DUTY AT POLLS

"He can not hope to escape tyranny," he added, "he may not safely trust that 'right will be the master of might,' unless he is willing to respond to the right and duty to go to the ballot box. When he does not insist upon purity of elections he has lost democracy itself."

Foreign beliefs that a "new imperial power intent upon dominating the destinies and the freedom of other peoples" has been set up in this country as a result of American economic post-war expansion were frowned upon by the President, who said:

DENIES IMPERIALISM

"We know there is no financial, traditional, or military imperialism in the American heart. We know in fact, that we have opened the door of a new social and economic system, by which within our own borders we shall create the conquest of poverty without exploiting other nations.

"But as wrong as these fears may be, it becomes our first duty to show by our every act, not alone by our government, but by our citizens, that our guide is justice and

HOMER WINS FOR MACKS

Athletics Take Series Lead

Foxx's Blow With Cochrane on Base Brings 2-to-0 Victory Over Cards

Philadelphia Now Needs One More Game; Grove and Earnshaw Triumph

BY ALAN GOULD
Associated Press Sports Editor

SPORTSMAN'S PARK (St. Louis) Oct. 6. (AP)—Acting on the well-known theory that no strategy is more effective than a good old-fashioned wallop into the stands burly Jimmy Foxx, the kid first baseman himself, drove out a home run in the ninth inning today to give the world's champion Athletics a sensational 2-to-0 victory over the St. Louis Cardinals and the lead once more in the battle for baseball's biggest cash prize and honors.

Foxx's terrific drive with one out and Mickey Cochrane on first, broke up a remarkable pitchers' duel between the veteran Burleigh Grimes, Cardinal spitball star, and the twin aces of the A's—George Earnshaw and Robert Moses Grove.

GROVE WINNER

Earnshaw, after holding the Cardinals to two hits in seven innings, was relieved for a pinch hitter and "Lefty" Grove, back in the box for the second straight day, received credit for the triumph, his second of the series, by checking the Red Birds in the last two innings.

All told, the Cardinals made only three safe hits off the two fireball flingers while the A's collected a mere handful of five off the most offerings of Grimes, but the latter's crafty efforts for the second time were upset by a long-range drive.

It was a triple by Foxx that started the heavy firing that beat Grimes in the opening game and the big first sacker was again on the job to apply the well-known knockout wallop today.

It was a dramatic finish to a thrilling game. Grimes had stepped the Athletics in the eighth after they filled bases with only one out. Smarting the old war horse was still reliing and pitching defiance as he forced Al Simmons to pop up after walking Cochrane at the start of the ninth.

Big Burleigh took a few seconds to hitch his belt and uniform and address some derisive comment in the direction of the A's bench and to the patriarchal Connie Mack in particular before turning to face Foxx. Big Jimmy had hit safely in a previous time at bat, getting one of the two safe hits off Grimes in the first seven innings, but the Cardinals' pitcher seemed supremely confident he was past his worst trouble—Simmons.

Disdaining to use his spitter, Grimes loosed a high, fast one. It was the first ball pitched and Foxx was ready for it. There was a sharp crack as though a whip had been lashed out. High into the left-field bleachers soared the ball among the spectators. The silence of a funeral suddenly enveloped the stands holding another tremendous crowd of 38,844 fans, a few

CITY'S LEGION BID MADE

Quinn Presents Strong Plea for 1931 Meeting; Detroit Only Opponent of Los Angeles

BOSTON, Oct. 6. (AP)—The contest for the scene of the next national convention of the American Legion today narrowed down to a fight between Los Angeles and Detroit. These two cities were the only ones to bid officially for the convention before the time and place committee, Baltimore, Md., made a bid for the convention of 1932 and Chicago for 1933.

Since the Legion rules require a city bidding for the convention to present certified checks for a substantial amount of money, Portland, Or., withdrew its bid for the next year's convention. The Oregon representative explained that his department had not prepared for such a condition.

Wilbur M. Brucker, Republican nominee for Governor of Michigan and a delegate to the convention, presented the claims of Detroit. He gave the committee a certified check for $25,000.

He also had a letter from Mayor Murphy, himself a Legionnaire, who plans to fly here to march in the parade tomorrow, asking for the convention for his city.

He held Detroit is the logical geographical choice and said it would be a central point for Legionnaires whose financial condition would prevent a trip to the West Coast.

The claims of Los Angeles were put forth by John Quinn, Past National Commander of the Legion. He gave the committee letters from John C. Austin, president of the Los Angeles Chamber of Commerce, Mayor Porter and the City Council of his city. He said that sixty-four delegates had come here from Los Angeles and yet only twice has the convention been held within 2000 miles of their home city.

Quinn promised sufficient hotel rooms with current rates and also pointed out the beauties of a trip to Los Angeles. He made known a pledge of Los Angeles county and the city of Los Angeles that each would appropriate $25,000 for the convention and showed a certified check for that amount given by the Los Angeles Chamber of Commerce.

Paul G. Armstrong of Chicago submitted his city's plea for the 1933 convention.

Asa Needham asked that Balti-

HINDU "WAR COUNCIL" MEMBERS SENTENCED

BOMBAY, Oct. 6. (AP)—Members of the War Council of the All-India National Congress were arrested here today for publishing the banned Congress Bulletin. The president and four members of the council were sentenced to four months' rigorous imprisonment.

BANDIT SHOOTS TANKER'S MATE

Officer Gravely Wounded by Robber Aboard Ship

John Preller, third mate on the Union Oil tanker Montebello, was shot through the head and the captain's cabin and safe rifled by a bandit who boarded the tanker at 8 a.m. yesterday, while the ship was in dry dock at the Los Angeles shipyards.

Preller, critically wounded and in San Pedro General Hospital, said the man appeared at daylight, while he was on watch, demanded keys to the captain's cabin and safe. In the struggle Preller was shot and fled in his cabin, where he extricated himself at noon, called shipyard help and San Pedro police were summoned.

The captain's safe had been opened by knocking off the knob and hinges of the door and valuables were missing. The amount is not known. The man was described as about 35 years of age and weighing 165 pounds.

On the closing day of the Royal Agricultural Show at Manchester, Eng., the attendance was 40,923, the largest last-day crowd in many years.

ASSERTED RED SENTENCED

Found guilty of distributing Communist literature at Central avenue and Twentieth street, Ernest A. Porter, asserted radical, has been sentenced to serve ninety days in jail by Municipal Judge Bogue. According to court attaches, Porter is a former convict, having served a term for burglary in San Quentin prison.

Following sentence, he filed notice of appeal, on which Judge Bogue set bail of $500, which Porter has not yet posted. The handbills advertised a proposed demonstration at the Plaza on Labor Day, according to Policeman Pite of the traffic squad, who arrested him.

ACTRESS TRAINING TO FLY OWN PLANE

Claudia Dell

Determined to obtain a pilot's license and fly her own plane within the next six months, Claudia Dell, blond film actress, is making daily flights under the supervision of an instructor. Although she still has her first solo hop to make, she hopes to be able to fly alone before Christmas.

Miss Dell at one time was a member of one of Florenz Ziegfeld's companies.

BUCK TODAY GETS READY FOR RETURN

Young Flyer Will Prepare Plane for Effort to Set West-to-East Record, Too

Robert Buck, 16-year-old Elizabeth (N. J.) aviator, who set a new junior transcontinental flight record Saturday when he completed the East-to-West hop in a total elapsed flying time of twenty-eight hours and thirty-three minutes today will overhaul the engine for his Fitcairn Mailwing plane in preparation for a return flight scheduled for tomorrow. In the West-to-East flight Buck will attempt to break Eddie Schneider's record of twenty-seven hours and nineteen minutes.

Buck made his flight from Newark in eleven jumps. He started the trip last Monday. Buck received his private pilot's license last April. He was granted a special leave of absence from his classes at Pingy Preparatory School to make the flight.

Buck is the guest of Dudley M. Steele, head of the Richfield aviation department and is making his headquarters at the Flying Club of California. Saturday he was taken to Soboba Hot Springs together with a number of ther aviators to spend the week-end. Today he will go to Western Air Express airport, where he has his plane and help prepare his craft for the return flight.

Frank Goldsborough, youthful flyer recently killed in a crash; Eddie Schneider, holder of the west-to-east flight record for juniors, and Buck graduated from the same ground training schol in New Jersey.

Water Failure Cause Told by Leake-Faucett

F. H. Van Hoesen, water engineer for the State Railroad Commission, was endeavoring to bring to solution a puzzle that came before him some time ago when approximately 200 households were without water for a day.

A small water system had failed to pay its bill to the California Water Service Company, from which it obtained its supply. It had been tentatively agreed that the small system was to turn over its assets to liquidate the debt.

When the first attorney rose to speak, he gave Engineer Van Hoesen a start. His name was Carl W. Faucett. And when Faucett finished, who should speak but Attorney E. O. Leake.

Engineer Van Hoesen said that a settlement was arrived at that he believed would hold water.

Holiday Fete Permit Given

Permission for a celebration of Columbus Day at the Plaza next Saturday by the Main-street Business Association has been granted by the Los Angeles Park Board.

The celebration will be in the evening and is to consist of a concert by the firemen's band and speeches by Mayor Porter, President Sanborn of the City Council and civilian leaders. The permit allows construction of a temporary stand in the park.

Actor Lytell in Court Today

Bert Lytell, motion-picture actor, accused in a Federal grand jury indictment of making out a false and fraudulent income-tax return, is scheduled to appear today before United States District Judge James. Lytell will appear as his own attorney.

It is expected that a compromise with the government will be reached.

R-101 CLINGS TO SECRET

Discovery of Metal Parts Five Miles Away Hints at Break-up in Air

London Prepares for Great Public Funeral in Honor of Tragedy Victims

BEAUVAIS (France) Oct. 5. (AP)—A vast mass of twisted steel upon a storm-swept hillside failed to divulge to investigators of the British and French governments today how the world's largest dirigible airship, the British R-101, met disaster here in the early hours of Sunday with the loss of forty-seven lives, among them at least two titled Englishmen.

Tonight, after officials had pried and hewed their way into the enormous bulk of the stripped and twisted carcass they seemingly were no nearer a solution of one of the greatest air catastrophes of all time than when drawn yesterday first brought them a sight of the still flaming ruin.

Nor did any of the forty-seven bodies give up the secret of the stolen, tragic ending of a voyage projected as an 8000-mile trailblazing round trip to India.

STOWAWAYS INDICATED

From the survivors, whose number has been decreased by the death of a party today, was pieced together the only story of events on the great craft leading up to her destruction.

That one and possibly two stowaways, one of them a woman, were on the R-101 became a prospective element of the inquiry being conducted for England by Air Commodore V. Holt, after the finding of a woman's shoe with a buckle of distinctive design.

One of the mysteries in the disastrous calamity was cleared up late today with the announcement by Commodore Holt that only forty bodies have been recovered from the wreckage of the airship. Air Commodore Holt, considering the number lost, the number of survivors and the number known to have been aboard the ship, announced the report of the finding of forty bodies was correct.

A further complication was thrown by peasants of rustic places miles away from where the airship met her fate into a hillside and forest. These bits were pinned down the route which the R-101 took on her way to her point of grounding.

QUESTIONS ARISE

Reports gave them careful attention in an effort to determine their value on the accident. Engineer Lieut. Leach, on duty as pilot when the disaster occurred, said the craft struck the ground once or twice before crashing to a full stop. It is

Recovery of Metal Parts Five Miles Away Hints a Break-up in Air

Nation Prepares for Great Public Funeral in Honor of Tragedy Victims

BEAUVAIS (France) Oct. 6. (AP)—A vast mass of twisted steel upon which experts of the British air ministry failed to assign investigators of the British and French governments today the world's largest dirigible the British R-101, met disaster in the early hours of last night with the loss of forty-seven lives, among them at least two titled.

Tonight, after officials had pried their way into the inner hull of the stripped and burned ship they seemingly were no nearer a solution of one of the most disastrous catastrophes of all time than when drawn yesterday afternoon by the sight of the ship ruin.

Not one of the forty-seven who gave up the secret of the ship, made ending of a voyage started as an 8000-mile trailblazing trip to India.

SURVIVORS INDICATED

Only the survivors, whose number was decreased by the death of one today, was placed today the only story of events in the great craft leading up to the and possibly two stowaways, one of them a woman, were said to have become a prospective source of the inquiry being conducted by Air Commodore Booth, after the fatal crash.

Booth's shoe with a buckle

Other mysteries in the disaster were cleared up late today by an announcement by Air Minister Lord Thomson that only forty-seven persons occupied the ship when it left Cardington, England, on the Air Ministry's experimental flight to India. The number of persons on the ship was the subject of much discussion when the airship crashed into a hillside and burst into flame, as reports were picked up that the R-101 had left on her flight with fifty persons aboard.

EIGHT DIE IN AIR CRASH

German Tragedy Due to Storm

Six Passengers, Pilot and Mechanic Lose Lives in Wreck

Craft Turns Over Twice and Dashes Like Shot 1200 Feet to Earth

DRESDEN (Germany) Oct. 6. (Exclusive)—Eight persons met instant death today when a Lufthansa passenger plane from Berlin to Vienna was caught, like the British airship R-101, by a sudden and violent autumnal squall and dashed to earth.

The pilot, Erich Pust, one of Lufthansa's most experienced and able air officers, had started the plane on a downward curving glide for the purpose of an intermediate landing at the Dresden Airport when the ship was struck by a vertical gust of wind.

TURNS OVER TWICE

Observers on the airport watch tower saw the plane turn over twice at a height of 1200 feet and then start into a spin. It suddenly plunged arrowlike to the field, burying its propeller deep into the earth. The plane was completely wrecked.

Later it was discovered that Pust had the presence of mind to cut off the gas, thus averting fire. But the crash was so terrific that death was instantaneous for all occupants.

TWO WOMEN VICTIMS

In addition to the pilot, Pust, and the mechanic, Max Lange, the six passengers, two of them women, were killed. One of the passengers was the well-known Austrian author, Dr. Richard Knahnelt, president of the Alpine Autners' Association. The women were Frau Graefe of Sofia, and Fraulein Bluewel. F. W. Blackwell, a British business man from Shanghai, and two men named Foelde and Knittell were the others killed.

The plane, a single-motored all-metal machine, had only been in service for a fortnight.

HURRICANE CHEATED BY NAVY OCEAN TUG

CHARLESTON (S. C.) Oct. 6. (AP) The ocean tug U.S.S. Montauk is in port today, battered and streaked from a buffeting at the hands of a hurricane. Her crew of twenty enlisted men and three officers had been on duty almost continuously during the last five days.

The Montauk, station vessel at Guantanamo, Cuba, sailed last Tuesday for Charleston, and encountered hurricane winds early Thursday. She was in command of Chief Boatswain William J. Smith.

THOMPSON'S WIFE VICTIM OF BANDITS

Chicago Mayor's Spouse Held Up in Front of Home; Officer-Driver Slugged

CHICAGO, Oct. 6. (Exclusive)—Mrs. William Hale Thompson, wife of the Mayor, was held up and robbed of several thousands of dollars in jewelry and money by three bandits in front of her home at 3100 Sheridan Road at 11:30 o'clock tonight. Her chauffeur, Peter J. O'Malley, a policeman, was slugged.

After threatening to kill O'Malley because he is a policeman, the gunmen escaped in an unlighted automobile.

Mrs. Thompson, after seeing her chauffeur felled by a blow on the head, was forced to walk to the apartment building where she lives, accompanied by two of the bandits. She was in there several minutes while the robbers stripped her of her jewelry. As they left she followed, crying:

"They took everything I had, jewelry, pocketbook, everything."

Wrigley Aids Jobless Men

CHICAGO, Oct. 6. (AP)—William Wrigley failed to see his Chicago Cubs become baseball champions this year, but he became a champion in his own right today—champion of 2000 jobless men who will have a warm place to sleep because of the chewing gum magnate's efforts.

Wrigley, it became known today, has put men to work cleaning up a building on the West Side in the heart of the district long known as the "port of missing men." When it is ready, before the first snowfall, it will provide beds for 2000 men. Wrigley will heat the building and provide food and entertainment for its occupants.

Moralist Finds Russia Purest

NEW YORK, Oct. 6. (AP) — Dr. Robert Barrett, national president of the Florence Crittenton Mission in America, returned from a survey of sex standards in Europe today with the statement that Russia is the most moral country in the world.

Dr. Barrett, who debarked from the liner Westernland, said he found Sweden, Norway and Switzerland highly moral on sex matters, France liberal on the question of illegitimacy and England a bit prudish still.

Princeton Gets Large Bequest

CHICAGO, Oct. 6. (AP)—The alumni fund of Princeton University was bequeathed $500,000 in the will of Thomas Davies Jones, filed for probate today. Other educational and charitable institutions received sums totaling nearly $2,000,000 and the residue of the estate was divided among several nephews and nieces.

Mr. Jones died September 27. Chicago University and the Children's Memorial Hospital of Chicago received the second largest bequests, for $200,000 each.

ARIZONA FILES DAM SUIT

BY LAURENCE M. BENEDICT
"Times" Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON, Oct. 6. (Exclusive)—Arizona today filed in the United States Supreme Court its long-threatened suit attacking the constitutionality of the Boulder Dam project.

The suit, which simply whips into legal phraseology all the contentions made by Arizona spokesmen in Congress during consideration of the Swing-Johnson legislation, charges that the entire Colorado River development is illegal because it attempts to deprive a sovereign State of its natural resources without its consent. It is contended that the Santa Fe compact, which Arizona refused to ratify, the Swing-Johnson Act and the water and power contracts entered into pursuant to the act, are all beyond the pale of constitutional authorization.

A permanent rather than temporary injunction is sought, which means that the work put under way by Secretary Wilbur at ceremonies held at Las Vegas, September 17, last, may proceed without interference pending final and full adjudication of the litigation. Besides asking that the entire project be stopped, Arizona demands damages in the amount of money the State has spent fighting the project throughout the last several years, and any further relief the Supreme Court may deem justifiable.

WORK TO CONTINUE

The suit was filed shortly after the high court reconvened for the fall term by K. Berry Peterson of Phoenix, Attorney-General of Arizona, and Dean Acheson and Clifton Mathews, Washington lawyers, retained to assist Arizona in the case. The defendants are the States of California, Nevada, Utah, New Mexico, Colorado and Wyoming and Secretary of the Interior Wilbur, who is referred to as "a citizen of California."

Secretary Wilbur, upon being informed that the suit had been brought, said that he had anticipated it and that construction

SCORE HURT AS TORNADO HITS TEXAS

Many Farmhouses Razed by Houston County Storm; Heavy Rains Follow

CROCKETT (Tex.) Oct. 6. (AP)—More than twenty persons were believed to have been injured and numerous farmhouses were demolished this afternoon as a tornado struck Houston county, skirting Crockett, and centered on a farming center near Latexo.

As Crockett hospitals began filling the relief forces battled torrential rains and tree-strewn roads to find other victims and South Central Texas began counting high property damage as a result of three days of unusual weather.

The tornado cut a swath of undetermined length. It first hit five or six miles southwest of here and was known to have extended one and one-half miles northeast of Latexo. Its path was from 200 to 300 yards wide.

Crockett was in darkness tonight. Six persons were in the Houston County Hospital here, some in a serious condition, and numerous others were being treated at physicians' offices and in private homes.

SHULER MAY LOSE HIS RADIO

Federal Commission Will Investigate Complaints Against Broadcasting Pastor

WASHINGTON, Oct. 6. (Exclusive)—It became known on reliable authority today that the Federal Radio Commission is about to take steps looking to a thorough investigation of the radio broadcasting activities of Rev. R. P. Shuler over station KGEF at Los Angeles.

No formal decision has been made, but it is learned that when Shuler's station comes up for the usual ninety-day extension of license on the 31st inst. the commission in all probability will grant only a temporary privilege to broadcast pending a hearing to determine whether the station is functioning in the public interest.

This procedure has lately been followed in the case of more than thirty stations which, like Shuler's, have been complained against by the public because of the character of the programs. Several stations broadcasting the same sort of personal attacks, assertedly indulged in by Shuler, including that formerly operated by William B. Schaefer at Portland, Or., have recently been forced off the air.

The Radio Commission has received numerous protests from private citizens in Los Angeles and Southern California against the Shuler broadcasts and there is a formal legal complaint before the commission from George D. Lyons, prominent in American Legion circles, which is expected to be set for hearing some time in November or December.

The Lyons protest, first made when Commissioner Eugene Sykes visited Los Angeles the past summer, has since been backed up by transcripts of actual speeches broadcast by Shuler, and a complete record of his whole radio career, including his frequent brushes with grand juries and the courts. This material is now being studied by William J. Clearman, chief investigator for the commission, after having first been gone over by Col. Thad Brown, general counsel for the commission. It is said the nature of the evidence is such as to compel a public hearing.

If Shuler is called before the commission, as appears practically certain, it will be up to him to make

SEA DEPTHS GIVE LIGHT

System Employs Difference in Temperature of Water Strata

MATANZAS (Cuba) Oct. 6. (AP) Prof. Georges Claude before a gathering of engineers and scientific men in his laboratory today produced sufficient electrical energy through utilizing variations in temperature of Gulf Stream water to light forty 500-watt bulbs and keep them burning.

The demonstration was viewed by those present as the forerunner of a great revolution in industrial power methods.

The French scientist, after five years' experimentation with a theory pronounced impracticable by some leaders in the field of hydraulics, kept the bulbs burning for more than half an hour.

COLD WATER PUMPED

When the group of government officials, engineers and members of the Havana Academy of Science, and newspaper men had assembled in his homely laboratory, he pressed a switch starting the pumps that bring up cold seawater from the depths of Matanzas Bay a mile from shore.

The cold draughts of water began to flow from the tube, more than 4000 feet long, which the scientist had laid a month ago on the bottom of the bay.

At the same time warm water from the surface of the Gulf stream began to flow into the huge vacuum tanks. It was there converted into steam.

Within a few moments the steam reached such a pressure that the adjacent turbines began to revolve. The speed picked up until several thousand revolutions per minute were recorded on the turbines.

The cold water flowed about the vacuum tanks, condensing steam in one while the other was filling. The condensation produced a fresh vacuum, so that by the time the full tank was exhausted the other was ready to begin functioning.

BULBS LIGHT UP

When the generators were turned on, the forty big bulbs, arranged in rows, began to burn dimly. Then as the generators attained full speed, they became increasingly bright.

The demonstration lasted long enough to convince the most skeptical of those present that the inventor's scheme was successful.

The French scientist, who has expended more than $2,000,000 of his own money to carry on the work, said he intended to continue improving his plant during the next few weeks, in order to secure the greatest possible efficiency from his machinery.

He has labored tirelessly in his laboratory, six miles northwest of Matanzas, to bring his experiment to the point where it would stand scientific scrutiny.

Milk War Cuts Price in Oakland

OAKLAND, Oct. 6. (AP)—A milk war broke out here today when the Co-operative Dairymen's League, controlling 75 per cent of milk sold by East Bay stores, slashed its price from 14 to 10 cents a quart. Refusal of the Independent Milk Distributors' Association to raise its price from 12 to 14 cents was given as the reason.

The league cannot afford to sell milk for less than 14 cents, Carl Jorge, secretary, said in admitting the cut was made in an effort to make that a universal price here.

F. H. Miller, secretary of the association, said its 12-cent figure is a "fair price."

Will Rogers Remarks:

BEVERLY HILLS, Oct. 6. [To the Editor of The Times:] I don't know how it is in your part of the country, but brother, I am betraying no confidence when I announce to the world publicly that out here it's hot; not warm, but just downright hot. The Chamber of Commerce can use that as an ad or suppress it, but it's as true as everything I ever wrote about the Republican party, and right on top of it I get a long telegram from Death Valley Scotty (whom I have known twenty-five years,) asking me to come to Death Valley and he will show me all through it.

Mr. Hoover looks like he just said: "I will make all my year's speeches at once, and then go home and try and live 'em down."

Yours,
WILL ROGERS.

HOOVER EXHORTS LEGION ON RESPECT FOR LAW

Federation of Labor Urged to Aid in National Team-Work; President Wildly Cheered

BOSTON, Oct. 6. (AP)—Cheered in two addresses before the American Legion and the American Federation of Labor President Hoover today called for nation-wide team work to end the business depression and a quickened interest in the obligations of citizenship—respect for and proper enforcement of law, good will toward other nations, and discharge of national duty at the ballot box.

"The demonstration of nation-wide co-operation and team play and the absence of conflict during this depression have increased the stability and wholesomeness of our industrial and social structure," Mr. Hoover said at the fiftieth annual convention of the labor federation, held in the auditorium of the Hotel Statler.

STRIKES LESSENED

He asserted expansion of construction and freedom from strikes and lockouts had contributed greatly to lessening unemployment, turning to the bituminous-coal industry for specific remarks he held that it is suffering most from readjustments made by new discoveries and labor-saving devices and added that "destructive competition and breaks down in wages" had severely handicapped it.

Six thousand independent mine owners, he said, are operating 7000 mines and he urged elimination of this "destructive competition" as "one key" to the solution.

CHEERED BY LEGION

Earlier in the day a few hours after his arrival from the capital the Chief Executive received an enthusiastic demonstration from the American Legion. He spoke in the Boston arena where two years ago to the day he spoke during his pre-election campaign. Thousands of Legionnaires interrupted the President repeatedly as he asserted that the "peace of our country has never stood more assured than at this moment."

Taking as his text the ideals expressed in the Legion's constitution which he saw adopted in France in 1919, Mr. Hoover said the "realization of your ideal to promote peace and good will through active citizenship is the greatest guaranty of its continuance."

RESPECT FOR LAW

"Through your local posts," he said, "you can awaken the minds of the communities throughout the nation to a higher ideal of citizenship."

"We need the teaching that the foundation of government is respect for law," he continued. "A quickened interest on the part of the community can insist upon proper enforcement of law, can arouse public opinion, while any condition of lawlessness remains unchecked in that community."

The President said the Legion's own "expressed fears of autocracy of either classes or masses' can well come true unless the individual citizen takes at last his share in the burden of government."

DUTY AT POLLS

"He can not hope to escape tyranny," he added, "he may not safely trust that 'right will be the master of might,' unless he is willing to respond to the right and duty to go to the ballot box. When he does not insist upon purity of elections he has lost democracy itself."

Foreign beliefs that a "new imperial power intent upon dominating the destinies and the freedom of other peoples" has been set up in this country as a result of American economic post-war expansion were frowned upon by the President, who said:

DENIES IMPERIALISM

"We know there is no financial, traditional, or military imperialism in the American heart. We know, in fact, that we have opened the door of a new social and economic system, by which within our own borders we shall create the conquest of poverty without exploiting other nations.

"But as wrong as these fears may be, it becomes our first duty to show by our every act, not alone by our government, but by our citizens, that our guide is justice and

HOMER WINS FOR MACKS

Athletics Take Series Lead

Foxx's Blow With Cochrane on Base Brings 2-to-0 Victory Over Cards

Philadelphia Now Needs One More Game; Grove and Earnshaw Triumph

Associated Press Sports Editor

SPORTSMAN'S PARK (St. Louis) Oct. 6. (AP)—Acting on the well-known theory that no strategy is more effective than a good old-fashioned wallop into the stands burly Jimmy Foxx, the kid first baseman himself, drove out a home run in the ninth inning today to give the world's champion Athletics a sensational 2-to-0 victory over the St. Louis Cardinals and the lead once more in the battle for baseball's biggest cash prize and honors.

Foxx's terrific drive with one out and Mickey Cochrane on first, broke up a remarkable pitchers' duel between the veteran Burleigh Grimes, Cardinal spitball star, and the twin aces of the A's—George Earnshaw and Robert Moses Grove.

GROVE WINNER

Earnshaw, after holding the Cardinals to two hits in seven innings, was relieved for a pinch hitter and "Lefty" Grove, back in the box for the second straight day, received credit for the triumph, his second of the series, by checking the Red Birds in the last two innings.

All told, the Cardinals made only three safe hits off the two fireball flingers while the A's collected a mere handful of five off the most offerings of Grimes, but the latter's crafty efforts for the second time were upset by a long-range drive. It was a triple by Foxx that started the heavy firing that beat Grimes in the opening game and the big first sacker was again on the job to apply the well-known knockout wallop today.

It was a dramatic finish to a thrilling game. Grimes had stopped the Athletics in the eighth after they filled the bases with only one out. Snarling, the old war horse was still yelling and pitching defiance as he forced Al Simmons to pop up after walking Cochrane at the start of the ninth.

Big Burleigh took a few seconds to hitch his belt and uniform and address some derisive comment in the direction of the A's bench and to the patriarchal Connie Mack in particular before turning to face Foxx. Big Jimmy had hit safely in a previous time at bat, getting one of the two safe hits off Grimes in the first seven innings, but the Cardinals' pitcher seemed supremely confident he was past his worst trouble—Simmons.

Disdaining to use his spitter, Grimes loosed a high, fast one. It was the first ball pitched and Foxx was ready for it. There was a sharp crack as though a whip had been lashed out. High into the left-field bleachers soared the ball among the spectators. The silence of a funeral suddenly enveloped the stands holding another tremendous crowd of 38,844 fans, a few

CITY'S LEGION BID MADE

Quinn Presents Strong Plea for 1931 Meeting; Detroit Only Opponent of Los Angeles

BOSTON, Oct. 6. (AP)—The contest for the scene of the next national convention of the American Legion today narrowed down to a fight between Los Angeles and Detroit. These two cities were the only ones to bid officially for the convention before the time and place committee, Baltimore, Md., made a bid for the convention of 1932 and Chicago for 1933.

The claims of Los Angeles were put forth by John Quinn, Past National Commander of the Legion. He gave the committee letters from John C. Austin, president of the Los Angeles Chamber of Commerce, Mayor Porter and the City Council of his city. He said that sixty-four delegates had come here from Los Angeles and yet only twice has the convention been held within 2000 miles of their home city.

Quinn promised sufficient hotel rooms with current rates and also pointed out the beauties of a trip to Los Angeles. He made known a pledge of Los Angeles county and the city of Los Angeles that each would appropriate $25,000 for the convention and showed a certified check for that amount given by the Los Angeles Chamber of Commerce.

Paul G. Armstrong of Chicago submitted his city's plea for the 1933 convention.

R-101 RETAINS TRAGIC SECRET

Investigators Undecided on Reason for Crash

Metal Parts Discovered Five Miles From Scene

possible parts were torn away in that manner.

Several questions were formulated in the minds of the investigators. Some are:

Did the metallic structure give way before the ship came to earth, as might be shown by the finding of the bits of metal?

Did not the ship take fire when flying over the region of Beauvais and before coming to earth, as declared by one of the riggers, S. Church, an engineer of the Royal Airship Works?

Was the R-101 simply swept to earth by a squall such as struck the fateful spot again today and nearly took the investigators off their feet?

DAY OF MOURNING

While the inquiry was going on today Premier Tardieu proclaimed a national day of mourning Tuesday for the victims. The bodies today were placed in coffins and borne into Beauvais from the little suburb of Allonne. They were carried to the City Hall. In the great cathedral tomorrow Bishop Lesenne will say a mass in their memory, and then they will be removed to Boulogne, there to be placed on British destroyers and borne home for a solemn service of commitment in St. Paul's Cathedral Friday.

The service here will bear some of the depth of sorrow that the British feel over the deaths of such conspicuous figures as Lord Thomson, the popular Air Minister; Sir Sefton Brancker, Director of Civil Aviation; Wing Commander R. B. B. Colmore, Director of Airship Development, and others similarly situated in government and aviation circles.

That identification of all the dead may remain an impossibility confronted the investigators throughout the day.

Tonight only five of the dead had been identified. They are Assistant Coxswain W. A. Potter, Rigger E. O. Rudd and Engineers R. Blake and W. R. King and S. E. Scott.

REPORT DECLARED TO BLAME FRAMEWORK

PARIS, Oct. 6. (AP)—Air Commander A. V. Holt, chief British investigator, is stated by the newspaper Le Temps tonight to have advised the British government the cause of the disaster to the R-101 was a rupture of the metallic framework and not a derangement of the engine. The British expert based his view on the finding of the metal parts of the dirigible five miles from where she crashed.

BRITAIN PREPARES FOR HONORS TO DEAD

LONDON, Oct. 6. (AP)—Although still stunned by the magnitude of the disaster which wrecked the dirigible R-101 in France early yesterday, Great Britain went ahead today with plans for returning the bodies of the victims to England for burial.

Two destroyers, the Tempest and the Tribune, are scheduled to leave early tomorrow morning for Boulogne-Sur-Mer, to which a special train will take the bodies from Beauvais.

After ceremonies at the docks by French officials, the warships will begin the return trip across the channel about 2 p.m., arriving in Dover at 11 p.m. (7 p.m. E.S.T.) At that port the coffins will be placed aboard a special train for London and will reach Victoria Station about 10 a.m. Wednesday.

Aviation authorities who have viewed the wreck refuse to make statements concerning their conclusions, preferring to wait until the court of inquiry is convened.

"MYSTERIOUS SHADOW"

The Daily Express today related an "alarming experience which overtook the R-101 during the air pageant last July which casts a mysterious shadow across yesterday's terrible disaster."

The story as told the Express's air correspondent is that immediately after leaving Hendon and after having been in the air about four hours officers discovered that the R-101 continuously lost height.

Members of the crew who examined her gas bags found the small balloons, which are made of goldbeaters' skin, were chafing against the metal framework. This was reported to the senior officer who immediately set a course for Cardington and ordered all available speed.

The ship returned safely and was moored, but was saved only by the swift action of her captain, Flight Commander Irwin, who dumped the entire water ballast and two tons of heavy fuel and employed every other means of reducing weight. After she was taken from the mast and put in her shed it was discovered more than sixty small holes were worn in the balloons.

When the new bag was inserted it was understood a new method was introduced for arrangement of these gas balloons, but the paper adds: "The theory of yesterday's disaster points to recurrence of the same trouble encountred in July."

TRIBUTES PAID

The London morning papers all unite in paying tribute to the skill and heroism of the gallant pioneer crew who met death in the tragic experimental flight. Simultaneously the gravest doubts are voiced whether airships generally are not shown by this disaster to be too vulnerable.

The Morning Post says it is unwise to hazard so much life and treasure in so costly an enterprise.

The News-Chronicle says the disaster is only an appalling conclusion of a mass of evidence all tending to show lighter-than-air machines are beaten on almost every count by heavier than-air craft.

Only by a searching public inquiry, says the daily Express, can minds be made up on the question of the merit of the R-101 design. The daily Herald agrees the public should demand a full and searching public inquiry.

A more confident note is sounded by the Times, which says: "The crew of the R-101 was engaged in no foolhardy venture. The vessel's fate should not retard by one minute the development of aviation generally."

GRIEF VOICED BY HOOVER

Message of Condolence Sent to King George on Loss of Men in R-101 Disaster

WASHINGTON, Oct. 6. (AP)—President Hoover and Secretary Stimson today sent messages of sympathy to King George V of England and Prime Minister MacDonald on the tragedy of the R-101.

Mr. Hoover's note to King George said:

"I am profoundly shocked and distressed by the tragic accident to the R-101 and its dreadful toll of lives.

"May I express to Your Majesty, to the relatives of those who were lost, and to the people of Great Britain the deep sympathy and grief of Mrs. Hoover and myself."

Addressing Premier MacDonald, Secretary Stimson said:

"Permit me to express to you my deep personal sympathy at the tragic loss which Great Britain has sustained in the death of those who perished in the disaster which overtook the R-101."

MUSSOLINI SENDS MESSAGE OF SORROW

ROME, Oct. 6. (AP)—Premier Mussolini today sent to Prime Minister Ramsay MacDonald a telegram of condolence for the R-101 disaster.

FLYER TOLD BY COURT TO PAY EX-WIFE

Leslie Arnold Ordered to Settle Costs of Suit and Give $75 Alimony

PHOENIX, Oct. 6. (AP)—Leslie P. Arnold, around-the-world flyer, was ordered by a Maricopa county Superior Court here today to pay Mildred Avery Arnold $75 a month alimony pending settlement of her contest of a suit for divorce filed by the flyer.

The order also directed Arnold to pay $150 fees to his wife's attorney and $50 court costs assessed against her.

A divorce granted Arnold in Georgia several years ago was later set aside by the Georgia Supreme Court when Mildred Avery Arnold averred it was obtained by fraud.

In the meantime the famous flyer and Priscilla Dean, motion-picture actress, were married in Mexico. They have been living apart since the decree was set aside.

SHULER FACES FEDERAL QUIZ

an affirmative showing that his programs follow out the spirit of the Radio Act and are in the public interest. The law declares that the commission must allocate wave lengths and channels to stations rendering theb est public service and in recent months the commission has construed this rather strictly as denying the right of a broadcaster to engage in political attacks and vent his spleen against personal enemies. Shuler's case is declared to be one of the most aggravated in this category to come before the commission in recent months.

Evidently taking advantage of the possibility that Shuler will be removed from the air another Southern California station has just in the last few days applied for the same air channel. A hearing in this matter, originally set for the 15th inst., was today postponed to allow more time for the Washington counsel engaged in the case to familiarize himself with the details of the situation in the Southern California radio field.

It is understood that the usual Shuler tactics will be followed in an effort to avert the reallotment of the wave length to another applicant, that is, the deluging of the commission with telegrams from Shuler followers, a system which is subject to heavy discounting in favor of an orderly presentation of the facts involved.

COLMA AUTOIST BURNED TO DEATH

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 6. (AP)—C. W. Wardell, 73-year-old retired Southern Pacific station agent at Colma, was found burned to death beside the burned ruins of an automobile in the hills back of Colma today. Coroner's deputies decided Wardell was trying to siphon gasoline from the tank to pour into the vacuum tank when the fuel exploded and drenched his clothing with blazing gasoline.

NEW BAY CITY HOTEL SOLD

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 6. (AP)—Sale of the new Alexander Hamilton Hotel for a reported consideration of $2,000,000 was consummated today. Local men, headed by G. R. Norton, purchased the property from Joseph Greenbach, the builder, and other stockholders.

HELIUM EXPORT WILL BE ASKED

R-101 Disaster to Result in Congressional Request

American Monopoly Held to Be Unfair for Science

Nonexplosive Gas May Bar Future Air Horrors

WASHINGTON, Oct. 6. (AP)—In an effort to avert future aircraft disasters abroad, Chairman Britten of the House Naval Affairs Committee announced today he will sponsor legislation at the next Congress to permit exportation of helium for use in dirigibles of foreign governments.

Voicing the opinion the disaster to the British dirigible R-101 would not have occurred had the noninflammable helium been used instead of hydrogen gas, Britten said he favors either permitting foreign governments to establish plants in the United States or increasing the facilities of this country so the product can be sold abroad at cost.

The United States is the only country in the world possessing helium in unlimited quantities, but present law prohibits its exportation.

HYDROGEN GAS BLAMED

Britten made his announcement after Rear-Admiral William A. Moffett, chief of the Navy Bureau of Aeronautics, had urged repeal of the present law to permit helium to be sold in peace time to all nations, especially to Great Britain and Germany. He added the extent of the R-101 disaster "is undoubtedly due" to its having been inflated with hydrogen gas.

Lieutenant-Commander C. E. Rosendahl, who was aboard the American Navy dirigible Shenandoah when the elements destroyed her, today placed his finger on two contributory causes—neither inherent faults of the airship.

The two things he believes may have caused the destruction of the British airship are barometric altimeters which measure the ship's altitude only in relation to conditions at the point of departure and the inflammable hydrogen which filled the bag.

URGENT NEED REVEALED

"The flying art," he said, "has a most urgent need for a practical barometric altitude measuring device. It does seem possible flying at an altitude in reality materially below the belief of the ship's officers, the vertical currents of the squall might have forced the ship down into the hilltop.

"That fire and explosion followed a high-speed crash of a hydrogen filled ship into a hill seems almost unavoidable. The loss of life and the complete loss of the ship must be charged primarily to hydrogen. Such a crash to a helium-filled ship might not have been fatal to a single soul."

Rosendahl places little store in reports of observers on the ground that the ship was in trouble before striking. He pointed out a dirigible is no more out of control than an ocean liner in a storm.

While indicating the fatal qualities of hydrogen the airman recalled the many successful flights through dangerous storms of other ships filled with the same gas. They have even been struck by lightning, he said, without suffering.

CONFIDENCE UNSHAKEN

The disaster, like the terrible catastrophe in this country which he and a few others survived, leaves him unshaken in confidence that airships are practical and that their perfection will proceed.

"Ships can be replaced," he added, "but the great loss is that of the larger part of an already too-small nucleus of trained and experienced airship personnel.

"There are those who will condemn the airships in general as a result of this loss. They will even read into it the doom of the airship.

"Regardless of the cause, however, loss of the R-101 does not condemn the modern helium-inflated rigid airship.

"We in the United States," he continued, "can never be too thankful to Providence for our bounteous supply of helium. It is through its agency that the airship project will go on to a successful attainment and through it the fleets of modern airships of the near future will perform their appointed tasks over the ocean expanses of the world."

DR. ECKENER PUZZLED OVER CAUSE OF CRASH

LEIPSIC (Germany) Oct. 6. (AP)—Dr. Hugo Eckener, master of the Graf Zeppelin, told the paper Neue Leipziger Zeitung here yesterday he is puzzled by reports of the rainstorm which forced the R-101 down and is supposed to have caused the disaster.

The dynamic lift of the R-101, he said, is about the same as that of the Graf Zeppelin and the Graf during her South American cruise had to fight rain with a load of as high as 7000 pounds, which, however, it overcame dynamically without casting off ballast.

Dr. Eckener stressed that information available so far is insufficient on which to base a conclusion and that the real cause is still a mystery to him. But, he said, he cannot conceive of a rainstorm alone being responsible.

"We have demonstrated clearly that an airship can be navigated through worse rainstorms," he said. "We have shown that airships are really a safe means of passenger transport."

Dr. Eckener has been invited by the British government to give expert testimony in London in connection with the disaster, but has not yet been able to decide whether he will accept.

Regarding a proposal that the United States Congress be asked to withdraw the ban on exporting helium, the noninflammable and nonexplosive lifting gas, Dr. Eckener said today he knows such a plan is afoot, but that it is nowise sure his new Zeppelin, the L-128, will use helium. This gas is produced principally in the United States.

more be given the 1932 convention.

No action was taken on either one of the bids and it was voted the committee report to the convention that it had found both Los Angeles and Detroit prepared to handle the convention and asked the convention vote on the matter. Both Brucker and Quinn will be given five minutes in which to present their bids to the convention. It is expected the selection will be made Wednesday morning.

The committee will also report to the national executive committee that a recommendation has been made that all future conventions be held between July 1 and September 30.

Aside from President Hoover's address and a wholly unexpected twosentence "speech," which former President Coolidge consented to make, the chief business of the convention today was the adoption of the report of Commander Bodenhamer, calling for greater activity on behalf of disabled veterans and dependent children of veterans.

WAR LEADER CHEERED

Although Commander Bodenhamer strove hard to expedite the business of the opening assembly, the crowd was plainly in no mood to cut short its shouted welcomes to such gallant war-time figures as Gen. Henri Gouraud, its own battle-blinded national Vice-Commander, Frank Schoble of Wyncote, Pa., Gen. Pershing and others.

Nor did it forget two grand old men of another war, James E. Jewell, commander-in-chief of the Grand Army of the Republic, and Edwin J. Foster of Worcester, Past Commander, who rose happily to acknowledge the tumult which broke out at mention of their names.

The convention was equally impartial in bestowing its plaudits on the distaff side when Mrs. Donald McRae, Jr., of Council Bluffs, Iowa, National President of the Legion Auxiliary, was presented to it by Commander Bodenhamer.

Whisky Seizure Legality Tested

LOUISVILLE, Oct. 6. (AP)—Suit to test the constitutionality of seizure of whisky from a locker in the Pendennis Club by Federal agents during a raid August 9 was filed in United States District Court here today by Walker H. Bowman, Jr.

The suit is against Thomas J. Sparks, United States District Attorney; Joseph Phillips, deputy prohibition administrator, and Paul Sullivan, agent on whose information the search warrant was obtained.

VICTIMS WILL SHARE GRAVE

Single Funeral Service for Those Killed on R-101 to Be Conducted

LONDON, Oct. 6. (AP)—Burial of the bodies of all those lost aboard the R-101 probably will be in a common grave and at a single ceremony.

The Air Ministry tonight mailed letters to relatives saying that because of the impossibility of identifying the majority of the bodies with any certainty a general burial service would be dignified and appropriate.

R-101'S SHADOW ON CONFERENCE

Imperial Session Saddened by Aerial Disaster

MacDonald Chokingly Tells of His Great Grief

He Mourns Lord Thomson as Dearest Colleague

LONDON, Oct. 6. (AP)—The Imperial Conference met today in the shadow of the greatest aviation disaster of all time—the crash of the dirigible R-101 in France yesterday.

The chief delegates met this morning at No. 10 Downing street, adopting a motion of tribute to the men who died in the R-101, and to their relatives.

For the most part, however, they listened as Prime Minister Ramsay MacDonald told them what the loss of one of these men — Lord Thomson, Air Minister—meant to him personally.

"Many of you in this room are prime ministers," said Mr. MacDonald in a voice almost breaking with emotion. "You know what a solitary post it is. There are times when even the dearest of one's friends cannot lift the burden from one's shoulders.

"Lord Thomson had been the dearest of my colleagues."

In the afternoon the heads of the delegations continued their session under the presidency of the Australian Premier, James H. Scullin.

The work done consisted chiefly in reviewing a variety of questions connected with imperial political and legal relations preparatory to passing them on to a committee headed by Lord Sankey, which will hold its first meeting tomorrow.

The two principal matters thus disposed of are the problem of nationality and the right of appeal by any individual in the dominions to the judicial committee of the British privy council, a topic in which the Irish Free State is particularly interested.

The next plenary session will be conducted Wednesday, and those in close touch with the conference say it will be disclosed great progress has been made since the opening.

BRAZIL REVOLT TRIUMPH SEEN

Leaders Expect to Control Republic in Few Days

Eighty Thousand Marching Against Rio de Janeiro

Nine States Now Listed in Revolutionary Column

MONTEVIDEO (Uruguay) Oct. 6. (AP)—Leaders in the Brazilian revolt asserted in dispatches reaching here tonight the triumph of the revolution is only a few days away. An army of 80,000 men is marching on Rio de Janeiro and nine States, in both north and south, have rebelled against the government of President Luis.

The States in arms against the Federal administration are Rio Grande do Sul, Santa Caterina and Parana in Southern Brazil; Minas Geara in central section and Piahpy, Ceara, Rio Grande do Nonte, Parahyba and Pernambuco in the north.

Gen. Francisco Flores da Cunha, Federal deputy and leader of the revolutionary troops, says he cannot make definite statement as to the States of Rio de Janeiro and Sao Paulo, where the government is strongest. In addition, some reports say revolutionary outbreaks have occurred in the great northern State of Para.

READY TO ATTACK

Gen. Da Cunha asserts that in case Sao Paulo and the capital resist, the revolutionary troops now moving toward Sao Paulo are ready to attack them. This powerful body, numbering 80,000, comprises infantry, cavalry and artillery from Rio Grande do Sul, Santa Caterina and Parana.

He said when the revolution triumphs a provisional civil government will take charge, with elections for a President and Congress to be called later.

Advices from Rio Grande do Sul indicate the State government has set up a sort of provisional regime already. This State, which is dominated by Getulio Vargas, defeated by Julio Prestes in the elections last March, today nominated Lindolf Collor as its diplomatic representative to Argentina. He left for Buenos Aires by airplane.

GAINS FROM ARMY

The Federal military forces continue to go over to the side of the revolutionaries.

Officers of the Seventh Cavalry were at first arrested, but now have returned to their organization for the northward drive to Sao Paulo. The rank and file of the Sixth Cavalry is backing the revolt, but its officers refused to join and surrendered on condition they be permitted to leave the country. They were taken from Allegrete, where the regiment was stationed, to the Uruguayan frontier and released.

In addition to the recruiting of the regular troops, the rebel leaders have begun conscripting men between the ages of 21 and 35.

Gen. Gil Almeida, who commanded the Federal troops in the vicinity of Porto Alegre, which was captured last week, at first opposed the revolutionary movement, but now has joined it.

In the city of Santa Ana, which likewise was taken, public offices are open and functioning normally under the revolutionaries.

Leaders of the revolt are amused by news that the Federal government had declared all Brazil in a state of siege until December 31, next. In Rio Grande do Sul they regard it as a joke, they say, since all the State is in arms against the central government and no Federal troops remain to make the measure effective.

GRAVITY OF SITUATION PROMPTS NEW ACTION

RIO DE JANEIRO, Oct. 5. (AP)—Owing to the gravity of the situation brought about by the revolt to the southward, President Luis today decreed martial law throughout Brazil until December 31.

This follows similar action Saturday when the government proclaimed a state of siege in the State of Rio Grande do Sul and Minas Geraes, where the revolution originated.

All banks were closed today by government order until further notice. The step was taken to avoid speculation in exchange. The banks have not quoted exchange rates since Saturday noon.

In addition, the government has suspended air mail service out of the country on the Pan-American, Condor and French Aero Postale Lines.

Chicago Bomb Throwers Far Behind Record

CHICAGO, Oct. 6. (AP) — Bombings in Chicago are far behind schedule this year.

"Boring from within" by business men's spies, convictions of bombers, confiscation of dynamite caches and general law enforcement activity against coercion of business through explosives, are credited with holding down the total bombings in a report today by the Employers' Association. So far this year there have been fifty-four bomb outrages; at this time in 1929 there had been 93 and the total for that year was 115.

The tally, however, carried a total damage for this year of $433,850, compared with $197,109 for all 1929 and $141,360 for 1928.

PHILIPPINE CHOLERA OUTBURST CHECKED

MANILA, Oct. 6. (AP)—The cholera quarantine against Manila and Iloo-Ilo was lifted today, the disease having been eliminated in those cities after a fight of several weeks by health authorities. The Island of Samar now is the only quarantine area in the Philippines and it probably will be released tomorrow.

The disease is described by authorities as being under control throughout the islands, only a few isolated cases having been reported last week. Manila was quarantined about five weeks.

TEXAS RAINS CAUSE FLOOD

Homes Carried Off and Stores Inundated in Brady; Heavy Damage Done but No Lives Lost

DALLAS, Oct. 6. (AP)—Texas streams are overloaded with the surplus water from long-parched lands today after torrential rains had fallen generally over the State, flood water spreading from rivers and creeks to cause appreciable damage in some communities. No lives were lost.

Brady was the hardest hit when the usually tranquil Brady River spread from three to eight feet of water over several blocks of the business section, carrying away from thirty to forty small homes, leaving from 200 to 300 persons homeless, damaging merchandise stocks approximately $250,000, and floating off about 1000 bales of cotton stored in a shed near the river's banks.

The light-and-power plant was submerged and put out of business, the water supply was menaced and there was a probability of a food shortage.

The water rose eight feet in the Chamber of Commerce Building, submerged the Courthouse Plaza and from sixty to seventy business houses had water in them ranging in depth from three to eight feet.

The Guadalupe River was on an eighteen-foot rise near Kerrville, after three days of continuous rain, measuring seven and three-quarter inches, in that hill country. Tonight the water is receding slowly.

The river waters carried away four small houses in the vicinity of the United States Veterans' Hospital at Legion.

The San Saba River in the vicinity of Menard is the highest in twenty years, and the flood waters are spreading over a large area of lowlands. It is believed all live stock had been driven to safety, however.

The Rio Grande at Del Rio, where more than ten inches of rain fell, had risen eight feet and still is rising.

BANDIT GANG GET $50,000 FROM TRUCK

Bulk Silver Carted Away by Connecticut Robbers as They Fetter Driver

KILLINGLY (Ct.) Oct. 6. (AP)—Five or six gunmen today held up a truck driver, bound and gagged him and escaped with bulk silver valued by police at $50,000.

The driver, Cornelius A. Wines, was blindfolded, bound and gagged and tied to the front bumper of the truck. The gunmen then loaded the silver, which was bound for dealers in Providence, in two automobiles and escaped.

The silver is said to have been shipped by Handy & Harmon of Bridgeport.

Wines told police he freed himself after an hour and went to the State police barracks at Danielson.

He said the robbers leaped on the running board while the truck was traveling slowly up a hill.

Mother's Error Sends Slayer Into Hysterics

SAN QUENTIN PRISON, Oct. 6. (AP)—Mrs. Mary Ramos, mother of Ernest Dias, convicted Oakland slayer, sent her son into hysterics today when she visited him here and mistakenly informed him his appeal from the death sentence had been denied.

Dias, convicted slayer of Stanley Montero and Mary Munos of Oakland, screamed and fell writhing to the floor when Mrs. Ramos told him his last hope for life was gone. He was taken to the prison hospital for treatment.

Dias's appeal, filed with the State Supreme Court, has not been acted on.

W.C.T.U. HAS NEW AGENT AT CAPITAL

Miss Isora Scott, Former New York School-Teacher, Takes Place of Mrs. Yost

WASHINGTON, Oct. 6. (AP)—The prohibition activities Mrs. Ella A. Yost dropped to take the leadership of women for the Republican National Committee have been shouldered by Miss Isora Scott, who turned to temperance work four years ago, after long experience as a New York school-teacher.

To the post of capital legislative representative of the Woman's Christian Temperance Union Miss Scott came very quietly, last week. National officers selected her shortly after Mrs. Yost resigned.

Miss Scott said today education has been her chief personal interest for many years. She went to school in Kansas, she said, and so "grew up a dry."

Miss Scott taught in a New York high school until four years ago she became editor of the Union Signal, official organ of the W.C.T.U. For the past two years she has been superintendent of the department of peace and arbitration for the world's Woman's Christian Temperance Union. She attended the London naval conference, and then went with Mrs. Ida B. Wise Smith, national vice-president of the W.C.T.U., to visit leaders of temperance work in eastern countries.

ATLANTA WAGES CENSUS BATTLE

Court to Rule on Claim for Dixie City Population

WASHINGTON, Oct. 6. (AP)—Atlanta's contention it has a population of 360,692 instead of 270,367, was laid before the District of Columbia Supreme Court today where decision was withheld pending further study by the court.

Seeking a court order to compel Census Director Steuart to publish the larger figure, counsel for the Georgia city, contended the Georgia Legislature had a right to increase the area of the metropolis from thirty-four to 184 square miles. In this area, five corporate cities and fifteen communities totaling about 90,000 population are located.

Government counsel pointed out that the borough of Atlanta has no authority over the other municipalities under the charter.

Within his knowledge, Justice Siddons said, no similar charter had ever been granted in this country.

Need of Stability to End Depression Stressed

BOSTON, Oct. 6. (AP)—Following is the text of President Hoover's address at the fiftieth annual convention of the American Federation of Labor this afternoon at Boston:

Members of the American Federation of Labor:

In his invitation that I should address you on this occasion President Green spoke in terms of high praise of the benefits to labor from the nation-wide co-operation initiated at the White House last November for mitigation of the effects of the present depression.

At those White House conferences the leaders of business and industry undertook to do their utmost to maintain the rate of wages. They also undertook in case of shortened employment to distribute work as evenly as possible over their regular body of employees. The leaders of labor undertook to urge effort in production and to prevent conflict and dispute. The public officials and the managers of industry and utilities undertook to expand construction work to mitigate unemployment.

WAGES MAINTAINED

We have now had nearly a year in which to observe the working of these arrangements. These, the first undertakings of this character in our history, have been carried out in astonishing degree. There are, of course, exceptions, but in the large sense our great manufacturing companies, the railways, utilities, and business houses have been able to maintain the established wages. Employers have spread their employment systematically. For the first time in more than a century of these recurring depressions we have been practically free of bitter industrial conflict.

The fine co-operation in the providing organized emergency employment through Federal, State and municipal public works and utility construction has been an important contribution in taking up the slack of unemployment. The measure of success is easily demonstrated. The Department of Commerce reports to me that public works and the construction work by the railways and utilities in the last eight months amount to about $4,300,000,000, as compared with about $4,000,000,000 in the same period of the boom year of 1929, or an increase of about $300,000,000. In all previous depressions these works decreased, so that the gain is more than even the apparent figures.

CO-OPERATION CITED

We have thus had nation-wide co-operation and team play which have greatly ameliorated the hardship of this depression. These measures have served as a practical system of unemployment insurance. There are some unexpected by-products. Through distribution of employment, large numbers of workers have been saved from being forced into competition for new jobs; the sense of security that the job is theirs by part-time employment has contributed to relieve much of the fear, despondency and discouragement that come to men and women in search for new jobs in hard times.

I would indeed be remiss if I did not express an appreciation, in which I know you share, to the thousands of men in leadership of business and labor who have served in bringing about these results. In the face of decreasing prices it has required great courage, resolution, and devotion to the interest of their employees and the public, on the part of our great manufacturers, our railways, utilities, business houses and public officials.

FEWER DISPUTES

The leaders of labor have likewise contributed their part. Our freedom from strike and lockout is well evidenced by the statement of the Department of Labor that in the last depression there were more than 2000 labor disputes, many of them of major character and accompanied by great public disorder, as compared with less than 300 disputes in this period, and these mostly of minor character. And the great body of labor itself deserves much praise, for never was its individual efficiency higher than today.

The undertakings made at that time represent a growing sense of mutual responsibility and a willingness to bend private interests to the general good.

We still have a burden of unemployment. Although it is far less than one-half in proportion to our workers than in either England or Germany, no one can contemplate its effect in hardship and discouragement without new resolves to continued exertion and to further effort in solution of our greatest economic problem—stability in employment.

HIGHER STANDARDS

Your chairman has spoken of my interest in the development of an American basis of wage. Both the directors of industry and your leaders have made great progress toward a new and common ground in economic conceptions, which, I am confident, has had a profound effect upon our economic progress during the last few years. That is the conception that industry must be constantly renovated by scientific research and invention; that labor welcomes these labor-saving devices; that labor gives its full and unrestricted effort to reduce costs by the use of these machines and methods; that the savings from these reduced costs shall be shared between labor, employer, and the consumer. It is a philosophy of mutual interest. It is a practice of co-operation for an advantage that is not only mutual, but universal. Labor gains either through increase of wage or reduction of cost of living or shortened hours. Employers gain through enlarged consumption, and a wider spread distribution of their products, and more stable business. Consumers gain through lower cost of what they buy. Indeed, mass production must be accompanied by mass consumption through increased standards of living.

NEW CONCEPTIONS

A conception of this sort does not at once find universal application. We ought not forget that it is something new in the world's economic life. And there are, of course, those who do not yet believe. It is as far apart as the two poles from the teachings of the economists of 100 years ago, who took it for granted that the well-being of the worker could be purchased only at the expense of the well-being of the employer or some other group in the community, and further that wages could never rise above subsistence or the number of workers would so increase as to pull the weaker back into the cesspool of poverty.

If we survey the nation broadly we shall find that the diffusion of cost economies between wages, profits and prices has worked out fairly well. In fact, due to competition and the necessity to average profits over the losses of lean years, industry in the national sense is probably today getting the least of the three.

From the acceptance of this basis of industrial relations I believe America is making more progress toward security, better living, and more hours of leisure than those countries which are seeking to continue old conceptions of the wage and to patch up the old system with doles of various kinds which limit the independence of men. Any comparison of the situation of our labor with the labor of those other countries, whether in times of high prosperity or today in times of temporary depression, should carry conviction that we are on the right track.

SYSTEM STUDIED

No system is or can be free of difficulties or problems. The rapidity of our inventions and discoveries has intensified many problems in adjusting what we nowadays call technological unemployment. I am co-operating with President Green and representatives of employers' associations in an exhaustive inquiry into its various phases. If we stretch our vision over the last ten years, we shall find much to convince us that the problem is not at all insurmountable in the long run. It is estimated by some of our statisticians that in this period over 2,000,000 workers have been displaced from older industry due to labor-saving devices. Some way, somehow, most of these were re-established in new industry and new services. Nor is there any reason to believe that we can not revolve our economic system in such fashion that further new discoveries and inventions will further increase our standard of living and thereby continue to absorb men who are displaced in the older industries. Nevertheless there is a period of readjustment in each case of new discovery, and industry has need of a larger understanding of the facts.

It is this process of readjustment that partly causes our present difficulties in the bituminous-coal industry. In that industry the encroachments of electrical power, of natural gas, of improvements in consumption, have operated to slow down the annual demand from its high peak, leaving us most excessive production capacity. At the same time, the introduction of labor-saving devices has decreased the demand for mine labor. In addition to its other difficulties must be counted the effect of the multitude of 6000 independent mine owners among 7000 mines, which has resulted in destructive competition and final breakdown of wages.

All these conditions have culminated in a demoralization of the industry and a depth of human misery in some sections which is wholly out of place in our American system. The situation has been under investigation of our government departments, by Congress, together with commissions and committees of one sort or another, for the past ten years. The facts are known. One key to solution seems to me to lie in reduction of this destructive competition. It certainly is not the purpose of our competitive system that it should produce a competition which destroys stability in an industry and reduces to poverty all those within it. Its purpose is rather to maintain that degree of competition which induces progress and protects the consumer. If our regulatory laws be at fault they should be revised.

NEED STABILITY

But most of these problems are problems of stability. With the job secure, other questions can be solved with much more assurance. You, as workers, know best of all how much a man gains from security in his job. It is the insurance of his manliness, it upholds the personal valuation of himself and of his family. To establish a system that assures this security is the supreme challenge to our responsibility as representatives of millions of our fellow-workers and fellow-citizens. The discharge of that responsibility does not allow present difficulties to rob us of our clear vision or the wholesome faith and courageous aggressive character for which our country has been long the leader of the world.

The demonstration of nation-wide co-operation and team play and the absence of conflict during this depression have increased the stability and wholesomeness of our industrial and social structure. We are justified in feeling that something like a new and improved tool has been added to the working kit for the solution of our future problems.

No one would invite either war or business depression, but from them may come some new inspirations. We find in these times courage and sympathy, generous helpfulness from our work people to those unfortunates suffering not alone from the present but from fear for their future. We find inspiration in the courage of our employers, the resolution of the nation that we shall build steadily to prevent and mitigate the destructiveness of these great business storms. It is this inspiration which gives confidence for the future, and confirms our belief in fundamental human righteousness and the value of our American conception of mutuality of interest in our daily work.

DUST OF HEROES STIRRED

Hoover Joins Today in Commemoration of Battle That Turned Tide of Revolution

KING'S MOUNTAIN (N. C.) Oct. 6. (AP)—Upon a steep-sided hill where, 150 years ago, a band of Revolutionary War patriots routed British forces under Maj. Patrick L. Ferguson, President Hoover, the governors of the two Carolinas and tens of thousands of others will gather tomorrow to commemorate the sesquicentennial of that battle.

The President, for the space of five hours Tuesday, will be guest of this little town, ten miles from the actual battle ground, and of the two States.

He will review 3000 Regular Army and National Guard troops, the largest military force assembled in the Carolinas since the World War, and afterward will speak for twenty minutes at the site of the battle.

The nation's two great broadcasting systems will carry his words to millions of listeners-in.

GREAT-GRANDDAUGHTERS OF WAR HERO LIVE HERE

When President Hoover speaks today at the sesquicentennial celebration of the battle of King's Mountain, on the border line between North and South Carolina, there will be two women of this community who, by all the laws of fitness, should be among those present, for they are the great grand-daughters, only living direct descendants, of Joseph Greer, known in history as the "King's Mountain Messenger."

They are Mrs. Nathaniel Beggs of 251 North Kenmore avenue and her sister, Mrs. Lawrence F. Stephenson of Gardena. They would have accepted the invitation of the sesquicentennial committee to be honor guests of the occasion had it not been for an illness which prevented Mrs. Stephenson from leaving.

The victory of King's Mountain is credited with having turned the tide of battle in favor of the Colonists during the Revolutionary War, and immediately thereafter Greer was chosen to carry the news of the victory to President Washington and Continental Congress in session in Philadelphia, a trip which entailed untold hardships and grave dangers.

For his distinguished service in the Revolution, Greer was granted a 2600-acre tract of land in Tennessee, which until a very recent date still was owned by members of his family.

A short while ago Mrs. Beggs and Mrs. Stephenson disposed of it and upon examining its contents, discovered innumerable relics of the Colonial period, including homespun suits, made for their distinguished ances or from home-grown flax and woven by his wife, documents signed by every Colonial President, letters more than 138 years old written with a quill pen and almost as clear as the day they were penned; old jewels and rare specimens of early American furniture. Many of these relics form the Greer collection in the National Museum in Washington, D.C., others have been given to the Tennessee State Museum and the sisters have brought still others to their homes here.

American Legion Told Needs for World Tranquility

More Than Treaties Needed to End Wars, He Avers

Obligations of Citizenship Stressed by President

BOSTON, Oct. 6. (AP)—President Hoover's speech before the American Legion national convention here this morning follows:

My Fellow Countrymen:

It is with a great deal of pleasure that I am able to meet here with the American Legion.

I hope I may venture to claim from some years of service during the great war a measure of comradeship with the men who fought in that war. I understand your variety of French perfectly. I know from intimate experience, and I intend to hold in confidence, the first reaction you had from a passing shell, and the home-like appearance of shell holes under certain circumstances. I shall maintain secret your opinion of those who profess indifference or to the glory in passing bullets, or insects, or the mud and filth of the trenches, or days and weeks in the wet and cold.

The glories of war are not in the heartbreaks of passing buddies and the thousand tragedies of the battle line. Its glories do not lie in its surroundings—they lie rather in the spirit, the sacrifices, the devotion of those who go cheerfully and courageously into the trenches, and the ultimate triumph of those lofty ideals for which they gave their all.

MILLIONS REDEDICATED

It was inevitable that men who had lived through that great common experience, who had engaged in supreme adventure with death, should combine into associations of lifelong comradeship. Yet it was not alone the comradeship of high adventure that instinctively called your organization into being. It was the common understanding which war called forth, the common experience from which sprang the highest emotions of patriotism—that shoulder-to-shoulder companionship in an idealism which transfigured men's lives, the ability to do so. This we know is the willingness of the millions who shared in that experience came home from it rededicated to the further service of their country. But great as was that service, performed under impulse of the high emotions of war, the service to the great ideals of peace is oftimes even more difficult and oftimes requires more sustained courage. It was, therefore, with deep sympathy that I witnessed the birth of the American Legion in France in 1919.

CONSTITUTION QUOTED

At that memorable meeting you sensed this high purpose and expressed those lofty ideals of your peace-time service in the preamble to your constitution, which reads in part:

"To uphold and defend the Constitution of the United States of America; to maintain law and order; to inculate a sense of individual obligation to the community, State, and nation; to combat the autocracy of both the classes and the masses; to make right the master of might; to promote peace and good will on earth; to safeguard and transmit to posterity the principles of justice, freedom, and democracy; to consecrate and sanctify our comradeship by our devotion to mutual helpfulness."

That, indeed, is the real preface to American citizenship.

It is my purpose to speak upon some of these ideals and purposes, for idealism must be translated into cold realism of the day-to-day task of citizenship.

At the moment you made that declaration you sensed an imperative national need. You foresaw that the aftermath of war would be a period of change, a period of disturbed mind, of loosened moorings; a period when evil forces among men might lead to violence and crime; a period which demanded understanding and wise restraint if the basis of all society and all progress were to be maintained. You realized that liberty and freedom can be won on the battlefield, but they can be held only by ordered government in peace. You realized, in fact, that without ordered government the very sacrifices which you had made, the fruition of your high hopes, your endurance, your courage, might come to naught.

YEARS PROVE NEED

Eleven years of experience in our own country and in every country engaged in that war have proved the need of that inspiration to active citizenship. It has been a period of readjustment, a period of challenge to democratic institutions, a time when the world has had to contend with a greater mood of violence. Even today nearly one-half of the population of our globe is in a state of great unrest or a state of revolution.

Among these ideals was: "To promote peace and good will upon earth." Those indeed were courageous and constructive words at the moment when the guns had barely been silenced and the fires of hate were still burning fiercely. They were the words of brave men, of the soldiers from the trenches, men who respected a courageous enemy, who in clear vision saw that the future hope of the world lay in good will, not in hate. It was the real feeling of men who had fought and who knew the dreadfulness of war.

In that statement you gave no glorification to war. It was a pledge to peace based upon freedom and justice, and without this civilization itself must fail. It was a statement neither of pacifism nor militarism.

PEACE REQUIRES COURAGE

Real peace in the world requires something more than the documents which we sign to terminate wars. Peace requires unremitting, courageous campaigns, laid with strategy and carried on successfully on a hundred fronts and sustained in the spirit and from the hearts of every individual in every town and village of our country.

In the great intangibles of human emotion, respect is inseparable from good will. The maintenance of respect requires that we sustain a preparedness for defense that is impregnable yet that contains no threat of aggression.

You have maintained that the development of good will also requires the firm establishment of confidence in our sense of international justice. This becomes of double importance from us because of the overpowering strength of our country in its relations with many nations. We have to remember that during the great war we demonstrated not only our military power, but also our ability to quickly organize it and the valor to use it. After the war the disturbed condition of the world made it necessary to increase our defense establishment beyond the pre-war basis. Above all, we made a more rapid recovery from the vast losses of the great war than other nations of the world. Our national income has expanded to embrace more than one-third of the whole commercial world. As a result we have become a dominant economic power. Our citizens have spread their trade and finance into every corner of the earth. From these tremendous happenings in our country some leaders in other countries came to believe that they were in the presence of the birth of a new imperial power intent upon dominating the destinies and the freedom of other peoples. Such a conclusion would be the logical deduction from many instances during 3000 years of history when the exploitation of other peoples has been the outcome of the

Finally rising slowly from his seat as the tumult gave no indication of abating, he advanced to the microphone and stilled the applause, saying:

"To save the time of this convention, I am going to give you one sentence:

"You have paid your debt to Lafayette but you still owe a debt to yourselves and to the United States of America."

CRIES FOR SPEECH

President and Mrs. Hoover joined in the applause as Mr. Coolidge sat down and they again clapped their hands when Mrs. Coolidge was introduced with cries for a speech once more ringing through the hall.

Afterward Mr. Bodenhamer told the convention he had given Mr. Coolidge a solemn promise to Mr. Coolidge he would not be called upon to speak.

At the federation meeting, William Green, president of the labor organization, said he had always interpreted the Chief Executive's statement in favor of high wages "as an indorsement of the wage philosophy announced by the Atlantic City convention of the American Federation of Labor."

AVERTED WAGE CUT

"The President demonstrated his faith and confidence in the principle of high wages when he called a conference of representatives of labor and industry at the White House last November." Green added, "at that conference he suggested that peace be preserved in industry and that wages be maintained during the period of unemployment through which we were passing. The great influence which he exercised on that occasion served to maintain wage standards and to prevent a general reduction in wages."

A great crowd cheered Mr. Hoover as he left his hotel for the second address. Additional throngs cheered him as he drove through the flag-decorated streets.

NOT ON THE STATUTE BOOKS . . .

The legal restrictions under which all institutions for savings operate, establish their minimum requirements of safety.

But the prudent saver looks for further restrictions that are not on the statute books—for restrictions self-imposed by conservative institutions for savings to afford greater strength and liquidity than the law demands.

The law does not require that our Statement of Condition be free from non-liquid items such as furniture and fixtures and real estate. Nevertheless, we have voluntarily written down these items to $1 each.

The law does not specify that we should be free from bank indebtedness. Yet our Statement shows that we have not assumed an obligation of this nature, since it would come before the obligations to our savers.

Throughout our Statement you will find similar voluntary protective measures that reinforce our legally maintained restrictions. They explain our flawless record of 41 years and our position as the largest building and loan association in the Nation.

STOPS LIMITED ON MAIL LINE

New Transcontinental Air Service Start Set

New York-to-Los Angeles Run Meant for Speed

Thirty-nine-Hour Schedule in Effect Next Week

By a "Times" Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON, Oct. 6. (Exclusive)—Assistant Postmaster-General Glover, in charge of the air-mail service, announced today that service over the New York-Los Angeles transcontinental air-mail route will begin the 15th inst. Mr. Glover, in making public the schedule over this third transcontinental route, pointed out that the department has conscientiously endeavored to make a sufficient number of stops to provide adequate air-mail service for the greatest number without slowing down the service unduly.

While the department has been besieged by requests from cities along this route asking that they be included in the stops to be made, Mr. Glover declared that if a majority of such requests had been granted the distinct advantages of the air-mail service would have been nullified and it would have resulted merely in a local service, with the important factor of speed entirely eliminated.

SCHEDULE ISSUED

The schedule issued by the department calls for a thirty-nine-hour run westward, including a layover at Kansas City during the night, and a thirty-four-hour and eighteen-minute time eastward.

The following schedule will be maintained from Los Angeles to New York, until the airway is fully lighted, when a twenty-four-hour service will be inaugurated:

Leave Los Angeles at 5 a.m., Pacific time, from Western Air Express, Alhambra; Winslow, Ariz., 9:50, mountain time; Albuquerque, N. M., 12:15 p.m.; Amarillo, Tex., 3:35 p.m., central time; Wichita, Kan., 6:26 p.m., and arrive at Kansas City, 8 p.m. Leave Kansas City next day at 6:35 a.m.; leave St. Louis at 8:36 a.m.; Indianapolis at 10:38 a.m.; Columbus, O., at 1:15 p.m., eastern time; Pittsburgh at 2:52 p.m.; Harrisburg at 4:35 p.m.; Philadelphia at 5:39 p.m., and arrive at New York, Newark Airport, at 6:15 p.m.

Westbound mail and passengers will leave the Newark Airport at 8 a.m., eastern standard time; Philadelphia at 8:51 a.m.; Harrisburg at 10:03 a.m.; Pittsburgh at 12:01 p.m.; Columbus at 1:51 p.m., eastern time; Indianapolis at 2:40 p.m., central time; St. Louis at 4:57 p.m., and arrive at Kansas City at 7:03 p.m. Leave Kansas City at 8:30 a.m. next day; Wichita at 10:25 a.m.; Amarillo at 1:10 p.m.; Albuquerque at 3:45 p.m., mountain time; Winslow at 5 p.m., and arrive at Los Angeles at 8 p.m., Pacific time.

ROUTE NOT LIGHTED

The layover point at Kansas City is necessary because the airway is not completely lighted and will probably not be ready for night flying before January 1, 1931.

The schedule from Los Angeles to Kansas City follows the present passenger operation now maintained by the Western Air Express but from Kansas City to New York it forms an entirely new picture.

There is also provided in the schedule a branch service from St. Louis via Springfield, Mo., Tulsa and Oklahoma City to Amarillo, Tex. It has not been possible to connect this leg of the schedule with the New York-Kansas City layout because of the necessity of operating a daylight flight from St. Louis to Amarillo. It will, however, afford advantageous connection to and from St. Louis and the Southwest; will connect with the through-plane service at Amarillo after a night layover, and will eventually be worked into the continuous transcontinental schedule after the lighted airway is completed.

Preference for Disabled Men Under Attack

WASHINGTON, Oct. 6. (AP)—The National Civil Service Reform League today urged President Hoover to rescind or modify the executive order granting disabled war veterans preference for Federal positions which was issued by President Coolidge shortly before he left office.

The league said a study of the effects of the Coolidge order proved it unfair not only to the large number of nondisabled veterans, but also to many of the disabled.

Under the order disabled veterans have 10 points added to their earned ratings in civil service examinations, and if this brings their mark above 70, minimum passing grade, they must be preferred for appointment to public positions above all other competitors.

MODEL SUES FOR SHADOW PICTURE

NEW YORK, Oct. 6. (AP) — An artist's model, Mrs. Doris Podmore, filed suit for $250,000 today against the American Tobacco Company. She says the company used her picture without consent in a cigarette advertisement and caused to be silhouetted beside it "a shadow of a grossly fat woman." She became ill, she asserts, as a result of "ridicule and contempt" to which she was subjected.

AVIATOR HENDERSON WILL SURVIVE HURTS

EL PASO, Oct. 6. (AP)—Clifford Henderson, Chicago aviator, is recovering in a hospital here today from injuries received Saturday when he made a forced landing on railroad tracks near Marcia, N. M. Henderson, en route from Amarillo, Tex., to El Paso, became lost in a canyon. Unable to turn because of the narrow gorge he landed on the tracks missing a seventy-five-foot precipice by a few feet.

Parents Given Nine-Point Program to Bring Up Progeny in Path They Should Go

WASHINGTON, Oct. 6. (AP)—A nine-point program for parents to follow in training their children was proposed today by the Children's Bureau of the Labor Department.

Explaining that "to be a good father or mother is one of the hardest jobs on earth," but that "it is the finest, biggest, job too," the bureau made the following suggestions to parents:

"Tell and act the truth to your children.

"Keep your promises, good or bad.

"Decide which things are most important for a child to do and then be consistent about seeing he does them. Do not nag him about little things that do not matter much.

"Do not say 'no' one time and 'yes' the next time for the same thing. Your child will never learn that way what is good to do and what is bad.

"Break up bad habits by keeping the child so busy with interesting things to do that he forgets the old habit.

"Pay no attention to him when he tries to get what he wants by temper tantrums, by whining, or by vomiting.

"See that he gets things (if they are good for him) only when he is quiet and happy and polite.

"Keep cool and quiet yourself. Speak in a quiet voice.

Jury Convicts Pair of Murder

REDWOOD CITY, Oct. 6. (AP)—Mrs. Minnie Roderick and William Woodring were found guilty of murder in the first degree by a jury here late today for the slaying of Frank Roderick, the woman's husband. The jury recommended life imprisonment. The jurors deliberated one hour and forty minutes.

The pair were convicted of killing Roderick and throwing his body down an abandoned well. Both sought to prove their innocence and each tried to throw the guilt on the other.

OAKIE CASE DEATH LAID TO SUICIDE

Toledo Coroner Returns Woman Demise Verdict Without Quizzing Actor

TOLEDO (O.) Oct. 6. (AP)—Returning a verdict of suicide, Coroner Kreft closed his inquest into the death of Mrs. Marion Lowry, 25 years of age, today without demanding a sworn statement from Jack Oakie, motion-picture actor.

The Coroner, who announced Saturday he would subpoena Oakie as a witness unless Oakie gave him a satisfactory sworn statement concerning the dead girl, said he had heard evidence over the week-end which convinced him Mrs. Lowry committed suicide. He did not reveal the evidence.

Oakie told newspaper men in South Bend, Ind., Saturday he had met Mrs. Lowry casually and attended a party with her and several others last week. Coroner Kreft said he had not talked with Oakie about the case.

FOREST FIRES FOLLOW HEAT

Ten Blazes Reported from All Parts of State

Large Areas of Brush and Timber Devastated

Weather Bureau Warns of Increased Hazard

SACRAMENTO, Oct. 6. (AP)—Reports of ten forest, grass and brush fires from all parts of California were received at the offices of the State Division of Forestry here today, following unusually warm weather over the week-end. All the fires were under control.

Warning against brush burning by ranchers during the present period of high fire hazard was issued by W. B. Rider, deputy State forester. United States weather reports were for continued high temperatures and low humidity, making increased fire hazards.

SMOKERS BLAMED

Fires reported were:

Napa county, 700 acres of brush, grass and young timber west of Rutherford attributed to careless smokers.

Two in Tuolumne county near Jacksonville, both declared incendiary. One swept 400 acres of brush and grass and the other 250 acres.

Madera county, above Coarsegold, fifty acres of brush, grass and young timber, and fifty acres within the Stanislaus National Forest.

WATERSHED SWEPT

San Diego county, on Cottonwood Creek, 1800 acres of brush watershed covering, and 600 acres of water-shed brush in Bratton Valley.

Three in Western Tehama county, one burning 150 acres of grass and brush, another burning 100 acres, and a fire near Paskania covering 300 acres of grass and brush.

Trinity county, 200 acres of timber on Crystal Creek.

INVESTIGATORS HEAR REDS RAVE

Congressional Group Given Astounding Revelations

Communists Boast of Plans to Overthrow Nation

Moscow Directing Activities, Witnesses Admit

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 6. (AP)—Admitted Communist leaders of the Pacific Coast appearing today before a Congressional committee investigating Communism in the United States advocated overthrow of the government and substitution for it of the soviet system of rule.

Their statements drew the fire of Representative Carl Bachmann, a member of the committee, who warned William J. Simons, Communist leader in California and other western States, to confine himself to questions asked him and to avoid "speeches."

Activities of Communists here during the last five years were described by various witnesses, including political officials, Federal Immigration officers, National Guard officers and representatives of the American Legion.

REDS INCREASING

All agreed Communism is on the increase in the West and were of the opinion legislation should be adopted providing for deportation of alien Communists when their activities are shown to be opposed to the welfare of the nation.

Simons proved a fiery witness and assailed the committee's investigation as a direct move against workers of the country and a menace to Communists trying to alleviate conditions of the workers.

Insistent questioning by Representatives Bachmann and Hamilton Fish, Jr., chairman of the committee, brought the admission from Simons that Communists in America are members of the Third Internationale with headquarters at Moscow and proceed under direction of that parent body.

SPEECH CHOKED OFF

His attempt to read a statement purporting to show growing unemployment in America and conditions unfavorable to workers was cut short by Chairman Fish as not pertinent to the hearing.

Simons was asked by Bachmann what he thought would happen if he were to arise before an investigating body in Russia and denounce the soviet.

"Judge for yourself," he replied.

Finally he agreed he would not be "an ideal insurance risk," but added nobody would denounce such an ideal form of government. Under questioning he admitted Russia is ruled by the Communist party, membership of which comprises less than 1 per cent of the population of the country.

QUOTES GERARD

"But that is not as bad as the situation in this country, where, as former Ambassador Gerard pointed out, fifty-nine capitalists rule the nation," said Simons.

Among other witnesses were Capt. Charles Goff of the San Francisco Police Department. He testified he had heard Simons advocate violence against the government and on one occasion, during an unemployment demonstration, he said he heard Simons threaten to seize $1,500,000 from the city treasury to supply jobless workers, if the unemployment situation were not alleviated.

Col. Wayne Allyn of the One Hundred and Fifty-ninth Infantry, California National Guard, said he had discovered a number of Communists had enlisted in National Guard machine-gun companies. He said one was discovered in a San Jose company and another in Berkeley.

Ed Walsh, inspector in charge of the Immigration Bureau, told of attending demonstrations where threats of assassination against high government officials had been made. He advocated deportation of alien Communists.

ALIEN ENEMIES

Other Communist witnesses were Mike Daniels and Maurice Rapport. Both have been arrested frequently for participating in disturbances. Rapport was out on bail when he appeared today.

Both refused to take the oath before testifying, saying they believed in no deity. Daniels, a fruit picker, lives at 823 Second street, Sacramento. He is a Greek alien. Rapport is a Russian.

Both advocated and predicted overthrow of this government by workers and substitution for it of a system whereby workers would rule through a soviet. They outlined the soviet system of government and said in event the American government was overthrown and a soviet substituted the soviet would do away with religion as the seat of all troubles.

BOARD DRAFTS SAMOAN LAWS

Chiefs Summoned to Hear Recommendations Read

American Citizenship Will Be Offered Natives

Bill of Rights Also to Be Drafted for Islanders

PAGO-PAGO (American Samoa) Oct. 6. (AP)—Chiefs of all districts of American Samoa have been summoned by messengers in airplanes from the cruiser Omaha to attend a meeting tomorrow to hear the announcement of principles which the Congressional commission will recommend be embodied in the organic law of Samoa.

The commission, composed of Senator Bingham of Connecticut, Senator Robinson of Arkansas, Representative Beedy of Maine and Representative Williams of Texas, today completed the draft of principles for consideration by the chiefs before it is presented to Congress.

Deliberation thus far by the commission indicates it will make the following recommendations to Congress as parts of the organic law for Samoa, which since 1930 has been administered by a naval officer as Governor:

American citizenship for Samoans; a bill of rights containing constitutional guarantees of liberty, excepting those like trial by jury inapplicable here because of native customs; separation of executive, legislative and judicial functions of government by giving the fono (annual chiefs' meeting) power to make laws and to override the Governor's veto subject to final action by the President; providing for appeal from the judicial decision of the highest court here to the Federal District Court at Honolulu.

Future policy concerning land laws still constitutes probably the most perplexing problem. In its solution the commission is expected to be guided largely by the wishes of natives.

Clark Leaves to See Stimson

SALT LAKE CITY, Oct. 6. (AP)—J. Reuben Clark, newly appointed United States Ambassador to Mexico, left his home here this afternoon for Washington, where he will confer with Secretary Stimson before assuming the post.

After a ten-day stay in the capital he expects to return here to participate in the election campaign.

POSTOFFICE DENIES ANY BAD TACTICS

Hoover's Query Answered by Repudiation of Charge Concerning Lay-Offs

WASHINGTON, Oct. 6. (Exclusive)—Arch Coleman, acting Postmaster-General, wrote President Hoover today that the postal branch of the government is doing its full share to encourage prosperity by employing the largest possible personnel, and that complaints to the contrary are without basis.

It developed that the President had written Postmaster-General Brown on September 25, stating that there was criticism in certain quarters that the Postoffice Department's program of curtailment of service to help offset its annual deficit had reduced the number of postal employees and was out of line with the administration's oft-repeated policy of setting an example in the drive for renewed prosperity.

Mr. Coleman denied there is any basis for the impression, that the Postoffice Department is not fully co-operating in the movement for employment of the largest possible number of workers. He declared the pay roll of the department has fallen off less than 1 per cent.

Don't Give Up! + Add Yeast to Your Diet

TIRED? Listless? It usually means Intestinal Fatigue. A simple treatment is all you need.

FRESH YEAST strikes at the cause of Intestinal Fatigue. A food, it acts gently and surely.

No more Sleepy Afternoons

Your pep holds out all day long when you conquer Intestinal Fatigue

YOU know what they are! Dull, draggy, headachy afternoons, when your vitality is gone, pep completely exhausted! It's usually the same old trouble . . . the commonplace evil . . . Intestinal Fatigue!

But cheer up! Here's a way to solve the problem . . . in Nature's own manner! Food causes the trouble and a food can end it!

Intestinal Fatigue comes most frequently because the average diet lacks certain elements that stimulate normal functioning of human organs. Medical authorities have discovered, after 75 years of use and study, that fresh yeast will provide these missing elements.

Eaten as a regular part of the nourishment . . . three times daily, before or between meals, yeast cleans, tones and restores the delicate digestive mechanism, gives appetite a chance to renew itself, and helps us derive the utmost nourishment from the food we eat. It is itself a food, not a drug . . . therefore harmless.

So get at the cause of those afternoons. Start in eating Fleischmann's Yeast right now. Any way you like . . . so long as you eat it regularly, 3 cakes every day. Full directions are printed on the package.

Each cake of Fleischmann's Yeast is rich in three vitamins—available to health—vitamins A and G (the "sunshine" vitamin D is added by certain processors), restaurants, soda fountains.

Pimples Spread Over Face, Neck and Body. Cuticura Healed.

"The trouble began with pimples breaking out on my forehead, and spreading over my face, neck and body. They were small and red and scaled over. The pimples itched and burned and caused much pain. I suffered with them about a year.

"I tried other remedies but got no relief. I began using Cuticura Soap and Ointment and could see that they were helping me. I continued the treatment and after using three cakes of Cuticura Soap and five boxes of Cuticura Ointment I was completely healed." (Signed) Miss Ruby Terrill, R. 2, Box 82, Portales, New Mexico, March 6, 1936.

Soap 25c. Ointment 25 and 50c. Talcum 25c. Sold everywhere. Sample each free. Address: "Cuticura Laboratories, Dept. M, Malden, Mass."

Mary Williams, the well-known American actress, recently made the following statement about gray hair, and how to darken it, with a home-made mixture:

"Anyone can prepare a simple mixture at home that will gradually darken gray, streaked or faded hair, and make it soft and glossy. To a half-pint of water add 1 ounce of bay rum, a small box of Barbo Compound, and ¼ ounce of glycerine.

These ingredients can be bought at any drug store at very little cost. Apply to the hair twice a week until the desired shade is obtained. This will make a gray-haired person look twenty years younger. It does not color the scalp, is not sticky or greasy and does not rub off.—[Advertisement.

ARIZONA FILES BOULDER SUIT

Complaint Contends State Deprived of Right

Favoritism for California Part of Argument

work will continue "just as though nothing had happened, until I am called off by the Supreme Court." The legal staff of the Interior Department immediately obtained copies of the Arizona contentions and started work on their opposing brief, which probably will be filed with the Supreme Court within the next ten days.

It is expected by all officials and others in close touch with the matter that the court will set an early date for a hearing and render a decision in the case as speedily as possible, possibly within the next six weeks. This anticipation of a quick decision probably explains why Arizona did not ask a temporary injunction although there is another possible explanation in reports in political circles that the Arizona suit will be withdrawn after the State has passed through the throes of the November election.

LEADERS SINCERE

These rumors of insincerity upon the part of Arizona public officials persist in the face of the fact that insofar as observers in Washington can make out, there is apparently no substantial basis for them. Atty.-Gen. Peterson on his frequent visits to the capital to confer with counsel, certainly has given no intimation of other than a firm determination to push the suit to the limit. Lewis W. Douglas, the lone Arizona Representative and leader in Congress in the fight in the House against the project, is known to be sincerely of the opinion that the Boulder Canyon development is unconstitutional on the grounds laid down in today's suit. And the two Arizona Senators, Hayden and Ashurst, have also been consistent in their stand that the project is illegal, and can be blocked.

BASIC ARGUMENTS

The Arizona suit cites five basic arguments against the Swing-Johnson act, authorizing the Boulder Canyon project, as follows:

(1.) Said act attempts to deprive the State of Arizona of its sovereign jurisdiction and control of the water and other natural resources of said State, particularly the water of the Colorado River and its tributaries flowing in said State and the dam sites and reservoir sites situated therein; to vest such jurisdiction and control in the United States; to abrogate and supersede the laws of said State respecting the appropriation and use of said water and other natural resources, and to prohibit such appropriation and use, except as authorized and provided for in said act.

RIVER COMPACT

(2.) Said act attempts to subject the State of Arizona to the Colorado River compact, and to enforce said compact and make it effective in Arizona, notwithstanding said State has never ratified or approved said compact. Thereby said act attempts to deprive said State, its citizens, inhabitants and property owners, of their right to appropriate the 5,000,000 acre feet of unappropriated water which said compact attempts to apportion to said upper basin and of their right to appropriate the 2,000,000 acre feet of unappropriated water which said compact leaves unapportioned and attempts to withdraw from appropriation, as aforesaid. Said 5,000,000 acre feet of apportioned water and said 2,000,000 acre feet of unapportioned water are a part of the unappropriated water of said Colorado River system, all of which is now subject to appropriation in Arizona.

DAM AUTHORIZATION

(3.) Said act attempts to authorize the Secretary of the Interior to construct, operate and maintain a dam and reservoir in the Colorado River at Black Canyon; to store in said reservoir the 8,000,000-acre feet of unappropriated water now flowing in said river, all of which is now subject to appropriation in Arizona; to withhold all of said water from appropriation and to prohibit the appropriation thereof; to withhold all of said water from use in Arizona, or, if he permits any such use, to require payment of such charges therefor as he may prescribe; and to sell and dispose of any part or all of said water for use in other States, even to the extent of selling and delivering it for use outside the drainage basin of the Colorado River; all of which is to be done without the consent of the State of Arizona and in viviation of its laws. Thereby said act attempts to deprive the State of Arizona, its citizens, inhabitants and property owners of their right to appropriate said 8,000,000-acre feet of unappropriated water, and of their right to use any of said water in Arizona, except by contract with the Secretary of the Interior and upon payment of such charges as he may prescribe.

DISCRIMINATION CHARGED

(4.) Said act attempts to discriminate against the State of Arizona in favor of the State of California by providing that the water to be stored in said reservoir shall be delivered without charge for use in the Imperial and Coachella valleys in California, whereas all water users in Arizona are required to pay for said stored water such charges as the Secretary of the Interior may prescribe, and by providing a canal and other facilities to enable water users in California to divert and use said water, whereas no similar facilities nor any facilities whatever are provided for the benefit of water users in Arizona. Thereby said act attempts to aid and facilitate the use of said stored water in California, and to hinder and prevent the use thereof in Arizona. Said stored water will include the 8,000,000 acre feet of unappropriated water now flowing in the Colorado River, all of which is now subject to appropriation in Arizona.

POWER GENERATION

(5.) Said act attempts to authorize the Secretary of the Interior on behalf of the United States, to engage in the business of storing and selling water, the business of generating and selling electric power and the business of leasing water and equipment for the generation of such power; to utilize for that purpose the water and other natural resources of the State of Arizona; to prevent the use of said water and natural resources by other persons or corporations desiring to engage in such businesses; and to deprive said State of its right to levy and collect taxes on such businesses and on the property used in connection therewith.

The power to do all or any of the things so attempted by said act has not been granted to Congress by the Constitution of the United States.

The remainder of the Arizona brief is legal verbiage giving the Supreme Court the detailed physical facts concerning the Colorado River project and carrying the contention throughout that the division of water dictated by the Swing-Johnson act, the contracts for delivery of water and power to Southern California and all the plans in connection with the development are contrary to the constitutional rights of Arizona to do as it wills with its own natural resources. If any new legal points of importance are raised in the suit they will have to be detected by lawyers. To others the suit appears to be merely a legal repetition of all the arguments which Arizona has raised against Boulder Dam in the last six or seven years.

Although no word to that effect was forthcoming here today, it was stated informally in official quarters that the Los Angeles Board of Water and Power Commissioners, the Metropolitan Water District of Southern California and the Southern California Edison Company—major purchasers of the water and power from Boulder Dam — in all likelihood will ask leave to file briefs in opposition to the Arizona suit, thereby joining with the government in defense of the project.

POUND REGARDS SUIT AS POLITICAL MANEUVER

BRAWLEY, Oct. 6. (AP)—Earl C. Pound, president of the Imperial Irrigation District and member of the California Colorado River Commission, said today "Arizona's purpose in filing its suit in the Supreme Court was purely political."

Pound expressed the opinion the litigation was proposed for its effect on Arizona voters.

"During the Arizona primary election campaign the litigation was kept alive for its effect upon voters, by filing the complaint with the Controller-General in an effort to tie up funds voted by Congress for preliminary dam work.

"Arizona has about a month in which to do more dam politics before the November election, therefore, the same tactics are being used to influence votes now.

"No doubt, the permission to file the suit will give the Arizona politicians what they want, something to influence the vote on the eve of election.

"No one in the Interior Department thinks Arizona can stop the dam, I find.

"The Arizona Attorney-General says he has a fifty-fifty chance to win. That does not show as much confidence as Arizona politicians manipulating this litigation would have the voters believe exists."

GEN. LANA OF SPAIN CALLED BY DEATH

MADRID, Oct. 6. (AP)—Gen. Manuel Burguete Lana, 62 years of age, died today of a heart attack. He participated in the campaigns in the Philippines, Cuba and Morocco and was a brother of Lieut.-Gen. Burguete, president of the Supreme War Council.

PRINCE HONORS DEAD EARL

LONDON, Oct. 6. (AP)—The Prince of Wales attended a service for Earl Birkenhead in Westminster Abbey today in company with leaders of the political world, military and naval figures and the general public.

Consistent with its policy of laying the facts before the public, The American Tobacco Company invited Mr. Irvin S. Cobb to personally witness and to review the reports of the distinguished men who have witnessed LUCKY STRIKE'S famous Toasting Process and report his findings. The following is the statement of Mr. Cobb:

"The old time watch-word—'Let the Buyer Beware' has given way to the modern slogan of confidence, 'Buy in Safety,' and this miracle was wrought by the honesty of manufacture which characterizes every fine American product. A notable example of the modern manufacturers' constant desire to give the public the best is your use of the Ultra Violet Ray in the 'Toasting' of LUCKY STRIKE tobaccos. Anyone can see this as I have seen it on my visit to your LUCKY STRIKE Plant. It's magnificent."

W.C.T.U. WILL GATHER TODAY

Southern California Group Meets at Santa Ana

Delegates Numbering 1200 Expected to Attend

Sessions to Conclude Friday in Methodist Church

SANTA ANA, Oct. 6. — Preparatory to the forty-eighth annual convention of the Women's Christian Temperance Union of Southern California, which is to be held in the First Methodist Church here from Tuesday to Friday, county officers and several city delegations arrived today. When the convention gets underway tomorrow morning it is believed that 1200 delegates will be here.

Santa Ana unit's committee women were busy today applying the last touches of decorations and arrangements for the coming of the dry-law supporters. The First Methodist Church was being bedecked with appropriate banners, as were the street sin the vicinity of the conclave headquarters.

Delegates will meet tomorrow for an evangelistic hour at 8:30 a.m. with Mrs. Kate Morris Cleaves, state director of the evangelistic department, in charge. After a salute to the flag, led by Mrs. Fronia Davenport, patriotic director, the convention will be called to order at 9 a.m. by Mrs. Eva Craven Wheeler, president of the Woman's Christian Temperance Union of Southern California. Convention singing will be directed by Mrs. Alice Simmons Wheeler, State director of music, accompanied by Mrs. Anna Wheeler, convention accompanist. The ensuing program is entitled "Honoring the Crusaders" and will be in charge of Dr. Nora McNeal, president of the mothers and daughters of temperance crusade.

At noon Dr. John Matthews, pastor of the radio church of the air, will give an inspirational message on "Hannah—the First W.C.T.U. Heroine." Mrs. Wheeler will give her annual address in the afternoon and in the evening the program will center about "The White Ribbon Review" directed by Mrs. Carrie Lee Carter Stokes.

Youth's Stunt May Result in Death for Him

UPLAND, Oct. 6.—Youthful exuberance and misjudged distance nearly claimed the life of Robert Drake, 16-year-old Pomona school youth in a week-end mishap on Foothill Boulevard.

Drake, the son of Mr. and Mrs. A. H. Drake, 720 West Drive, Grigsby Court, Pomona, is in San Antonio Community Hospital, with chances slightly in his favor that he will recover from his injuries, according to hospital attaches.

Drake and a party of friends were driving to Alta Loma to visit a "haunted house." While skimming over the highway a light truck drew alongside of the car in which Drake was a passenger. The youth clambered to the running board of the automobile and sought to board the truck as it passed. He missed and fell to the pavement.

Another automobile driven by Manferd Lee, also of the Pomona party, was directly behind the truck, and before Lee could bring his car to a stop it struck Drake. A third automobile in the party driven by Dean Winkler of Pomona, then crashed into the rear of Lee's automobile.

At San Antonio Community Hospital it was reported Drake received a basal fracture of the skull and possible internal injuries. His mother, ill at the time of the accident, became worse at word of the injuries to her son.

VALLEY'S WALNUT HARVEST BEGINS

NORTH LOS ANGELES, Oct. 6. San Fernando Valley Walnut Growers' Association this week opened its new processing plant and warehouse here, and is now receiving large shipments from the new walnut harvest, according to D. C. Brown manager. The first pool will close on November 14, next, so the nuts will be in the East in time for the Thanksgiving markets. Deliveries made after that date will not reach the eastern markets until time for the Christmas trade. All growers are being urged to get their crops in as early as possible. The California Walnut Association will set prices for the coming season next Wednesday, it is stated here by growers. This season the valley's crop appears to be of rather high quality, which indicates that good prices will rule.

FOUNDERS' DAY TO BE OBSERVED

Forty-third Birthday of Pomona College Will Be Celebrated 14th Inst.

CLAREMONT, Oct. 6.—Pomona College will celebrate its forty-third birthday anniversary the 14th inst., with the annual Founders' Day convocation in Bridges Hall.

In the dimly lighted auditorium, the oldest trustee, the oldest active and retired professors, and representatives of past and present Pomona classes, will take part in the traditional flame ceremony, in which they pass slowly from candle to candle, the light of the "torch of Christian education."

The oldest trustee, who has served on the college board since 1899, is Charles E. Harwood of Ontario, 100 years of age, on the 19th inst., who will receive from Pomona the honorary degree of doctor of laws during the convocation. Edward C. Norton, the oldest emeritus member of the faculty; Frank P. Brackett, oldest active member and chairman of the faculty, who will also confer the degree on Harwood, and George S. Sumner, controller of the college and member of the first graduating class, will serve in the flame ceremony, together with a member of the 1930 graduating class and the presidents of the four present classes.

Dr. James A. Blaisdell, formerly president of Pomona College and now president of Claremont Colleges, will deliver the principal address.

Following the convocation a luncheon in honor of Harwood will be held at Harwood Court. In the evening at Frary Hall the Campus Club for the alumni of the Pomona district will give a banquet. Throughout the United States, at Honolulu and in Smyrna, Turkey, other loyal alumni clubs will be holding founders' day banquets on the same date.

Santa Barbara Astounded by Phantom City

SANTA BARBARA, Oct. 6.—A spectrum of the sea, caused by land heat waves rushing seaward and meeting ocean fogs in mid channel, perplexed and astounded residents of this ocean town today by providing a mirage of a phantom city, green hills, rugged brown mountains and trees. It was a great huge phasma mirroring the coast line through some freak of nature.

The phantom city appeared to residents all along the shore to be sweeping out to sea at the rate of 100 miles an hour, houses, trees, roofs, buildings, streets, autos, boats and masses of people swirled in a cloud over the channel like a great cataract, life on land tumbled by and across the tranquil waters, people on the shore could only stand and wonder.

Then, as suddenly as it had appeared, the ghost city of the channel stopped, seemed to hover over the quiet waters, and then vanish, melt away. A thick veil of haze appeared to have dropped like a curtain over the phantom and it was gone. The whole town is talking about the spectre. There are many explanations, but the one credited by old timers who hang about the water front is that the atmosphere charged with dust and banked by fog, made a mirror to reflect the shore.

Dr. Hill Will Make Address

ONTARIO, Oct. 6. — Because of the interest Chaffey Union High School and Junior College are showing in Red Cross activities and the courses being offered at the school for health instruction and service, Dr. Merton E. Hill, principal of Chaffey, has been invited to be one of the speakers at the regional conference of the Red Cross at Laguna Beach the 14th inst., it was announced today.

Chaffey has complete courses in hygiene and health, with an able staff of instructors under the supervision of Mrs. G. J. Fleming.

Red Cross life saving in swimming is also taught at Chaffey under direction of Fred H. Clapp of Chaffey faculty.

At the annual meeting of Ontario chapter of the Red Cross, announcement was made that the chapter now ranks among the strongest on the Pacific Coast. Arthur I. Peterson is chairman of the local chapter.

Weekly clinics are held under Red Cross auspices at City Hall for American and Mexican babies.

A dental clinic has been established also, at which care is given to the poor and destitute whose health is impaired by faulty teeth. Dentists of the community donate their services weekly for this clinic.

TEACHER KILLED IN AUTO CRASH

Miss Gloria Lopez Victim of Upland Collision

Chaffey Instructor Thrown Into Tree by Impact

Miss Ruth Lewis of Same Faculty Slightly Hurt

ONTARIO, Oct. 6. — Miss Gloria Lopez, member of Chaffey Union High School faculty, was instantly killed today in an automobile collision on the highway between Upland and Fontana.

Miss Lopez's car was said to have been struck by another driven by A. E. Wadsworth of Los Angeles.

According to witnesses, Wadsworth's automobile approached an intersection from a side road, and struck the rear of the car driven by Miss Lopez. Her automobile was swung completely around by the impact and she was thrown from the car and into a tree. Her skull and body were crushed and death was instantaneous.

Miss Ruth Lewis, also of Chaffey faculty, riding with Miss Lopez, escaped with minor injuries. Wadsworth's automobile overturned.

Miss Lopez and Miss Lewis left Ontario shortly before 8 a.m. for Fontana, where they were to teach in the Fontana branch of Chaffey Union High School.

Deputy Sheriff McDonald of Fontana, was called to investigate the accident, and ordered an inquest tomorrow morning at Draper's chapel in Ontario.

Miss Lopez worked her way through Chaffey Junior College and had been retained as a teacher in the high school for the two years since her graduation. She lived at 509 East Grove street.

Miss Lewis was slightly cut on one leg and was removed to her home at 420 East G street.

Redlands Citrus Men Realizing Huge Returns

UPLAND, Oct. 6.—The season which will not close for members of Upland Citrus Association until the close of the month, was one of profit to the membership, it was revealed at the annual meeting of the directors and members at the clubhouse.

With three weeks yet to go in shipments, the membership has received approximately $1,130,000 thus far from 580 carloads of fruit.

These figures were given to the members by A. J. Neilson, secretary-manager for the association, at the thirty-third annual meeting.

Shipments this season are about half of last year, but the returns are higher.

Annual election resulted in the return of George Laidlaw to the presidency; W. F. Naftel, vice-president; W. B. Cavers, representative for the O. K. Exchange; W. H. Tuttle and C. Earl Wetherbee, directors.

Neilson was re-elected secretary-manager.

Upland Citrus Association is the largest house member of the Ontario-Cucamonga exchange, which is affiliated with the California Fruit Growers' Exchange.

Roses to Bring Back Memory of Girlhood Days

RESEDA, Oct. 6. — Roses from bushes in the French part of Switzerland soon will be growing in this section. The slips sent here are the property of Mrs. M. Furst and Louis Piccot, and were shipped from the old country packed in the garden soil in which they grew. The cuttings are in the hands of a Swiss gardener at the Beales Nursery who, this week will plant them at the Furst and Piccot homes.

Fifty years ago, Mrs. Celestine Piccot and family moved from France into the French part of Switzerland, where they bought a country home. The first thing Mrs. Piccot did was to set out a rose garden. After many years the old home was sold, but the giant rose bushes continued to bloom and live in Mrs. Furst's memory. Friends near the old home heard of her longing for the flowers of her youth and after writing her, told her the rose slips had been shipped.

EXAMINATION GIVEN FOR HOSEMAN POST

HUNTINGTON PARK, Oct. 6.—Just an even two dozen applicants were present Saturday to take the examinations for city fire hosemen, but after the morning session, three were eliminated, being unable to receive the proper grade in the physical tests which would make them eligible to continue to the written and oral tests which were given in the afternoon. The papers will be graded during the week, after which the grades will be announced by Fire Chief Norval Wasson. Papers are to be examined by local school officials. The purpose of the examination is to secure an eligible list from which appointments may be made when vacancies occur.

VALLEY DETECTIVE HEAD IN TRANSFER

VAN NUYS, Oct. 6.—Capt. Bert Massey, head of the detective detail of the San Fernando Valley division of police, with headquarters here, has been transferred to the business office of the detective bureau at Central Station, Los Angeles, after a two-year service in this police area. He became head of the valley detail on the resignation of Capt. L. E. Hernandez. Massey is succeeded here by Capt. Louis Canto of Central Station, a veteran of the department.

ELECTION PETITION DENIED

State Board of Education Denies Plea for Vote on San Gabriel's Withdrawal From District

SAN GABRIEL, Oct. 6.—Permission to hold a special election to vote on the withdrawal of San Gabriel from the Alhambra high-school district, has been denied by the State Board of Education, it was learned here today. The State officials were in session over the week-end at Lake Tahoe.

Although County Superintendent of Schools H. S. Upjohn recommended that the issue be voted on, as did also Superintendent of Schools Forrest V. Routt of Alhambra, the petition was rejected because, it is said, of the ambiguity of State laws in defining district boundaries.

Robert B. Walter, superintendent of local grammar schools, and Dan G. Mulock, chairman of the local Chamber of Commerce high-school committee, who presented the request to the State board, were advised to take the matter before the State Legislature and ask that the law be clarified.

A movement for a separate high-school district was started here several months ago and petitions asking for the change were signed by many citizens.

The sentiment in favor of the separate district is as strong as ever, according to Mulock, who says that the matter will simply be held in abeyance until the next session of the Legislature. The action of the school board involved a technicality in the school-district laws which provides that a portion of a district may withdraw if it is more than two and two-thirds miles from the district with which it is affiliated. The entire San Gabriel area does not meet this requirement, and special legislation will be necessary for the existing problem, it is said.

Officer Seeks One Culprit and Then Bags Two

AZUSA, Oct. 6.—Constable W. I. Hamblin was called to Irwindale Sunday to arrest Joe Zavala, 17-year-old Mexican, on a charge of assault and battery. He is asserted to have struck Barbarnero Boraques on the head with a rock, according to the constable.

It seems that the latter was giving a birthday party in honor of his daughter, and that Zavala with a friend were making an attempt to crash the party without an invitation. Matters went from bad to worse and resulted in the host being hit in the head with a large rock. After that Zavala went home, where the deputies found him in bed with his brother, Ernest Zavala, wanted on a charge of grand theft.

Both local and county officers have been on the lookout for Zavala since his arrest by Hamblin last December as a partner of Sam Ornelas, in a series of thefts. Zavala was arraigned this morning before Judge J. O. Durrell in local police court and his preliminary hearing was set for the 9th inst. His younger brother, who says it with rocks, was committed to Juvenile Hall. Ornelas, who was tried soon after his arrest last December, when Zavala escaped, is now serving his term in the penitentiary.

Retired General Seeking Home

RIVERSIDE, Oct. 6.—Inspecting Southern California cities with a view to selecting one of them as his permanent home, Gen. William E. Gillmore, until recently assistant chief of the United States Army Air Corps, retired, arrived here today with Mrs. Gillmore.

"We have been visiting California for several years," Gen. Gillmore said this morning, "and now that I have retired, we plan to reside permanently in Southern California."

Col. W. S. Gardenhire, quartermaster of March Field, who soon is to retire, has purchased an estate here and is to remain in Riverside. Gen. Gillmore visited the Gardenhire property and stated he, too, was impressed with Riverside as a residential city.

Gen. and Mrs. Gillmore inspected March Field this morning and renewed acquaintances with their many friends there.

POST STARTS EARLY ARMISTICE-DAY PLANS

OWENSMOUTH, Oct. 6.—With Clyde W. McClellan as chairman of the general committee, the Owensmouth post, American Legion, today started plans early for the celebration of next Armistice Day. All organizations here will be asked to co-operate. The program will include patriotic addresses, a parade and barbecue, athletic events and the annual Armistice ball in the evening. Other posts in San Fernando Valley will soon begin on their Armistice Day celebration plans.

THESE BEANS HAVE SPAGHETTI SHAPE

VAN NUYS, Oct. 6.—Usually it is no hard task to "spill the beans." But in the case of Mrs. W. L. Richardson's beans there might be difficulty. In her yard at Kester avenue and Calvert street there is a bean vine with beans on it a yard long. All she has to do is to gather a half-dozen or so and she has sufficient to fill a pot for dinner.

OLD BONES DUG UP

SAN FERNANDO, Oct. 6. — A human skeleton, believed to be that of an early San Fernando Valley Indian, was unearthed by workmen while excavating for a pipe line on the Cascade ranch near here. The bones were conveyed to a local undertaking parlor and the Coroner notified. Old-timers here believe the Indian was one of the early San Fernando Mission converts and died about 100 years ago.

Dr. Hale, Noted Astrophysicist, Has Operation

PASADENA, Oct. 6.—Dr. George Ellery Hale, director-emeritus of the Mount Wilson Observatory and America's foremost astrophysicist, is reported to be recovering at the Pasadena Hospital tonight following a slight operation performed this morning.

No complications have set in, according to Dr. Le Roy B. Sherry, local physician and surgeon in charge. Dr. Hale's efforts are asserted to have been largely responsible for founding the Mount Wilson Observatory. He is also credited with the successful launching of the California Institute of Technology's 200-inch telescope project. His influence also is reported to have encouraged the late Henry E. Huntington to establish the Huntington Library and Art Galleries in San Marino. He is a resident of South Pasadena.

Calipatria Mill Razed by Fire

BRAWLEY, Oct. 6. (AP)—Fire destroyed the California-Hawaiian Milling Company plant at Calipatria, south of here, early today with an estimated loss of $60,000. Large quantities of alfalfa, alfalfa meal and several freight cars were included in the loss. The fire broke out at midnight, sleeping plant laborers being awakened by their burning tent-house. The flames twice attacked the near-by Shell Oil Company plant, but it was saved by firemen.

WALTHER LEAGUE TO MEET IN GLENDALE

GLENDALE, Oct. 6. (AP)—Officers of the Southern California district of the International Walther League announced today 800 delegates are expected to attend the forty-second annual district convention here Saturday and Sunday. It will be held at the Zion Lutheran Church.

The program calls for registration and the opening session on Saturday morning, with several important questions coming before the business sessions that day. Devotional services will be held Sunday, with the closing session that evening.

The international organization has a membership of 70,000.

WOMEN PAY TRIBUTE TO DR. BURDETTE

PASADENA, Oct. 6.—Tribute to Dr. Clara B. Burdette, founder of the Woman's Civic League of Pasadena, was paid by 500 women who attended a luncheon meeting today on the occasion of the organization's twentieth anniversary. Dr. Theodore Soares, pastor of the Neighborhood Church, spoke on "Education for Patriotism." Mrs. Willard J. Stone, Woman's Civic League president, introduced Mrs. Burdette, who told of the realization of the hopes of the small group which founded the organization in 1911.

HEAVY TRAFFIC TOLL REPORTED

Two Dead, Twenty-one Hurt and Three in Jail

Orange County Has Hectic Week-end of Casualties

Murder and Manslaughter Charges to Be Faced

SANTA ANA, Oct. 6.—Two were dead, twenty-one injured and three held in the County Jail today, one charged with murder and another with suspicion of manslaughter, following a disastrous week-end in Orange county motor traffic. Three others were injured at the County Fairgrounds, two of them in rodeo mishaps and one in an accident in the concession zone.

M. Duarte, 21-year-old ranch hand employed by F. G. Plavan at Greenville, was arrested on a charge of murder after Fermin Orosco, 27, fellow-employee of Duarte, was killed in the wreck of Duarte's car at Huntington Beach early Sunday morning. The second fatality of the day was that of Mrs. Jose Balderrama, 31, wife of Jose Balderrama, 33, bootblack of 110½ East Fourth street.

Mrs. Balderrama died at the County Hspital last night of injuries received yesterday when a car driven by her husband collided with a machine driven by Sylvano Magano, 910 East Walnut, at First and Sullivan streets. Mrs. Balderrama suffered a skull fracture. Her husband and their eight children all were slightly injured as was Magano. Balderrama was lodged in the County Jail on suspicion of manslaughter.

L. C. Malone, Riverside, is in the Santa Ana Valley Hospital with a serious skull fracture, received when a car driven by his brother, Carl, of Riverside, collided with a machine driven by Fred Wheeler, 40, 409 Lacy street, on Tustin street north of Santa Clara avenue. State Traffic Officer Oscar Kelley arrested Wheeler on a charge of driving an automobile while under the influence of liquor.

Inquest Called on Man Killed When Car Falls

GLENDORA, Oct. 6.—To definitely establish the cause of death, a Coroner's inquest will be held Wednesday morning at the White Funeral Parlors in Azusa, over the body of Calvin E. Barrett, 56-year-old cement worker, who died Saturday night from injuries sustained when his car fell over a steep embankment on North Michigan avenue.

According to official reports of the accident, Barrett was returning from the Ellis ranch on North Michigan avenue, high in the foothills, where he had been working, and evidently lost control of his machine at the steepest turn in the road, which winds along the foothills above Glendora. The car broke the railing from one side of a bridge which spans a small wash, and fell approximately twenty feet to the bottom. Joe Hawks, passing by shortly afterward, noticed the broken railing and stopped to investigate. Seeing the wrecked car at the bottom of the wash and attracted by faint cries, he made his way down the steep embankment to find Barrett pinned beneath his car. After extricating the injured man, he summoned aid and rushed the victim to the Covina Hospital, where he died that night. Barrett suffered a fractured left leg and arm, besides severe lacerations about the body and internal injuries.

Barrett had lived in Glendora for nine years at 143 South Washington street. The body will be held at the White Funeral Parlors following the inquest, to await the arrival of a brother from Osawatomie, Kan., who will accompany the body east for burial.

Pastor Going to Convention

ONTARIO, Oct. 6. — Immediately after a meeting of the congregation of the First Christian Church Wednesday evening, Rev. Shirley R. Shaw, pastor of the church, will leave for Washington, to attend the meeting at one time of the two great assemblies of the Christian Church, the International Convention of the Disciples of Christ and the World Convention of the Churches of Christ.

"Nothing like this Washington gathering ever has transpired before among the Christian churches," Rev. Shaw said today, "and nothing like it can happen again, in that it is the nineteenth century celebration of the first Pentecost and the beginning of the Church of Christ."

There are, in fact, three simultaneous conventions, Rev. Shaw said, as the youths' convention of the Disciples of Christ will be in session at the same time, in furtherance of the great youth movement which in recent years has been characteristic of this and other communions.

Delegates from England, Russia, Scotland, Ireland, Australia, South America, Africa, Canada, and from every State in the Union, will be in attendance, Rev. Shaw declared.

COUNTY CONTRACTS TO BE GIVEN TODAY

VENTURA, Oct. 6. — Contracts on the proposed Courthouse annex and County Jail, bids for which were opened last Tuesday by the Board of Supervisors, will be awarded by the board tomorrow when it meets in regular session at the Courthouse. More than fifty bids in all were opened on the project, fifteen for the general contract, and the others on the ten subcontracts.

HAY BARN BURNS AT VENTURA

Blaze on Wharf Proves Spectacular and Results in $4500 Loss

VENTURA, Oct. 6. — Fire of undetermined origin razed a large partially filled hay barn last night on the property of the Venturs Wharf and Warehouse Company, doing damage estimated at $4500.

The old wooden structure, covered with sheet iron, made a spectacular blaze, which was visible from all parts of the city, and crowds thronged the streets to witness it.

The building, belonging to the wharf company, was valued at $2300, according to company officials. About forty tons of hay belonging to the Southern Pacific Milling Company, which was stored in the building, was consumed at a loss of $750, while a smaller quantity, worth about $500, and belonging to the wharf company, also was lost.

Firemen fought the blaze for four hours after its discovery at 10 p.m.

Inspectors of Electric Wiring in Convention

PASADENA, Oct. 6.—With more than 150 delegates in attendance, the annual convention of the southwestern section of the International Association of Electrical Inspectors opened here today in the Hotel Maryland.

Dr. Robert A. Millikan, executive head of the California Institute of Technology, will be one of the principal speakers tomorrow morning.

Those who attended the opening session today included: William S. Boyd of New York, president of the association; Victor H. Tousley of New York, general secretary; James S. Mahan of Chicago, active in electrical inspection, and Harry B. Kirkland and A. Penn Denton, both of New York.

The officers of the southwestern section of the organization are: A. E. Johnstone of San Diego, president; E. H. Snedaker of San Jose, vice-president, and C. W. Mitchell of San Francisco, secretary-treasurer.

Walnut Men's Receipts Told

SANTA PAULA, Oct. 6.—Members of the Santa Paula Walnut Growers' Association, a member of the California Walnut Growers' Association, will have by the 15th inst. received a total of $90,000 in final payments for the 1929 crop, it was announced today by R. C. Powell, manager of the walnut plant here. A total of $70,000 has been sent to growers to date and by the middle of the current month the sum will have reached $90,000, it was stated.

In the meantime picking of walnuts has been started by practically all growers of the Santa Paula district and the processing and packing plant here is beginning to get into its stride for its two-months' campaign.

HEAT RECORD SET IN SANTA PAULA REGION

SANTA PAULA, Oct. 6.—Breaking all previous known heat records for the month of October, the mercury soared to 105 deg. at noon today. An hour later the thermometer registered 104, and it was still above the 100-deg. mark in midafternoon. In October, 1929, the mercury hit slightly over the 100 mark on the twenty-first of the month. In 1885 the thermometer reached 102 deg. on October 4, records show. Sunday the mercury showed 99 deg. and on Saturday 98. The crops in the field, particularly walnuts and beans, have been benefited by the warm spell, local farmers said today.

FRED LAU NEW HEAD OF TUJUNGA LEGION

TUJUNGA, Oct. 11.—Fred Lau, one of the earliest members, was elected commander of the Tujunga post, American Legion, at the annual meeting held here, and will be installed next Thursday night. At the same time Mrs. Hazel Kimble will be installed president of the Legion post auxiliary. Other new officers of the post and auxiliary are Ray Busse, William O. Harjranft, Walter Sullins, Victor Graves, Mrs. Pauline Lichtenthaler, Mrs. Ruth Henry, Mrs. Nell Lake and Mrs. Victoria Westlake.

Whirlwind Hurls Forest Ranger Stephenson Into Brush Fire He Was Fighting; Burns Not Serious

SAN DIEGO, Oct. 6.—J. B. Stephenson of Descanso, district forest ranger, was severely burned early today when a whirlwind swept him off his feet and dropped him in a brush fire he was fighting at Cottonwood Creek, south of Barrett Reservoir. Stephenson's eyelids and hair were scorched, but he was able to scramble out of the fire before being burned seriously.

He remained on the fire line for several hours after the accident, directing a crew of eighty men, and today phoned his wife that he "felt fine and was all right."

Slightly overcome by smoke and feeling the effects of his sudden drop into the fire, Stephenson left the fire, which was being checked, and went to a ranch house, where he rested. He left for the fire line again today. Damage resulting from the two brush fires in the southern part of the county, which raged yesterday and today, was confined to the destruction of an uninhabited cuontry house and fifty stands of bees near Honey Springs, according to report at noon today at the office of Luther C. Gordon, chief county fire warden.

No smoke from either the Cottonwood Creek or Honey Springs-Bratton Ranch fire was reported sighted before noon by lookout stations. The fires are believed checked, but two crews, totaling 140 fire fighters, were held on the fire lines throughout the day.

FAIR MAY NOT SHOW LOSS

Total Attendance at Ventura Announced as 27,500; Less Than Last Year, but Expenses Pruned

VENTURA, Oct. 6.—The Ventura County Fair came to a close Sunday night with a total attendance of 27,500 for the five days. While this mark is below that of last year, the fair may not show a deficit, according to John Lagomarsino, treasurer of the Fair Association.

"While the attendance was less than last year's, the directors pruned the expenses this year and ran the fair on a strict budget, so that it is not fair to compare the attendance with previous years, as far as the expense go," Lagomarsino said today. "We are going to come out all right and the directors are well satisfied with the way the fair went over this year. With a smaller crowd and less cost for the fair, it will about break even.

"We expected from the first to lose better than 3000 attendance when we decided not to have the evening horse show, which has always been a big drawing card. To even things, we cut all expenses."

Saturday and Sunday showed about an equal attendance, with the largest out-of-the-county crowd on hand Sunday. Many prominent motion-picture people were in the grand stands yesterday, and every box was filled during the day.

The exhibits attracted the greatest crowds of the week, and the midway did a thriving business all day Sunday. In spite of the heat wave which struck many parts of the county yesterday, the fairgrounds were comparatively cool, with a welcome ocean breeze most of the day.

BLAME PLACED BY LONGWORTH

Slow Recovery From Slump Laid to Democrats

Tariff Bill Hold-up Declared Depression Factor

Hoover Lauded in Address Over Radio Network

By a "Times" Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON, Oct. 6. (Exclusive)—Responsibility for the slow recovery from economic depression was placed squarely on the Democratic party tonight by Speaker Longworth of the House of Representatives, in an address over a nation-wide network of radio stations arranged by the National Broadcasting Company. His speech was the fourth of a series of six national broadcasts under auspices of the Republican National Committee.

Speaker Longworth, reviewing the proceedings of the last session of Congress, declared, "it was not long after the tariff bill arrived in the Senate that the plan of the Democrats became evident and their tactics plain."

DESIRE FOR DELAY

"They had no intention," he said, "of confining their opposition to germane amendments and legitimate debate; no purpose to make a record of their individual opposition and views from time to time or those of their party. They cared little for debate; what they wanted was delay. Their own desire was to prevent the passage of the tariff bill until the last possible moment before election day; to prolong as long as possible business uncertainty for their political advantage. That they succeeded is evidenced by the fact that they were directly responsible for a continued tariff session of nearly a year and a half, a period unexampled in tariff history.

"So-called debate in the Senate most of the time was a joke; in the condition of business and industry, a sinister joke. Most of it was held before a practically empty chamber. Propositions having no place on a tariff bill were debated for weeks. Recesses and adjournments for days at a time were the rule, not the exception.

LONGEST SESSION

"No tariff session ever has been nearly as long as this one, even where the change of every schedule was under consideration, when one party had succeeded another in power and a change of basic principle was involved.

"Here were no such conditions. Only a comparatively few changes were being considered and the underlying principle of protection was being challenged by no Republicans and by comparatively few Democrats. There can be no excuse for this prolonged delay, except an inexcusable one; and that was, the desire to profit in the coming election by preventing for as long as possible the recovery of business and industrial prosperity."

Mr. Longworth strongly defended the tariff and warmly praised the Hoover administration. In conclusion, he said:

UNAVOIDABLE RESULTS

"There are few of my audience, I presume, who are as happy financially at least as they were at this time last year. The substantial decrease of values has resulted from the collapse in the stock market nearly a year ago. Increase in the prosperity and wealth of the country had been so stupendous during the last ten years that people acquired a false idea of things. Stocks were selling on a basis upon which no adequate return could be had, certainly in the near future. Hundreds of thousands of persons, probably, who had never bought a share of stock in their life, bought securities and insecurities as well, from their hard-earned savings. Unscrupulous vendors successfully hawked about the country wild-cat stocks of the mangiest variety. The end was sure to come and it did come, with naturally unfortunate results.

PRAISE FOR HOOVER

"But there is this to be said, that the results have been nowhere nearly as disastrous as they would have been had not President Hoover and this administration used every effort to promote employment and encourage confidence in the absolute and fundamental soundness of our government.

"Naturally unemployment exists, the buying power of the American people has been temporarily diminished by the decreased value of securities, but I again assert that the crash in the stock market is by no means wholly responsible for such unemployment as now exists. There is nothing that so much unsettles business and industrial conditions as a prolonged uncertainty as to what the tariff shall be when a revision is undertaken. Producers during such a period buy from hand to mouth. They would be foolish to expand. They must rather retrench.

"In my deliberate opinion, had the Democratic party, particularly in the Senate, not deliberately used this situation to further, as they hoped, their political interests, the unemployment situation would be infinitely better than it is now. It is on their heads the responsibility must rest."

APPEAL COURT SEATS RE-ELECTED JUSTICES

SACRAMENTO, Oct. 6. (AP)—Having been re-elected at the recent primary election, Justices William M. Finch and Rolfe Thompson were seated on the bench of the Third District Court of Appeal here today.

Justice Finch was elected for the full term, while Justice Thompson, who was appointed to succeed the late Justice E. C. Hart, was elected for the eight remaining years of the term.

TWO SAN QUENTIN PRISONERS ESCAPE

SAN QUENTIN PRISON, Oct. 6. (AP)—Two prisoners broke away from a guard within five miles of the prison today, scurried into the brush near Alto and escaped. The men are E. W. Kidd, serving two terms for grand theft and second-degree burglary in Sutter county, and Willmer S. Seidey, sent up from Los Angeles for similar crimes.

Caller Leaves via Blanket as Knock Sounds, But He Slips and Plunges

KANSAS CITY, Oct. 6. (AP) Mrs. Loretta Verth lives in a second-story apartment, much to the sorrow of R. C. Schuman, 27 years of age.

Schuman told police he was calling on Mrs. Verth when someone knocked.

Mrs. Verth told police she was afraid to admit a friend while Schuman was about the place.

Schuman, graciously, attempted to efface himself.

POLICEMAN IN SCANDAL LOSES POST

Deputy Chief Ryan of Chicago Detective Force Demoted After Expose

CHICAGO, Oct. 6. (Exclusive)—Capt. John Ryan was demoted from the post of deputy chief of detectives and sent to the idle miscellaneous division today as a result of the scandal that followed the finding of a detective bureau list of vagrants in Capone hands and the discovery that the names of eight Capone hoodlums had been deleted from a second list.

Acting Police Commissioner Alcock's order came as the Capone vagrancy list was made the target of two inquiries; one by Chief Justice McGoorty, who cited the vagrancy-list incident and ordered the October grand jury to make investigation of the September jury's charge of "a well-established alliance" between the police department, corrupt politics and crime, and a second at a hastily called meeting of the Police Committee of the City Council.

The upshot of the police meeting was to arrange for a hearing next Friday at which Capt. Ryan will be given an opportunity to defend himself.

Judge McGoorty in his charge to the October jury said he is convinced of the existence of "a well-established alliance" between the police department, corrupt politics and crime and recommended that it should be the subject of an exhaustive inquiry.

Bairnsfather to Fight Suit

NEW YORK, Oct. 6. (AP)—Bruce Bairnsfather, whose humorous wartime cartoons won him an international reputation, prepared to move in Supreme Court today to set aside a divorce action brought by Mrs. Cecile Bairnsfather on the ground both he and his wife are British subjects and the American courts are without jurisdiction.

Mrs. Bairnsfather, who names Constance Collier, the actress, as co-respondent, has said she and her husband have lived in this country since 1924 and in New York City for five years. Her claim is supported in an affidavit filed by their daughter.

Woman Flyer Weather-bound

KANSAS CITY, Oct. 6. (AP)—One hop of 228 miles—from St. Louis to Kansas City—was the distance traveled today by Laura Ingalls, St. Louis aviatrix, who took off yesterday morning from New York in an attempt to set a transcontinental flight record for women.

Unfavorable weather delayed Miss Ingalls at St. Louis until 10:30 a.m. Reaching Fairfax Airport at Kansas City at 12:49 p.m., Miss Ingalls encountered rain and unfavorable weather reports from Wichita, her next scheduled stop, so decided to spend the night here.

Italian Croesus Sells Treasures

TURIN (Italy) Oct. 6. (AP)—Richard Gualino, one of Italy's greatest financiers, has had to sell his rich art collection, an eighteenth century palace, racing stable and theater to settle a debt owed the Agricultural Bank of Italy and other institutions, aggregating $26,000,000.

Premier Mussolini is believed to have referred to Gualino in a speech last week in which he bitterly attacked speculators.

BULGARIAN PRINCESS WILL WED ITALIAN

SOFIA (Bulgaria) Oct. 6. (AP)—Not to be outdone by her brother, King Boris, Princess Eudoxia of Bulgaria, it is reported here, has become engaged, and to an Italian.

Unofficially it is learned the Princess, who is 32 years of age, has betrothed herself to Duke Charles of Spoleto, son of Prince Aosta of Italy. The Duke, who is 30 and an archeologist, at present is in a hospital suffering with a broken leg received while automobile racing.

RAIL BOARD TO HEAR OIL-RATE PROTESTS

PORTLAND (Or.) Oct. 6. (AP)—Hearing of the Interstate Commerce Commission on the protest of the Idaho Public Utilities Commission against existing petroleum products rates from Oregon, California, Washington, Montana, Wyoming and Utah to Idaho points, will open here tomorrow. Approximately fifty railroads are involved in the case. The Idaho commission contends the rates are unreasonably high.

LABORITES OPEN THEIR CONCLAVE

Indications Point to Storms in British Parliament

Woman Presides for First Time in Party History

Trade Disputes Act Move Provides Sensation

LLANDUDNO (Wales) Oct. 6. (AP) Strong indications that the autumn session of Parliament will be lively were provided by the opening day's events of the Labor party's annual conference.

For the first time in its history the political caucus was presided over by a woman, Miss Susan Lawrence, member of Parliament and secretary to the Ministry of Health. In a keynote speech she declared that sooner or later the Labor party will have to deal with that "aged anachronism," the House of Lords. This alone, she forecast, will lead to heated Parliamentary exchanges.

The sensation of the day was provided, however, when Arthur Henderson, Foreign Secretary, announced that a bill to amend the trade disputes act will be put forward in the forthcoming speech of the King and will be one of the earliest bills to be taken in hand after the opening session.

The trade disputes act is one of the most contentious measures on the statute books and Premier MacDonald himself has been credited with a wish to leave things as they are while the Labor party remains a minority in Commons.

The contents can be briefly summarized as, first, that any strike having any object besides furtherance of a trade dispute within a trade or industry in which the strikers are engaged is illegal and, second, that any worker belonging to trades unions need not contribute to the political fund of his union unless he so desires.

Some observers say that because the Liberals object as a party to repeal of the bill and there is division even in Labor's ranks regarding it, today's decision to proceed instantly in this direction carries a serious danger of overthrow of the MacDonald government.

LOS ANGELES FLYER WINS GLIDER CONTEST

ELMIRA (N. Y.) Oct. 6. (AP)—Albert Hastings of Los Angeles won the duration flight in glider contests under the auspices of the National Glider Association which ended yesterday. He was aloft seven hours forty-three minutes, eleven seconds. He was awarded a prize of $250.

Former U. S. Senator Now Endorses It

Sargon is rapidly becoming a household word throughout the United States and Canada. Thousands of grateful men and women from all walks of life have been lifted out of the throes of lost vitality, suffering, misery and ill-health by its use.

HON. THOMAS W. HARDWICK

In relating his experience with this famous medicine former United States Senator Thomas W. Hardwick, who served his State for six years in the Upper House of Congress, and who was later elected Governor of Georgia, said:

"I had lost most of my old-time energy and both mental and physical fatigue came more quickly than formerly; constipation, especially, had troubled me for the past ten years, and I had become accustomed to dosing myself with some physic or laxative every few days. My appetite was not keen, and my meals did not seem to agree with me as they should. Sometimes I would feel positively wretched for days at a time. Sargon was highly recommended to me and I decided to try it.

"The medicine helped me from the very first. It gave me a splendid appetite. I don't know when I have enjoyed my meals more than I do now. I eat with more relish and experience no ill or uncomfortable after-effects whatever. Naturally my capacity for work has increased. I feel more efficient. I have more energy. In fact, I feel that I am in better health than it has been my pleasure to enjoy in many years, but most important of all, I no longer find it necessary to continually take laxatives and cathartics.

"I also took Sargor Pills with fine results and consider them a valuable part of the treatment.

"I take pleasure in endorsing Sargon for the genuine improvement it has brought about in my physical condition."

Sargon may be obtained at all Owl Drug Stores and Liggett Drug Stores in Los Angeles and other cities.—[Advertisement.

Co-operation Among Nations Urged at Road Congress

Highway Experts of Sixty Nations Hear Address

More Construction Advised as Aid to Unemployed

WASHINGTON, Oct. 6. (AP)—Co-operation among nations as a means of promoting peace and prosperity throughout the world was stressed today by Secretary Stimson in an address at the opening session of the sixth international road congress.

Addressing highway experts from sixty nations representing every part of the world, the Secretary of State said, "It is to the unselfish spirit of international co-operation, so finely exemplified in this congress, that we must look for the basic guarantees of the future peace and prosperity of the world."

Increasing road-building programs were urged by Roy D. Chapin of Detroit, the president-general of the congress, as a means of giving additional employment to labor.

The meeting will continue throughout this week with engineers and road-building experts exchanging information looking toward improvement of modern highway systems.

NEW SNOOPING CHARGE MADE

Senate Funds Committee Accused by Nebraskan

Wire Tapping in Norris Inquiry Asserted

Nye's Reply Characterizes It as Red Herring

WASHINGTON, Oct. 6. (AP)—New wire-tapping charges were filed against the Senate campaign funds committee today and brought an immediate counter-charge from Chairman Nye of an attempt "to drag a red herring" across the committee's trail.

Charles E. Matson of Lincoln, Neb., sent a letter to Vice-President Curtis and to the press complaining that the Senate committee had refused to investigate a charge he made that asserted Federal officers were tapping the wires in Nebraska of those leaders supposed to be unfriendly to Senator Norris in his campaign for renomination as a Republican.

Senator Nye, Republican, North Dakota, as chairman of the campaign funds committee, replied with the statement that he had called Matson when the committee was in Lincoln recently and that Matson failed to respond. He added that Matson will be subpoenaed the next time the committee goes to Nebraska to resume its inquiry into the filing of the second George W. Norris, a Broken Bow grocer, against Senator George W. Norris.

Ford in London Takes Rap at High Tariffs

LONDON, Oct. 6. (AP)—A broadside against tariff protection in all countries was delivered here today by Henry Ford.

Pausing long enough in his European trip to announce price reductions on some of his cars in Great Britain, the American automobile magnate proceeded to attack "all tariffs in the United States and other countries."

"Tariffs as trade protection are rarely successful," he said.

He asserted British buyers of Ford automobiles during 1929 paid about $8,750,000 more than American buyers for the same number of cars.

BUSINESS SEES DARK DAYS PASS

Manufacturers' Association Notes Recovery Facts

Two-thirds Declare Sales "Fair" or Better

Prices Hold Up and Wages Show No Cutting

NEW YORK, Oct. 6. (Exclusive) Factors indicating the worst of the business depression had passed were revealed in the annual trade survey presented today to the annual meeting of the National Association of Manufacturers.

Principal among these was that the wage scale generally is holding up; that with a great decrease in production there is no considerable overstock of goods on hand; that while sales quantities have fallen off the decrease in sales prices has not been in anything like the same ratio; that the outlook for winter is preponderatingly favorable in the varying degrees of "excellent," "good" and "fair"; and that a condition of complete labor tranquility prevails.

The survey was made by means of a questionnaire sent to members of the association, embracing manufacturers of goods in twenty-five basic groupings with an additional grouping for miscellaneous products.

A summary of the general averages of the replies gives the following:

Present trade was reported excellent by 2 per cent, good by 15 per cent, fair by 47, with 36 per cent pronouncing it poor.

Prospects for winter were considered excellent by 2 per cent, good by 2 per cent, fair by 50 and poor by the remainder.

The wage scale compared with last fall is unchanged, according to 82 per cent of the answers, with 6 per cent reporting decreases and 2 per cent increases.

AUTOMOTIVE PRODUCTS SPUR TO WORLD TRADE

NEW YORK, Oct. 6. (AP)—The National Association of Manufacturers, in convention here, was told by its trade committee today that the development and utilization of automotive products here and abroad presages "an era of world enterprise scarce dreamed of before the World War" and comparable to the expansion following invention of the steam locomotive a century ago.

"In this development the United States is prepared to take and is already taking a leading part," the committee's report said.

John E. Edgerton, of Lebanon, Tenn., president of the association, announced in an address the "unashamed resistance of organized industry" to governmental pensions for the aged, insurance for the unemployed, and similar legislation.

The open-shop committee's report expressed opposition to the fixing of wage rates in governmental contracts by private organizations; the employment-relations committee advocated the extension within industry of constructive methods of dealing with economic old age, unemployment and sickness; and the transportation committee recommended the time of the recapture clause in the transportation act be extended from one to five years.

PITTMAN FINDS KEY TO SLUMP

Senator Heading Inquiry on Trade Blames Fall in Silver Value

SALT LAKE CITY, Oct. 6. (AP)—United States Senator Pittman of Nevada, chairman of the subcommittee of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee investigating the nation's foreign trade, said here today he will make a report "of a most encouraging nature" when he discusses the committee's work in an address before the Salt Lake Chamber of Commerce Wednesday.

The subcommittee has held hearings at Washington, San Francisco, Los Angeles, Portland and Seattle. Senator Pittman arrived here today.

"A significant finding so far is that American exports to the Orient have dropped in a direct ratio to the decline in the price of silver, the declines in both instances being approximately 50 per cent," he said.

"If the remainder of the investigation upholds this finding, our subcommittee will report to the committee as a whole that the general economic depression of the world is largely due to the degraded position of the white metal.

"The hearings are to be resumed later in the East," he added.

German Bishop Bans Fascists

BERLIN, Oct. 6. (AP)—The Jewish Telegraphic Agency reports Archbishop Hugo of Mainz today officially forbade all Catholics in his diocese to join Adolf Hitler's Fascist groups and barred from confession and the sacraments registered members of the Fascist party who are Catholics.

THREE CHILDREN DIE IN BURNING OF BARN

MARION (Ky.) Oct. 6. (AP)—Three children were burned to death today in a fire which destroyed a barn on the farm of Graves Bicketi, near Raywick, in Marion county. The children who perished were Ruth Bickett, 3 years of age, and her two cousins, Louis Blandford, 4, and Victor Blandford, 2. The children were playing in the barn.

EX-COUNTESS BRIDE OF BRITISH OFFICER

Mrs. Lawson-Johnston (the former Countess de Prorok)

DAUGHTER OF KENNEY WEDS AGAIN

Ex-Countess de Prorok Marries Scottish Guards Captain in London

NEW YORK, Oct. 6. (Exclusive) Trans-Atlantic telephone calls today revealed to the relatives here of Alice Josephine Kenney, daughter of Millionaire William F. Kenney and former wife of Count Byron Kuhn de Prorok, that she staged an impromptu marriage in London Saturday with a handsome captain of the Scottish Guards some years her junior, A. J. Kenney, uncle of the bride, put in the call and verified the fact that the one-time Countess de Prorok is now Mrs. Lawson-Johnston.

Capt. St. John Lawson-Johnston is a handsome young man of 26 or 27 years of age," Kenney said, "and his uncle is the Duke of Panebam."

The bride's father, one of the closest friends of ex-Gov. Alfred E. Smith, is now in London and will reach home next week on the Leviathan.

PREMIER RESIGNS IN RUMANIA

Action Regarded as Test of King Carol's Strength With Peasant Party

BUCHAREST, Oct. 6. (AP)—Premier Maniu of Rumania went out to Sinaia this morning and handed in his resignation as head of the government to King Carol.

The King accepted it, but asked M. Maniu to continue in office until a new ministry can be formed.

Maniu stated tonight that he resigned because of "impaired health." His most likely successor is Nicolas Titulescu or Foreign Minister G. G. Mironescu.

Premier Maniu's resignation is regarded generally as a trial of strength to demonstrate to King Carol whether or not he still has the support of the entire peasant party.

MAN KILLS FOUR IN FAMILY AND HIMSELF

NEW BEDFORD (Mass.) Oct. 6. (AP)—John W. Robison, 37 years of age, believed to have been demented, killed his wife and three children and probably fatally injured another before killing himself in his home here tonight. The children's throats had been cut with a razor and their heads beaten in with a hammer.

NAVY PREPARES TO SCRAP SHIPS

Pratt Would Speed Program Called for by Treaty

Twenty Submarines and Two Cruisers on Schedule

Disposals of Vessels Now Would Cut Personnel

WASHINGTON, Oct. 6. (Exclusive)—Plans to speed up warship scrapping in order to bring the United States fleet within the scope of the London naval agreement are now under consideration by Admiral William V. Pratt, chief of naval operations. At least twenty submarines, two old cruisers and several other vessels are slated for disposal under the treaty within the next few years.

According to information current today Admiral Pratt hopes to dispose of these vessels within the next few months as one of the navy's contributions to the Hoover retrenchment program. By scrapping these vessels at once instead of gradually over a period of two or three years, it would be possible to reduce naval personnel almost 2000 men.

The fleet now has approximately 16,000 tons of submarines in excess of the 52,700 permitted by the treaty. If these vessels were disposed of at once or laid up, 800 men would be freed for other duties. Recruiting has been curtailed in both the Navy and the Marine Corps, and before the end of the year the personnel of these two establishments will be reduced by at least 3000 men, according to the existing plans.

BETROTHAL QUESTION CLARIFIED

Mussolini's Newspaper Says Potential Heir Not Exempt From Catholicism

ROME, Oct. 7. (Tuesday) (AP)—A statement published in Arnaldo Mussolini's newspaper, Popolo d'Italia, at Milan, today confirmed a declaration in the Vatican Osservatore Romano that nothing has been done to exempt the eventual heir to the Bulgarian throne from a Catholic upbringing.

This is regarded as an important indication of the official attitude toward the religious question in the betrothal of Princess Giovanna of Italy and King Boris of Bulgaria.

The Bulgarian constitution requires the heir to the throne be raised in the Greek orthodox faith. It had been previously reported the Vatican had consented to this, though stipulating Princess Giovanna and the other children must remain Catholic.

Oil Magnate Plans Award

TULSA (Okla.) Oct. 6. (AP)—Henry L. Doherty, oil and utilities magnate, announced today he will contribute a suitable award for the most outstanding achievement in the petroleum industry in the period between the 1930 and 1933 International Petroleum expositions.

Announcement of the Doherty award came following a conversation between the donor and William B. Way, general manager of the exposition, as they inspected exhibits at this year's oil show.

Doherty said the award will be given for advancement that best will benefit both the industry and the general public.

Harding Tomb Rites Delayed

MARION (O.) Oct. 6. (AP)—The Harding Memorial Association at its eighth annual meeting here today adopted a resolution to defer for the present all plans for the dedication of the Harding tomb built in 1926.

At the same time, the members went on record as opposed to any step that might give a political atmosphere to the ceremonies and for this reason voted disapproval of the action of the Ohio Republican convention in naming a committee to arrange for the dedication.

GAS-WASTAGE SUIT ON

Oil Company Counsel Contends State Exceeds Police Powers in Seeking Curtailment

HANFORD, Oct. 6.—That the State of California has exceeded it police powers in seeking to enjoin Kettleman Hills oil interests, on account of Associated's asserted waste of natural gas, was the main point argued by Attorney John G. Covert, counsel for the Felix Oil Company, named as chief defendant in the State's gas-wastage injunction suit which went to trial here today.

The Felix Oil Company and twenty other producing, or potentially producing, oil companies and land owners, are made defendants by the State's Department of Natural Resources. A large array of legal talent appeared in court. The State's case is being handled by Attorney James S. Bennet. Most of the day was taken up by the arguments on demurrers and motions to strike out, in fact, it is expected that the rest of the week will be devoted to that phase of the trial and that the case will not open on its merits until next week.

ATTORNEY ARGUES

Attorney Covert gave over nearly all of the three hours he argued to the contention that "While the State has certain police powers," it does not have the constitutional right to step in and exercise power where property rights and contractural relations are involved. He declared that if the State can so control the oil and gas resources it might also control every other resource in the State. He argued that the State cannot tell the owners of forests what they can do with their products, nor can they say to any industry that it must curtail its production. He contended that a patent to land is nothing more than a contract and that the State has no right to interfere in the use of that land if the contract is impaired.

Attorney P. C. Black, for the Continental Oil Company, from a color chart went into details in describing the process of drilling for oil.

JUDGE ASKS INTENTIONS

Attorney A. M. Drew of Fresno, representing the Whepley Oil Company, which has its holdings leased to the Petroleum Securities Company, resumed the argument on the question of police powers. He said that State's police powers were limited to the proposition of stepping in "when health, safety or the morals of the public were at stake." At the opening of the hearing today, Judge S. L. Strother of Fresno, who is presiding in the case, asked if the interests expected to press the motions to strike out. Attorney Arthur Smiley, counsel for the Millham Exploration Company, answered by saying that it is his intention to argue the motion to the extent of his ability, with the thought in mind of convincing the court that a large portion of the allegations of the complaint should be struck out.

BLARNEY STONE NERVES ORATOR

Irish Free State Sends Lad of Silver Tongue

William Hayes Sails West to Enter Contest

English Champion on Same Ship for New York

By a "Times" Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON, Oct. 6. (Exclusive)—A 17-year-old lad with music in his voice will represent the Irish Free State in the fifth International Oratorical Contest finals here on the 26th inst.

He is William Hayes of Edmonstown, Rathfarnham, County Dublin, and with his singing and his oratory already has won the respect of the little isle that has produced so many whose voices have carried them to fame. He is the first youth of Ireland, too, to come to Washington for the contest which each year names the world's high school speech-making champion.

BORN ORATOR

According to information that has preceded him to contest headquarters young Hayes will give a good account of himself when he takes the stage with other national champions in Constitution Hall. His elders have told Randolph Leigh, director-general of the contest, that he entered the Castle Park preparatory school in Dalley, County Dublin, at 10 years of age. Four years later he entered St. Columba's College in Rathfarnham, which is the only public school conducted like the great English founditions in the Irish Free State. The lad still is a student there, where his career has been distinguished.

In 1926 young Hayes won the Feis Ceoil—national music festival—gold medal for solo singing and in 1929 he won the principal school prize in mathematics, an award founded by the Earl of Pembroke and usually captured by older boys. Last year he was made junior prefect in St. Columba's. In addition to the field of music William Hayes used his resonant voice in the forensic field, winning early this year the Wardens' gold medal for oratory, a distinction which marked him for competition in the International Oratorical Contest.

ATHLETE, TOO

Nor is the Irish Free State's representative entirely of scholarly mien. He has made a name for himself in the school life of County Dublin by playing good games of Rugby, football and cricket for St. Columba's.

In his oratorical contest participation Hayes speaks on "The Irish Free State." There is no erratic bombardment in this lad's speech, but, rather, a dignified expression of his ideas, enriched by the oratorical tradition of his land. Behind him is this tradition and ahead of him is a stiff battle against the best young orators the leading nations of the world can produce, but with him there is youth and native ability.

Hayes arrives in New York with his parents on the 18th inst. on the ship that is bringing Jack Mallard German, English spokesman in the contest.

Experience Is the Only Safe Guide to Sound Investment

All definite knowledge is derived from experience, either directly or indirectly. This is strikingly true in the field of investments.

Much that has been regarded as knowledge has been proved by experience to be only theory—or fallacy.

Many forms of so-called investment that were presumed to be safe, have been found to be highly speculative. And many sources of "sure profit" have turned out to be pitfalls for the unwary.

Some one has said: "Rightly understood and accepted, all experiences are good, and the bitter ones best of all".

Many investors who have suffered serious losses and bitter anxieties the past year, will profit by them in the long run. Others, who have not rightly interpreted their experiences, will continue in their unfortunate ways.

Many people who have acquired, through speculation, the habit of acting largely on "tips", impulses, or biased recommendations, quite naturally fall into similar errors when seeking sound investments.

Then, too, there are many private investors who consider themselves incapable of making a critical analysis of an investment offering, and consequently rely on the advice of others. Sometimes this advice is good; sometimes bad.

As a matter of fact, there is nothing very complex or difficult in the selection of sound investments. It is largely a matter of clear thinking and the willingness to spend a little time in personally investigating the merits of the various forms of investment available.

Using Experience as a Guide

When considering the purchase of any investment it is important to ascertain whether it is only theoretically safe or whether it has been so proved by experience. This does not necessarily mean your own experience. It is just as easy to profit by the experience of others.

For example, investigation will show that the Insured First Mortgage Certificates of the Mortgage Guarantee Company have given investors absolute protection over a long period of years, regardless of war, business depression, and market panic. There can be no better proof of the soundness of any investment.

No analytical ability or unusual acumen is required to select a fundamentally sound, time-tested investment of this character. Good judgment alone is required.

The Fundamentals of Safety

It is obvious that any investment designed to afford complete protection must have back of it the soundest kind of security, and of sufficient value to provide for any emergency.

The Insured First Mortgage Certificates of this Company are protected by first liens on improved, widely-diversified real estate, in the growing communities of California. These liens, which in no instance exceed 50% of the property values, established by the most conservative appraisals, are held in trust for the benefit of the Certificate holders, and each lien is accompanied by a policy of insurance, issued under the Mortgage Insurance Act of California, guaranteeing the Certificate holders against any loss of either principal or interest.

In other words, there is a safety margin of more than 50% in sound property value, in addition to which is the insurance against loss issued by this institution with its capital, surplus, and undivided profit of $9,000,000 and total resources of more than $95,000,000. Every possible provision for the protection of the investor is embodied in these Certificates.

A Dependable Guide

No more dependable guide to sound investment can be found than the experience of the numerous banks, insurance companies, trust estates, and thousands of private investors who have been purchasing these Certificates for many years, in prosperity and in depression, with complete freedom from care and anxiety. These investors have had no occasion to watch the market or wonder whether the interest would be paid promptly on due dates, or whether the principal would be paid at maturity. They have had perfect peace of mind at all times, while enjoying an adequate return on their money.

Other Features

These Certificates are available in convenient maturities with optional interest dates, and in denominations of $100 and multiples thereof. They are registerable and therefore subject to replacement in the event of loss or destruction. Interest is paid by check thus obviating the clipping of coupons. They are legal for all institutional and trust funds. And the interest rate is 6%.

Your request for further information—by mail, by telephone, or in person—is invited.

A CHUCKLE FOR EVERYBODY

TARZAN AND THE LOST EMPIRE

By Edgar Rice Burroughs

Now a shout went up from the legionaries in the garden. They had breached the wall and were advancing to enter through the hole, Tarzan unleashed the apes. "Stop them, Zutho! Kill, Goyad! Kill!" The apes sprang forward with bared fangs and, growling hideously, threw themselves upon the soldiers.

Two apes went down, pierced by the Roman pikes, but before the beastly rage of the others Caesar's soldiers fell back. "After them!" cried Tarzan to Praeclarus. "Follow them into the garden. Capture the ballista and turn it upon the legionaries. We'll hold the throne-room door until we're needed."

Led by Maximus Praeclarus, Cassius Hasta and Caecilius Metallus, gladiators, thieves and murderers dashed forth into the garden, profiting by the advantage the apes had gained for them. Side by side with the remaining gladiators, Tarzan fought to hold the legionaries from the little doorway.

Glancing back, he saw Mpingu leading Dilecta from the room to the rear of the escaped prisoners. Then he turned again to the defense of the doorway. Giving way step by step, he and his men fell back to the window and backed through the breach in the wall to the garden. Then came a shout of warning.

WOOLWORTH SEPTEMBER SALES GAIN

Mixed Trend Shown by Monthly Statements of Chain Systems

NEW YORK, Oct. 6.—F. W. Woolworth reported today September sales of $22,352,534, against $22,264,336 last year, a gain of .4 per cent. Sales for the nine months this year declined 4.1 per cent from 1929 figures to $196,466,061.

The entire eastern district from Maine to Florida inclusive and as far west as Pittsburgh, as well as the Pacific Coast district, showed a gain of 5 per cent in old stores against a loss for the same stores of 6.32 per cent in August, H. T. Parsons, president, stated.

"Stores west of Pittsburgh and east of the Rockies," he continued, "show a very much improved condition in sales as their loss in old stores for September is only 7½ per cent against a loss in August of 16½ per cent.

"September gain in all stores of $58,198 compares with a loss in August of $2,391,801 and there was one more Saturday and one more business day in August than in September," he concluded.

COTTON MARKET

NEW YORK, Oct. 6. (AP)—An opening decline in cotton due to over-Sunday selling orders from the South and some local selling inspired by relatively easy Liverpool cables were followed by rallies on a little trade buying and covering today, promoted by the rallies in grain and apprehensions rains in the South might delay the movement or hurt the staple of open cotton. December contracts sold up from 10.33 to 10.44 or 12 points net higher, but met selling at this level with the mid-afternoon market ruling quiet and about net unchanged to 3 points lower on the active positions.

RICHFIELD PLANS PROGRESS

Two Companies Seek Minority Interest Through Offers for Block of Common; Other Deals Up

BY EARLE E. CROWE

Plans to replenish the working capital position of the Richfield Oil Company are proceeding satisfactorily to the management and the bankers associated with the program. Developments yesterday reached the point where several million dollars of fresh capital will be provided shortly if transactions under consideration are completed.

Of primary importance, the company has received overtures from two major companies looking to the purchase of a minority interest in the Richfield company. The completion of these negotiations alone would add from $5,000,000 to $6,000,000 to Richfield's working capital.

MAY SELL FUEL

As the company has frequently done in the past, it is further expected that substantial sales of fuel oil will be made which may bring from $2,000,000 to $3,000,000 into the Richfield treasury.

Third on the list of probable events on the program of financial rehabilitation is consideration of an offer from another producing company for a position in Richfield's Lost Hills picture. From this sale the company may receive several hundred thousand dollars for a block of fee land.

The propositions for the purchase of a common stock minority interest in Richfield come, it is understood, from two nationally known oil companies not now represented in the California marketing business. The attractiveness of the Richfield gasoline distribution and the improved status of its producing prospects probably actuate the proposals from the two companies.

DEAL MAY FOLLOW

Entrance into Richfield by one of these companies might presage the contribution of new managerial talent to represent the minority holder and also the election of representatives on the board of directors. The investment would also place the purchaser in an advantageous position to offer an exchange of stock for controlling interest at some time in the future if both parties were satisfied with the partnership.

Richfield in the past has been a large seller of fuel oil to other companies and may succeed in effecting similar sales at this time. Because of a relatively small percentage of cracking units to total refining capacity, the company usually backs large amounts of fuel oil into storage for which it finds a market periodically. Sale of any portion of this storage supply would materially improve the financial condition at this time.

Within the last ten days the management capitalized in part on its splendid prospects in the Lost Hills section where Richfield holds 12,000 acres in fee. The Standard Oil Company of California paid several hundred thousand dollars for a half interest in 400 acres, and now another large company is reported to have made an offer on another block of acreage in the same district.

Richfield's Belridge well, in which the sand has been picked up, may result in the extension of the Ketteman Hills field. This discovery would place an immense value on the Belridge and the Lost Hills acreage.

Income of Oil Royalties Unit Holding Steady

Current income from royalties after deduction of operating and overhead expense of the Signal Royalties Company is running at the rate of $25,000 per month or approximately 60 cents per share monthly, the company announced yesterday. Signal Royalties was organized by the stockholders of Signal Oil and Gas Company about eighteen months ago. Dividends are payable quarterly at the annual rate of $2 a share.

Completion within the past week of three wells in the west end of Signal Hill has added considerably to the company's earnings, it was stated. These wells range in initial production from 1200 to 1600 barrels of clean 30 gravity oil with approximately 3,000,000 cubic feet of rich gas to the well.

At Signal Hill, Santa Fe Springs, Elwood and Maricopa Flats the company's royalty percentage amounts to approximately 20,000 barrels of oil per month. Without curtailment, Signal Royalties' holdings would be capable of producing from 40,000 to 45,000 barrels per month, officials stated.

LECTURES TO CLASS IN CREDITS SLATED

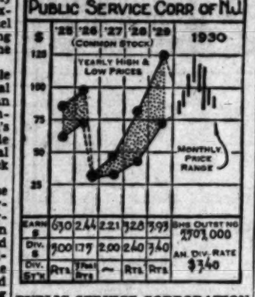
WHAT'S BEHIND YOUR STOCK

PUBLIC SERVICE CORP OF N.J.



PUBLIC SERVICE CORPORATION OF NEW JERSEY

Properties controlled by this important utility furnish over 90 per cent of the population of New Jersey with one or another or all of its electric light, power, gas and transportation services. The territory served, including the important residential and industrial areas of Newark, Camden, Trenton and Jersey City, has been rapidly developed in the past decade and its rate of growth seems to show no signs of diminution, aided by the new Holland tunnel and the Camden-Philadelphia bridge. A new and still undeveloped source of earning power is the electrification of important railroad lines entering Jersey City and other important points in Northern New Jersey.

Consolidated net income for the year 1929 advanced to $28,512,800 from a 1928 figure of only $22,948,100, an increase of 24 per cent. Continued upward trend of earnings is indicated in the consolidated earnings statement for year ended June 30, 1930, with net income at $30,001,734 comparing favorably with $26,677,738 in the year before.

CAPITALIZATION

Funded debt, $227,831,231; total preferred stocks, 1,230,541 shares; common stock (no par,) 5,503,000 shares.

Current data: Public Service Coordinated Transport, a subsidiary, recently filed a request with the New Jersey Public Utilities Commission for permission to increase fares on its traction and bus lines.

Dealers in Trust Shares to Meet

In connection with sales conferences with dealers engaged in the distribution of Diversified Trustee Shares, Guy M. Rush, vice-president of America Trustee Share Corporation, and John Swaney, in charge of Pacific Coast sales, arrived here yesterday from New York City. Distribution of the shares is sponsored by W. A. Harriman, Inc., of New York.

Mr. Rush announced a dividend of 51.02 cents a share has just been declared on Diversified Trustee Shares, series B, a fixed trust brought out in 1927. He stated a majority of the leading investment houses in the principal Pacific Coast cities are now distributing the trust's securities, of which more than $60,000,000 have been sold throughout the country since the inception of the original series trust in 1924.

Swift Compania Declares Extra

CHICAGO, Oct. 6. (AP)—Directors of Compania Swift International have voted an extra dividend of $1 a share to stockholders of record of the 15th inst., it was announced today. Payment will be made November 15.

The 1930 earnings to date, the announcement said, compare favorably with the earnings for the same period in 1929.

DIVIDEND PASSED BY MIAMI COPPER

NEW YORK, Oct. 6.—Directors of Miami Copper Company have omitted the quarterly dividend due at this time. Three months ago the directors declared a quarterly of 37½ cents and prior to that the company had paid dividends of $1 a share for five quarters.

GULF-PACIFIC JOINS REDWOOD SHIP LINE

CANADIAN FINANCING ON MARKET

Dominion Issue Totals $100,000,000; Offering of Oil Stock Due

Representing the largest foreign government bond flotation in the American market this year, public offering will be made today of a $100,000,000 thirty-year, 4 per cent loan for the government of the Dominion of Canada at 95 1-4 and interest, yielding about 4.28 per cent.

The financing will provide the Dominion with funds to be used for refunding or retiring loans and for other general purposes of the government. The offering banking group is headed by Chase Securities Corporation, Bancamerica-Blair Corporation, the First National Old Colony Corporation, Cassatt & Co., and Harris, Forbes & Co., and includes Security-First National Bank, Los Angeles; Citizens National Company, Los Angeles, and American Securities Company, National Bankitaly Company and Anglo-London-Paris Company of San Francisco.

Offering of $12,000,000 5 per cent cumulative preferred stock of the Standard Oil Company of Ohio, which will enable it to retire its outstanding 7 per cent preferred stock and provide the company with additional funds for corporate purposes, is being made by Chase Securities Corporation, Bancamerica-Blair Corporation, Hayden, Miller & Co., and Union Cleveland Corporation. The stock is priced at $103 and accrued dividend per share to yield over 4.85 per cent.

After giving effect to this financing, capitalization of the company will consist of $12,000,000 of 5 per cent preferred stock and $14,000,000 of common stock which at current quotations represents a market equity of more than $35,000,000.

Jordan Motors Reorganization Plan Revealed

CLEVELAND, Oct. 6. (Exclusive) Reorganization plans approved by directors of the Jordan Motor Car Corporation which will be submitted to stockholders, call for the formation of a new company, the Jordan Motors Corporation, Inc., of Ohio, to take over the present Delaware company.

The new company will have 500,000 shares of no-par common stock for which the present preferred stock will be exchanged on the basis of five shares of new common for each share of preferred of the present company and the present common stock will be exchanged on the basis of one share of new common for each ten shares of old common. In addition to the stock needed for exchange, 150,000 shares of new stock will be sold at $10 a share.

Approval of the plan is required by two-thirds of both the preferred and common stock of the present company. While no detailed plans have been announced, it is stated that new interests are entering the company and there will be developed a new type of car which will be distributed by methods not now familiar to the automobile industry.

Liens of State and Municipal Units Point Up

NEW YORK, Oct. 6. (Exclusive) For the nine months' period ending September 30 of this year, State and municipal borrowing amounted to $1,037,496,468, as compared with $965,544,206 for the corresponding period in 1929, according to the Daily Bond Buyer, of New York. The total for the month of September is $72,602,812, as compared with $100,259,083 during September of 1929. With the exception of September, 1923, this is the lowest September total for any year since 1921.

The following table, prepared by the Daily Bond Buyer of New York, compares municipal bond sale totals in September for the past ten years:

	September.	9 months ending September 30.
1930	$ 72,602,812	$1,037,496,468

NEW RESERVE BANK WAR ON

Attack on Policy by New York Senator Viewed as Opening Gun of Renewal

BY JOHN F. SINCLAIR

(Copyright, 1930, by the North American Newspaper Alliance)

NEW YORK, Oct. 6.—The Federal Reserve is under attack again. The keynote speech of Senator Wagner of New York charged the Federal Reserve Board, "of which Mr. Mellon is chairman," with vetoing the action of the New York Federal Reserve Bank "when in 1929 it attempted to put the brakes" on further credit inflation.

Is this the beginning of a campaign to bring the Federal Reserve actively into partisan policies? Is there any way by which the Reserve system can avoid it while the Secretary of the Treasury, whoever he may be, remains chairman of the Federal Reserve Board?

Probably not. That is why Paul M. Warburg, in his recent work "The Federal Reserve System" suggests that the Federal Reserve act be amended to provide that:

(1.) The Governor be chosen from the existing membership of the board itself, rather than by Presidential appointment.

(2.) That the chairmanship of the board be held by the Governor, not by the Secretary of the Treasury as at present.

(3.) That "a member of the Federal Reserve Board, who has been confirmed by the Senate at the time of his first nomination," may be reappointed by the President "without again submitting his name to the Senate."

It looks as though the Federal Reserve system is in for stormy weather in the fall political campaign. Already its policies from 1923 to 1929 have been severely criticised because of the board's lethargy in allowing stock-market speculation to reach the heights it did before the break of last October.

Just as everything was set for a meeting in New York of the heads of the various banks of Germany, England, France and the United States the announcement comes that probably Secretary Mellon and Governor Meyer of the Federal Reserve Board will not take part in any meeting to discuss international finance with these bankers.

Eugene Meyer, Jr., has been appointed by President Hoover as Governor, but the United States Senate has not yet confirmed him.

Hans Luther, governor of the Reichsbank, now is not certain he can attend. Should a dictatorship be proclaimed in Germany, many think Dr. Luther will be named to represent that country if the meeting is held.

However, the project has been met with considerable opposition during the last week or so. It is difficult to see at present what can be accomplished. Perhaps at the last minute the meeting will be called off—for a time at least.

All of which shows that it's pretty difficult to keep business out of politics and politics out of business.

When soviet Russia completes its five-year program in September, 1933, sixty-two transmitting stations will cover its vast territory like a mantle. This great network of stations will include postal, telegraph and telephone as well as radio communications. Soviet leaders know the network's value and its future in their unification program.

Step on a train at San Francisco and step off at London, Eng. That's how far it is from one side of Russia to the other.

At first, eighteen to twenty stations were considered sufficient. But the increasing popularity of the radio has become so strong that soviet officials decided upon an even more ambitious program. It means increasing the expenditure over the five-year period from about $154,000,000 to $683,000,000, according to the American Department of Commerce.

Soviet Russia is building from the ground up.

Transamerica Makes Offer to Italian Units

Stockholders of Banca d'America e d'Italia and Ameritalia Corporation were yesterday offered an exchange for shares of the Transamerica Corporation, holding company having a majority interest in the two Italian companies, according to an announcement of L. M. Giannini, Transamerica president.

One share of Transamerica is offered for five shares of Ameritalia Corporation, and one share of Transamerica for two and one-half shares of Banca d'America e d'Italia carrying two and one-half shares of Ameritalia. Shares received by Transamerica under the exchange will be held by one of its subsidiaries.

Stockholders of the two Italian companies accepting the offer are given until November 15, next, to deposit their shares with the Bank of America, N. A., New York; Bank of Italy, San Francisco; or Banca d'America e d'Italia, Milan, Italy. Fractional shares of Transamerica will not be issued.

DRIFT ON STOCK MARKET LOWER

Price Index Slumps to Near Year's Low Mark

"Blue Chip" Shares Hardest Hit in Bear Raid

Total Sales in Trading Only Moderately Heavy

NEW YORK, Oct. 6. (AP)—Slow but steady pressure pushed stocks downward today, virtually completing the erasure of last week's rally and leaving the average for ninety issues only one-fifth of a point above the year's low set September 30. Sales were well below the volume reached in the recent liquidation, however, totaling 2,385,000 shares.

The selling was particularly disturbing to those who had hoped last week's lows in the leaders would offer formidable resistance points.

Discouragement over the failure of last week's advance to hold for more than a day was the most frequently heard explanation for the market's action.

Saturday's weakness in American Telephone and other so-called "blue chip" shares seemed to have had an unfavorable effect, for it was in stocks of this grade some of the day's major losses were suffered. Virtually all of the investment rails made new 1930 lows; utilities and industrials slumped with only sickly attempts at rallies.

Many prominent shares were off 2 to 6 points and more, which meant new lows for the year or for the broad downward movement were numerous. United States Steel, breaking to 153¼ against its 1930 low of 151 5-8, and American Telephone, which touched 200½, only 3-8 from the year's minimum, closed slightly above the bottom for 3 point net losses.

Aside from the disturbances in Brazil the day's news afforded little that was either alarming or encouraging.

Withdrawals of about $50,000,000, mostly for out-of-town banks, kept the money market firm.

There were 5 point net declines in American Can, North American, Du Pont, and Case, Westinghouse Electric, Canadian Pacific and American & Foreign Power lost 6, American Water Works nearly 9 and Allied Chemical 18. Radio made a new low for the year, off more than 2 points. Union Pacific closed 3 lower. Atchison's loss was nearly 5. Foreign exchanges eased.

City Bond Block Delivery Today

There are 5000 bonds, each of the denomination of $1000, Powell, for the bonds, will receive a grand total of $5,051,391.67, made up of the premium of $47,850 and accrued interest, $3451.67.

At the same time, Powell will offer for sale to the highest bidder, $1,051,844.93 in improvement bonds for the opening and widening of Third street between Figueroa street and Vermont avenue.

INVESTMENTS
for the Business Man

A STEADILY increasing number of business men has come to realize the importance of maintaining a reserve in marketable bonds with high collateral value. Such a reserve, when properly invested, will provide a fund of cash when needed to meet an expected demand or to take advantage of a sudden opportunity.

In line with the requirements of this class of investor, our offering list includes high-grade, short-term bonds which offer a maximum of marketability with a rate of return materially higher than can be obtained on the call market.

We shall be pleased to submit a list of current issues of this character without obligation

COPPER MARKET CONTINUES DROP

Price at 10 Cents Lowest in Over Thirty Years

Slash Stimulates Buying but Consumption Lags

Situation in Lead and Zinc About Unchanged

BY CHARLES F. WILLIS,
Editor The Mining Journal, Phoenix

Sympathetic with the falling stock market and further business depression, the metal prices have dropped so that copper is now at its lowest price in more than thirty years, 10 cents f.o.b. Connecticut points and 10.30 for export. Lead dropped from 5.50 to 5.35 f.o.b. New York and zinc from 4.25 to 4.22 f.o.b. St. Louis.

The zinc market has only been moderately active. Stocks are in ample volume and consumers can see no likelihood of any marked change in the situation, especially as to higher prices, so they are showing no particular concern about acquiring supplies. There is nothing indicating an early change.

Lead continues to be in the most satisfactory position of all the metals. There has been a steady volume of business at a fair rate with some occasional sales of unusually large quantities, mostly for October delivery. There are good tonnages on the books of lead producers and, as compared with the producers of other metals, they feel themselves in a comfortable position.

World output of lead continues to increase in August. The total for the month was 154,164 tons, compared with 151,356 in July and 136,541 in June. Imports of lead in unmanufactured form in August totaled 22,574 tons against 20,652 in July and 27,926 in June. Exports of unmanufactured lead by the United States amounted to 3891 tons in August, against 4,000 in July and 5400 in June.

AT 1896 LEVEL

The present copper price brings it to a level only reached before in 1896 and at the present price there is probably not 50 per cent of the copper being produced that is bringing a profit. The new low price has greatly stimulated buying, a condition which is useless in improving the situation unless the copper being bought is also being consumed and there is no evidence of this.

The main benefit which may come from the present low price of copper is that certain higher cost mines cannot stand the pressure and will undoubtedly have to curtail production and it is only a production less than consumption or an increase in consumption to a point in excess of production that will permit of a turn and improvement in the market.

Buying of copper on the way down from 11 to 10 cents was not active simply because it is necessary that some stability of price be shown before the buyers will become interested and this stability can only be shown by maintaining the price for a couple of weeks at one point. The custom plants were continually able to undercut the producers and seek a buying level and the producers had to meet the custom plant price to get a share of the business offered.

STARTS BUYING

It is probable that the 10-cent price will bring a buying movement of consequence, and the general lowering of the fabricators' prices of manufactured products, based on 10-cent copper, may bring about a consumer demand, as the consumer stocks are very low and the opportunity is being given to replenish them at prices which have not been equaled in many years.

The producers' price break to 10 cents was sudden, with an immediate announcement of a half-cent drop in export copper and the prompt publication of revised fabricators' price lists and it looks as though the producers and fabricators had taken the bull by the horns deliberately to stimulate consumer buying by low prices. Whether it will do so remains to be seen. It is also felt that copper has now reached a sufficiently low price so that producers will find it more profitable to speculate in carrying their metal rather than succumb to any further low-price competitive selling from custom refiners and that the quantity of custom metal will be so limited that it can be handled by the producers. In other words, a buying level can profitably be maintained at 10 cents, with excellent speculative opportunities if it is necessary to purchase copper, at a price lower than most of them can make it themselves.

The domestic market has become still narrower as the result of the acquisition by the Phelps Dodge Corporation of the National Electric Products Corporation, establishing the third group in the industry combining mining, smelting, refining and fabricating plants. It is estimated in the trade that these three groups control fabricating capacity equal to over 80 per cent of the present copper consumption in the United States.

On the account of this line-up it is believed that the producers are in a better position to control the domestic market than ever before, and precluding the possibility of intensive competition in the fabricating end of the industry the maintenance of a steadier market than has been witnessed on the last two years would seem to be indicated.

Very rarely today is it possible to obtain

6.46% UTILITY INCOME

THE UPWARD MOVEMENT of the bond market over the past ten months has made it increasingly difficult to obtain a utility bond yielding 6% or better. Decidedly attractive, therefore, is the opportunity offered by:

INLAND UTILITIES, INC.
Convertible 6% Debentures, due 1934
Price Market, to yield about 6.46%

THESE DEBENTURES are traded in on the New York Curb and have had a year's seasoning under difficult market conditions. The issue was originally offered at approximately today's price and has sold as high as $126 due to the conversion feature. Nearly one-third of the original offering has been converted into Class "A" Stock, thereby materially strengthening the position of the remaining debentures.

We believe this issue merits your consideration, and we shall be pleased to furnish detailed information regarding the company's operations, earnings, outlook, etc., without obligation. Send name and address below.

LOS ANGELES EXCHANGE

Stock Market Softens on Week's Opening Session as Trading Activity Slackens

Evidence that the apprehensive attitude of traders remained unchanged over the week-end was borne out by a sharp contraction of dealings yesterday on the Los Angeles Stock Exchange. From the opening which corresponded closely with Saturday's close little inclination was shown to swing the list in either direction. The market drifted fractionally lower when the New York Stock Exchange list dropped sharply in the final hour.

Richfield continued to dominate the trading with a turnover of 3600 shares. The stock held within narrow limits throughout the entire session and closed unchanged for the day at 8½. The preferred dropped a point to 11 and recovered to 11½. The Richfield 6's of '44 which last week were quoted around 65, crossed the board at 75.

Hancock Oil, running contrary to the balance of the petroleum group, scored a sharp rally of 1 5-8 points to 9.11 5-8 on a turnover of 800 shares. Standard of California fell off 1 1-4 points to 85 3-8 and Union with Union Associates dropped a point each to 34 and 33, respectively. Other oils were practically unchanged, with the exception of Boiza Chica which firmed up 3-8 to 11 and Macmillan which yielded ⅛ to a new bottom at 7½.

Few changes took place in the balance of the list among the more popular issues. Transamerica yielded 5-8 to 20 on sales of 3400 shares and Southern California Edison lost 3-4 to 54. Claude Neon, with a turnover of only 500 shares, rallied a full point to 23.

Western Air Express, on the transfer of a board lot, broke 3 3-8 points to 27 1-8.

Sales totaled 22,886 shares valued at $602,227; previous day, 10,780 shares valued at $352,238.

NEW YORK BOND PRICES

NEW YORK, Oct. 6. (AP)—There was a fresh outbreak of selling of Latin-American obligations in the bond market today inspired by reports of revolutionary uprisings in Brazil where martial law has been declared.

Active selling forced a wide list of Brazilian issues down to new low levels, many of the dollar bonds selling at around 50. Issues of Colombia, Peru, Bolivia, Chile and Argentina.

The weakness in the South American list was the feature of a session in which almost every issue placed after a majority of entire bonds. The domestic section was likewise affected. With the exception of United States governmental where a firm trend was maintained on moderate volumes of sales. The gilt-edged bonds of the Government, Treasury issues, and Government agency issues particularly sugar and oil obligations were reactionary.

The heaviest liquidation in the South American list centered in Brazil 8s which almost forgot were

METAL MARKETS

CLEVELAND, Oct. 6. (Exclusive)—Daily Steel Trade today says: Steel prices are definitely firmer in the west, due chiefly to the elimination of a number of buyers from the preferred groups. Booking of forward tonnage continues light, and some views are that mills may not be able to better operating rates in the Chicago district during the remainder of this year. Nevertheless it is felt that the low point in the buying depression has passed.

Copper at Armer at 10 cents. Connecticut Zinc is easy with prime western quoted 4.20@4.22½. East St. Louis Lead is holding at 5.10. East St. Louis, and 5.25, New York. Tin quiet and unchanged with spot straits holding at 28 cents.

CASH profits or "paper" PROFITS?

CORPORATE TRUST SHARES are designed for the investor interested in realizing the greatest possible returns from funds conservatively invested.

There are two theories of conducting investment accounts, both of which have their advocates. One converts all stock accruals into cash and treats the whole as income. The other allows such accruals to remain in the form of increasing equities. There are good reasons for preferring either plan, and the investor should choose that best suited to his needs.

Corporate Trust Shareholders believe in taking cash profits when they are available, on what might be termed a "bird in hand" policy. Under the terms of this Trust all dividends and other distributions from the underlying stocks, plus interest on the Reserve Fund, are paid to the shareholders in cash twice each year. But the number of shares of each stock in the portfolio remains the same. Under the Corporate Trust Share plan, proceeds from stock dividends and split-ups may represent in part a return of principal, but more generally, and over a reasonable period of time, they are the result of market appreciation.

As will be seen from a glance at the list, the companies represented in Corporate Trust Shares are among the leading corporations in America; high grade stocks of the type proved to be the most profitable to hold. This Trust brings to small investors as well as large the full benefits of holding these stocks, together with the additional benefits of the trust form. It provides a very high cash return with assured safety and flexibility to meet the needs of various types of investors. Price at the market.

Wheat Futures Unevenly Up in Late Rally

CHICAGO, Oct. 6. (AP)—Grain threw off the influence of stock-market weakness today and scored late gains, both for wheat and corn. An unlooked for decrease of 2,739,000 bushels in the United States (west) visible supply was largely responsible for late rallies in wheat, together with reports the Argentine wheat crop had been damaged by frost. There were also advices that husking returns from the corn belt in this country were disappointing.

Closing wheat quotations were unsettled at ⅛@⅞c per bushel higher than fluctuday's closing. Corn finished at 1⅛@2c net gains, oats a shade to ⅝c down and provisions varying from 12c decline to a rise of 10c.

Late advances in Chicago wheat values lifted the market 2¾c from the day's bottom level, and as much as 1¼c above Saturday's finish, but efforts to realize profits on the upturn led to some reaction from the top points reached.

The corn market gave signs of independence when wheat showed weakness. Cash demand was relatively better than corn or wheat.

Provisions were irregular, with the pit disconcerted by fluctuations in grain, whereas from the outset hog values showed upturns.

RUBBER MARKET

NEW YORK, Oct. 6. (Exclusive)—Pronounced weakness reappeared in the outside market for crude rubber today. Ribbed smoked sheets slumped ½ point to 17½ cents, while thin pale was more sharply affected, being off ¾ to 8¼ cents. No. 3 amber and rolled brown bore up somewhat better, however, the former declining only ½ to 7¼, while the latter eased off ¾ to 8¾. Thus all but ½ point of Friday's rebound in ribbed smoked sheets was wiped out and the price at the close today was but ¼ of a point below its low of last week.

LOS ANGELES MARKET

CATTLE—The run estimated at 1200 carried 60 cars which arrived by rail. A very large percentage consisted of Mexican steers. A fairly dependable market developed with values steady to 25c lower, most of the Mexican steers getting the full downturn. On the better grades of cattle the market was quoted some lower, being fully steady with values late the previous week and some appearing slightly lower. There was a very undertone on bulls, although they did not arrive in any quantity.

The best price paid for steers was 8.90 on two loads 1260 to 1327-pound Central California feed lot offerings. A short load low good 1254-pound northern offerings brought 8.75, with two loads of the same origin scaling 920 to 1038 pounds at 8.60. In-between grade offerings ranging 900 to 1200 pounds were quoted 8.00@8.50, with Mexican types 6.50@8.00, with extremely common kinds down to 4.00. A few load lots of yearlings sold at 8.00@8.50, with a few head, thin steers went to feeders at 7.00. A load good intermountain cows reached 6.50 and two load lots of 940 to 1000-pound intermountain to good bulls sold mostly at 4.50@4.75.

CALVES—There was a good demand for the week, Monday run with prices steady to 50c higher. A few local milk vealers touched 12.00, with medium to good kinds largely at 10.00@11.50. A few lots 200 to 250-pound southwestern calves sold up to 11.00, with 300 to 350-pound kinds at 8.50@9.00, with big weights down to 7.50. Odd vealers and blain calves sold down to 6.00.

HOGS—There were seven carloads on the market, one load being on direct consignment. With no butchers of quality to test top quotations on the latter days of the previous week, values were somewhat difficulty. The top was 11.00 on two loads of 185 to 195-pound packing sows, with around three loads at 10.40@10.75, one load 130-pound averages scaling at 10.75. A load of 200-pound Imperial butchers and sizable lot trucked offerings secured 10.50, with packing sows generally at 9.50@10.00, slaughter and feeder cattle, steers, 7.25@ 7.50; steers loading 815-pound Mexicans, 7.00; load good 930-pound Idaho cows and heifers, 6.25; medium to good 1110-pound cows, 5.50; low cutters, 3.50; bulls, weak to 25c lower; load 1356-pound bulls sold at 5.00.

Calves, none; 200 to 250-pound calves steady, steers around 10.00.

Sheep, 50; weak; medium lambs, 6.50 down; medium to choice 130 pounds down, 7.25@8.75; steady.

CHICAGO, Oct. 6.—Hogs, 32,000; active, 25c higher than Friday; 180 to 200 pounds, 10.60@10.75; 250 to 350 pounds, 9.85@ 10.45; packing sows, 7.60@9.00; pigs, 8.75 @9.85.

Cattle, 21,000; calves, 2500; strong to 25c higher; steers, 500 to 900 pounds, 7.25@9.50; 1050 to 1500 pounds, 8.75@12.00; heifers, 10.50@12.75; cows, 3.75@ 7.00; bulls, 5.00@6.25; vealers, 11.00@ 11.50; calves, 7.00@8.50; feeder steers, 7.25@8.25.

Sheep, 35,000; steady; choice lambs unchanged, 7.75@8.25; native lambs, 50 pounds down, 7.50@8.25; 50 pounds down, 7.00@7.50; fat ewes, 2.00@ 3.25; feeding lambs, 8.50@8.75.

KANSAS CITY, Oct. 6.—Hogs, 7000; 25 to 50c higher; top, 10.75; bulk 250 to 350 pounds, 9.65@9.85; packing sows, 9.25@ 9.75.

Cattle, 26,000; steady to strong; yearling steers, 12.25; short fed westerns upward to 13.25; vealers, 25c lower, 11.00 top; stockers and feeders, 8.50@7.50.

Sheep, 17,000; lambs strong to 25c higher; sheep strong; top range lambs to shippers, 8.00; no early sales westerns to packers; natives downward from 7.35; top ewes, 4.10.

DENVER, Oct. 6.—Hogs, 1700; 15@25c higher; 180 to 250 pounds, 9.50@10.10; packing sows, 8.50@7.50.

OIL NEWS

BY FOSTER FLINT

What is declared to be the most promising deep test for oil in the Beverly Hills district at present is the Beldridge Oil Company's No. 15 on the North Beldridge district, which is preparing to run a production test with bottom at a depth below 8400 feet and approximately 600 feet of oil sand in the pay.

The Beldridge Oil Company's No. 15 is the possibility of deep production in the North Beldridge district. Several months ago when it reached a depth of 5600 feet, it began to make difficulties, was abandoned. Since drilling operations were resumed, the project developed mechanical delays that necessitated a sidetracking job which consumed several weeks before the hole was cleaned out sufficiently to allow the operator to make a production test.

Interest in Beldridge's No. 15 is based on the productiveness of the Richfield No. 1, which has been a steady producer of oil for the past several years and that the district is only a few miles southwest of Lost Hills field. The fact that the company's No. 15 was good for forty barrels of oil along with 3,000,000 cubic feet of gas a day at a depth of 5660 feet, convinces many holding property there that it may be a prolific producer at present depth.

Keeping with the endeavor to develop new production, the Richfield Oil Company's No. 1, a direct offset to Beldridge's No. 15, is proving very interesting in that gas pressure is heavy and precautions are being taken to control the flow. Richfield's No. 1 is making water with the drill below 8040 feet and is only a few feet short of the completion depth of Beldridge No. 15.

Leasing Activity

With the reported leasing of considerable acreage, southwest of San Luis City in the San Joaquin basin, the Union Oil Company presents that company has had for several months been making a thorough survey of the district with the view of taking up oil and gas leases.

It is understood to have filed on 6000 acres and, according to lease requirements, is expected to start drilling operations within six months. The company is believed to be first of the major operators to become active in the upper San Joaquin Valley region. An independent operator is understood to have leased acreage southeasterly of Union's new lease.

To Supervise Elwood

Although no definite plan has been submitted for the construction of a natural gas pipe line, there is a well-founded report that the gas held developed near Goleta by the General Petroleum Corporation may eventually be utilized by the Elwood field operators to relieve producing wells that may show some flow less oil due to decline of gas.

To supervise the Elwood oil field should be easy, according to officials who already have discussed its possibilities in view of the fact that normally that important district will need gas to bring to the surface many more thousands of barrels of oil which otherwise might remain in the ground due to lack of pressure. Goleta is less than six miles from the Elwood field and to tie in a gas line would be rather easy.

The General Petroleum Corporation is reported to have discussed the possibility of supplying the Elwood gas for representing purchases like Ile More No. 1 and No. 2 developed into tremendous gassers instead of oil wells. The operator's Ile More No. 3 in the same general vicinity is making progress with the drill below 2961 feet and has encountered gas showings, indicating the wide extent of the gas sand.

Bolsa Chica Down

With one new completion in the Bolsa field over the week-end, the average production dropped to 19,000 barrels of oil and a slow decline at present due to lack of additional producers. The Signal-Cypress combination's No. 1 in the extreme southwestern end of the Burks lease came in with an estimated flow of 900 barrels of oil a day and is cleaning up. Initial yield showed considerable gas. Bottom of the hole is 6,000 feet.

Huntington Steady

Daily average production from the Signal Hill field has remained steady during the last few days. The field was producing at the rate of 90,000 barrels daily.

The McKeon Oil Company's No. 1 on the Los Cerritos district died out and attempts are being made to clean out to restore it to production. This project came in one of the best wells from the new deep zone developed in Los Cerritos. The Zenith Oil Company's No. 1 is cutting about 40 per cent and is expected to clean up. Ball & Barnes's No. 1 continues to flow at the rate of 1225 barrels of oil a day.

Considering Reports

With several new details to consider, the Kettleman Hills oil and gas conservation committee, headed by William Reinhardt, of the Shell Oil Company, will probably meet again early next week to work out final plans for adoption of an agreement for the orderly development of the Kettleman Hills oil field.

It now is definitely known that the Kettleman Hills conservation committee has submitted a plan calling for one well to every twenty acres instead of one well to every ten acres. The Superior Oil Company, whose Huffman No. 2 was originally staked on the basis of one well to ten acres, agreed to change the location and stake it further from the company's initial producer at Kettleman Hills. In the future, operators will be requested to observe the unit plan of development when it becomes permanent.

To Run Casing

The Richfield Oil Company is preparing to run a string of casing in Miley-Hobs No. 4 in the Seacliff field. This project passed up the upper oil sand showings and at present is down 4221 feet and will make a production test soon. Richfield's Hobson-State No. 3 at the end of the pier in the ocean at Seacliff, continues to produce 200 barrels of oil a day.

Pier Completed

A 600-foot pier has just been completed in the Seacliff field by the General Petroleum Corporation which will enable the operator to drill Needham No. 2 as an offset to a producer brought in recently by the Richfield Oil Company.

General also is extending its present 1080-foot pier at Seacliff that will permit extensive prospecting out in the ocean. A small wing is under construction to enable General to drill Ferguson No. 3.

To Test

The Prairie Oil and Gas Company is underreaming Sexton No. 1, due east of the Ventura-avenue oil field and will run a string of casing preparatory to making a production test with bottom at 7518 feet. Casing will be set at about 6600 feet. This project is searching for an extension of the Ventura-avenue field.

Brings in One

The Signal Oil and Gas Company has successfully completed the first of its deepening jobs in the Los Cerritos oil field for an initial flow of 1200 barrels of 30-deg. gravity oil along with 3,000,000 cubic feet of gas per day. The project, one of the first to reach the new 7500-foot sand at Los Cerritos, is reported to be cleaning up rapidly.

Signal Oil's Reagan No. 3, another deepening job at Los Cerritos, is drilling below 7280 feet.

Transamerica in Huge Phone Control Deal

Entry of Transamerica Corporation, the world's largest financial holding company, into the field of international telephony was made known yesterday by the announcement of the formation of General Telephone and Electric Corporation by Theodore Gary & Co., and important British interests in alliance with Transamerica.

The Gary company, with principal offices in Kansas City, Chicago, New York and London, owns and operates extensive telephone systems and allied manufacturing plants in the United States and other countries. General Telephone, combining Transamerica's resources and the Gary organization experience and technical skill, is created primarily for the extension and enlarged development outside the United States of the business of the Associated Telephone and Telegraph Company now at Chicago.

The newly formed corporation and the interests sponsoring it will control and operate, with the exception of the Bell system, more telephones than any other privately owned company.

FURTHER BOND PRICE ADVANCE FORECAST

The high level reached by the 1928 bond market is likely to be exceeded before the present bull movement in bonds terminates, according to a market survey issued yesterday by James R. Martin & Co.

RATE REDUCED

LONDON, Oct. 6. (Exclusive)—Bank of Estonia has reduced its discount rate from 8 to 7 per cent.

BEARS SCORE ANOTHER BLUE MONDAY ON MART

NEW YORK, Oct. 6. (NANA)—The general stock market in selling down again to new low levels reflects the unwillingness of those who have cash to purchase stocks and the desire of those who have shares to sell them. In view of this condition the professional bears continue to have things all their own way and are able to bring about sharp concessions in prices.

With the establishment of new low levels today sentiment in Wall street assumed a darker shade of blue than at any time since the November smash. The most depressing phase of today's weakness was the ease with which the so-called high-grade and good seasoned investment stocks sold off under comparatively small offerings.

Hunting Rumor Mongers

The shrinkage in quoted market values has reached a point where everybody is becoming tasty over the circulation of unfavorable rumors whether the stories are based on fact or not. The stock exchange is doing its part in ferreting out the destroyers of values and has issued a request to its members that they furnish the institution with copies of all telegraph messages that may have been sent out over wires relative to the financial condition of members.

It is also learned that one stock exchange house, because of the issuance of bearish information on one of the amusement stocks, had another member brought up before the stock exchange authorities to explain the action.

Depressing Conditions

Wall street is now going through one of the most depressing periods in its history. Not only are prices of stocks declining, but there is practically no business. The overhead of the brokerage offices continues to pinch more tightly daily and the outlook is not at all cheering.

The first of the year is expected to witness a number of consolidations among brokerage houses. Operating expenses have been cut to the bone and still complaints of insufficient commissions continue to be heard, notwithstanding the reduction in the number of employees and the reductions in salaries announced throughout the street.

Westinghouse Breaks

Westinghouse Electric and Manufacturing stock continued to be one of the weakest features on the list. The stock was sold both for long as well as short account because of persistent reports that the company will not show the dividend earned this year by reason of smaller revenues from the radio business.

Infant Plague Deaths Halved

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 6. (AP)—With 1251 cases of infantile paralysis reported in California this year, Dr. George E. Ebright, president of the State Board of Health, said today the peak apparently has been reached.

While complete mortality figures for the year are not available, Dr. Ebright said, the death rate was lower than in preceding waves of the disease. In 1925, when 821 cases were reported, 144 sufferers died; and in 1927, of 1928 cases 224 died.

Up to August 1 this year 768 cases and sixty-three deaths were reported. This is a mortality ratio of 8 per cent for 1930 as against ratios of more than 17 per cent for each of the other years.

Butter and Egg Men Plan Fight

CHICAGO, Oct. 6. (AP)—A resolution calling for an organized attack upon the Federal Agricultural Marketing Act was unanimously adopted today by the National Poultry, Butter and Egg Association.

The resolution called for formation of an organization "with prestige and power enough to carry on a determined fight" against the farm act and any other "radical legislation in general and that affecting our own industry in particular." Officers of the association were instructed to proceed with all possible force and dispatch.

Wrestler Held in Texas Killing

SAN ANTONIO (Tex.) Oct. 6. (AP)—Pancho Vitela, known to San Antonio wrestling fans as the "champion of Mexico City," was held by police today after the body of an unidentified man who had been beaten to death was found on a sidewalk.

Vitela said he had never seen the man before until he accosted him with a knife after first trying to stab his dog.

INQUIRY LAUNCHED IN ANGELENO'S DEATH

ALBUQUERQUE (N. M.) Oct. 6. (AP)—An autopsy was ordered performed on the body of Howard Eldred, 35 years of age, of Los Angeles, who died here tonight from what authorities at first believed to be the effects of poison liquor. Not entirely satisfied with circumstances surrounding the man's death, the District Attorney's office has started an investigation.

Valley Cotton Half Normal

MEMPHIS, Oct. 6. (Exclusive)—Reports place the end of September condition of the cotton crop at 52.0 per cent of a normal for the date indicating probable production of 13,968,000 bales, 500-pound gross-weight equivalents exclusive of linters.

The Commercial Appeal tomorrow will say:

"September weather was favorable for the cotton plant over Alabama, most of Georgia and States touched by the Mississippi River. Moisture was inadequate over most of the Carolinas, some of Georgia, most of Texas, except the northe

"TIMES" THEATER GUIDE

MOTION PICTURES

Hard's, Eighth between Broadway and Hill—"Manslaughter." Claudette Colbert and Fredric March in some good emoting in this piece of drama.

Boulevard, Washington at Vermont—"All Quiet on the Western Front." Remarque's powerful drama of war, with Lew Ayres.

California, Main near Eighth—"Le Calmaret de Capistrano." A historical romance of early California, proves rather interesting.

Carthay Circle, Carthay Center—"Holiday." Ann Harding at her best in delicate role of youth.

Chinese, 6922 Hollywood—"The Big Trail." Spectacular in setting and photography, this production demonstrates the power and savvy of Grandon Rhodes.

Criterion, 442 South Grand—"Madam Satan." A spectacular but noisy De Mille production. Wild Kay Johnson.

Egyptian, Hollywood Boulevard—"Man Trouble." Good entertainment of a popular sort with Kenneth Harlan.

Fiesta, Figueroa at Santa Barbara—"For the Defense." The clash between love and crime offers interest and Will Rogers.

Filmarte, 1228 North Vine — "Bluebeard." An English murder takes the form of a cinema experiment.

Forum, Pico at Marion—"Love Among the Millionaires." Clara Bow is at the bottom of it. I'll you can't keep that girl down.

Loew's State, Broadway at Seventh—"The Last of Mrs. Cheyney." Modern crime thriller, with George O'Brien furthering the adventures of Buck Duane.

Majestic, 840 at 9th—"Old English." The faultless Geneve Arliss up to his masterly tricks again.

Million Dollar, Broadway at Third—"Animal Crackers." The Four Marx Brothers in bursts of insanity.

Paramount, Hollywood at Vine—"The Sea God." Richard Arlen assists the lead in this symposium of the South Seas.

Paramount, Hill at Sixth—"The Santa Fe Trail." Romance of the old West, interwoven in pleasant doses by a capable cast.

President Theater, Broadway near Eighth—"Our Blushing Brides." Another of those glittering tales of girlhood with Joan Crawford.

Rio, Wilshire at La Brea—"Our Blushing Brides." These modern gals are up to all kinds again. Joan Crawford.

R.K.O., Hill at Eighth—"Leatherneckings." Marines and South Sea Islands provide the plot for this musical comedy.

R.K.O. Orpheum, Broadway at Ninth—"Half Shot at Sunrise." A war comedy which sets out to bombard the box-office. Bert Wheeler and Robert Woolsey.

Tower, 849 at 9th—"Sins of the Children." A tremendous scene of a family struggle poignantly interpreted by Louis Mann.

Uptown, Western at Tenth—"Raffles." A comedy adventure provides a room for Ronald Colman's gallantry.

United Artists, Broadway near 9th—"Hide Up." The good old musical comedy is still on and Buddy Rogers does his bit.

Warners' Downtown, Hill at Seventh—"The Office Wife." Lew Ayres and Dorothy Mackaill are Lewis Stone.

Warners' Hollywood, Hollywood Blvd. at Wilcox—"Sin Ship"—Kong. The ironies will never get you if you don't watch out and Charles Middleton is the victim.

Wiltern, Hill near 11th—"Temptations of 1930." A modern revue exhibiting some tuneful songs, clever dancing and colorful ensemble work.

BURLESQUE

Follies, Main at Fourth—Burlesque.

G.O.P. WINS IN VOTE AT HONOLULU

Republican Candidates for Mayor, Sheriff and City Attorney Elected

HONOLULU, Oct. 6. (AP)—Republicans emerged victorious today in the primary election of Saturday, sending Supervisor George R. Wright into the Mayor's office. Mayor John H. Wilson, Democrat, was defeated for re-election. Wright polled 11,845 votes and Wilson 10,634. James E. Gilliland, Republican, was elected City Attorney, defeating Patrick Gleason. Gleason was renominated on the Republican ticket, polling 10,634 votes. David Trask, Democrat, received 6306 votes for the office.

Victor S. K. Houston, Republican delegate to Congress, was unopposed for renomination, as was Lincoln L. McCandless, the Democratic candidate.

Skinny, I Gained 25 Lbs. and Love Clear Skin Quick

"I was underweight for years. Finally ironised Yeast. Gained 25 lbs. Skin is lovely. Figure perfect."
—Mrs. W. Horne

"Skinny," weak men and women are amazed at gain of 5 to 15 lbs. in 3 weeks. Ugly hollows vanish. Bony limbs round out. Dull, blemished skin gets clear and rosy like magic. Nervousness, indigestion, constipation disappear over night. Sound sleep, new joy, quick.

Two great tonics in one—this weight-building Brewer's Yeast and strengthening iron. Pleasant little tablets. Far stronger than ordinary plain yeast. Results in ½ time or no charge. Delicious, yeasty taste, no gas.

Don't go around "skinny," unattractive. Get Ironised Yeast today from druggist today. Feel great tomorrow. Money back from the manufacturer if not delighted.—Advertisement.

MONEY SOUGHT FOR DAM WORK

Supervisors Ask for San Gabriel Exploration Funds

Engineer Wants $40,000 to Start Work on Least Project

Flood Check Spans Planned to Control Floods

A request that he be furnished with authority and funds to begin preliminary exploration work for the construction of three dams planned for the mouth of Cogwin to take the place of the abandoned high dam at the Forks site, was made yesterday by Chief Engineer Eaton of the flood control district to the Board of Supervisors.

The request asks for an appropriation of $40,000, the money to be used during the saving his department has made throughout the year under flood-control projects and that came from the $25,000,000 bond issue money voted by the people for the high dam of which $21,000,000 is left.

Two years ago Engineer Eaton told the Board of Supervisors that the small dams can be built in that area for less than the remaining balance of the bond issue and that they will perform the same service as only can the three dams now planned, but a spreading ground as well as a check.

ANNUITY SUIT PLANNED

Preparations are being made by property owners in the San Gabriel Valley and by concerns interested in the building of the dam bonds to institute a friendly suit to carry up to the Supreme Court to determine whether the board may spend the proceeds of the high dam issue for other needs.

"We should do something in order to get started on some plan to check the floods in the canyon," said Supervisor Quinn.

Supervisor Shaw, however, of the absence of Supervisor Healy, injured in an automobile accident at Kings City last week, and Supervisor Quinn, who attended the Legion convention at Fresno, Supervisors Shaw, Graves and Quinn voted to lay the matter over one week.

ARMS OUTLINED

Following this vote Supervisor Quinn moved that this money from the engineer's other jobs and am appropriation of a like sum from him to that fund be made. The board adopted.

The engineer seeks the money for preliminary exploration work at what is known as Jeanine No. 1 in the Forks. This is two miles below the Forks site where the bigger dam was dropped by State engineers after a landslide. Two smaller dams are planned for above the high dam, or Forks site.

BIRD PARK PROPOSED TO COUNTY

Audubon Society Desires Refuge Be Established at Royal Palms

If Royal Palms at White's Point, containing some 355 acres, is obtained by Los Angeles county for a park and recreation purposes, the Board of Supervisors will be open to suggestions from the Audubon Society relative to creating a wild-bird refuge there as one of the features of the place.

The Supervisors yesterday received a letter from Mrs. F. T. Bicknell, president emeritus of the organization, whose object is the conservation of wild life, particularly birds.

After the communication was read Chairman Graves instructed the clerk to write the Audubon Society informing the body that the Supervisors would gladly receive suggestions for creating a bird refuge at the proposed new park.

At a recent meeting of the board the county adopted a resolution of intention to lease the acreage for park purposes for a period of fifty years.

Wild Turkeys Liberated at Big Pines Camp

Fifty wild turkeys have been turned loose at the county's recreation camp at Big Pines, according to an announcement yesterday by Fred E. Wadsworth, county superintendent of camps and playgrounds. They cannot be shot by hunters, as the season on wild turkeys has been closed for several years and will be for many more. The birds were obtained from the State Fish and Game Department.

Some fine specimens of golden, silver and Chinese pheasants also were obtained and will be placed in exhibition pens at the Big Pines camp.

ADMIRAL CHASE AT HELM

Seventeen Guns Roar Salute as Four-Starred Flag of New Fleet Commander Goes Up

Promptly on the stroke of four bells—or 10 o'clock as the landsmen say it—Admiral John V. Chase yesterday morning boarded his flagship Texas as new commander-in-chief of the United States Fleet. Simultaneously as the new chief stepped off the gangway between eight sideboys his four-starred blue flag was broken out at the Texas's main truck, the ship's band blared forth the musical honors, while from the side of the battle fleet flagship California, anchored near by, a seventeen-gun salute roared out a welcome to the ranking officer of the Navy afloat.

A minute later, while Admiral Chase was shaking hands with his new staff, the Texas replied with a seventeen-gun salute for Admiral Frank H. Schofield, commander-in-chief of the battle fleet.

OFFICERS CALL

The flag officers of the fleet in port then came aboard for informal calls on the new commander-in-chief; these visitors including Admiral Schofield, Vice-Admiral Richard H. Leigh, commanding the battleship Division Four; Rear-Admiral Harley H. Christy, commanding Battleship Division Three, and members of their staffs. The usual colorful ceremony incident to shift of the fleet flag was missing yesterday, because Admiral William V. Pratt, whom Admiral Chase succeeds, left the Texas here nearly a month ago to become chief of naval operations.

RECEPTION TONIGHT

Admiral Chase will remain at the local base little more than a week, the Texas being scheduled to sail for New York on the 14th inst. for annual overhaul. She will return to local waters next April, when Admiral Chase will shift his flag to the 10,000-ton light cruiser Chicago, now completing at the Mare Island Navy Yard as new United States Fleet flagship.

The battle fleet will pay social honors to Admiral Chase tonight aboard the fleet flagship California, where Admiral Schofield will entertain the new chief and the fleet's twenty-five ranking officers and their ladies at a formal dinner.

THOSE TO BE PRESENT

Those present will include Admiral Chase, Admiral Schofield, Ad-

BROTHER OF LOUIS COLE SUCCUMBS

Chicago Insurance Man, Here to Attend Funeral, Victim of Heart Attack

Emil Cole, 55 years of age, Chicago agency manager of the Northwestern Mutual Life Insurance Company, who came to Los Angeles last week to attend the funeral of his brother, Louis M. Cole, dropped dead yesterday morning as the result of a heart attack. He was in the office of Marco Hellman in the Bank of America of California when stricken.

Mr. Cole, well known in Los Angeles, has been connected with his company more than twenty years and was known as one of the most successful insurance men in the Chicago area. He was active in fraternal circles and a prominent Thirty-second Degree Mason. He was unmarried.

Friends said yesterday he had been under treatment for a heart ailment by Dr. Louis Josephs since his arrival in the city to attend the funeral of his brother. Arrangements were under way last night to send the body back to Chicago.

Mr. Cole leaves his sister, Mrs. E. A. Steinman; two nephews, Sam and Louis Cole of Chicago, and a cousin, Mrs. Monroe Fox of Los Angeles.

'SOCKS' FEATURE LUBITSCH SCRAP

Director 'Punches' ex-Wife's Escort at Film Club

In Return She Lands 'Poke' on ex-Husband's Jaw

'Taunted Me'—He Explains; 'Jealous'—She Replies

Two friends of many years' standing, Ernst Lubitsch, one of the film colony's outstanding directors, and Hans Kraly, a motion-picture writer, staged an impromptu fistic battle Saturday night on the dance floor of the Embassy Club in Hollywood in which Mrs. Helene Lubitsch, divorced wife of the director, also played a role, it was learned yesterday.

The encounter between the two men, who have been intimate friends for more than fifteen years, occurred in the presence of scores of the leading players and executives of the film colony at a benefit party given by Mary Pickford and Douglas Fairbanks. All the guests at the benefit were in formal attire.

As far as could be learned two blows were struck. One was by Lubitsch, which was directed at Kraly's chin. It missed its mark and struck Kraly on the chest. The second was delivered by Mrs. Lubitsch, a blow or a push that landed flush on Lubitsch's face. Then crowds swarmed about the participants and dragged them to their respective tables. The trouble threw the scores of guests into a panic of excitement.

THE WHYS OF IT

"Jealousy," was Mrs. Lubitsch's answer to her ex-husband's advance upon Kraly.

"They taunted me into it," was the statement by Lubitsch, a German who has directed many of Paramount's recent hits.

"I still don't know what it was all about," asserted Kraly, also a German, who writes for Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer.

Lubitsch was asked yesterday why he didn't resort to the custom of his country—a duel—to settle his grievances with Kraly.

"I like the good old American method—a sock on the jaw—better," he said.

"He'll get another one on the jaw if he keeps it up," he continued. "I didn't want to do it in public, but they drove me to it. They continually taunt me. This was the third time. They (meaning, he said, Kraly and Mrs. Lubitsch) mimic me when I dance. They laugh at me. He made remarks in German that aren't in the dictionary as they passed me."

DANCING WITH SNEERS

Lubitsch was dancing with Ona Munson, actress who was a guest at his table with many others, when the trouble started. According to Lubitsch, Kraly had been sneering at him all evening, and his former wife and Kraly laughed at him continually as they passed while dancing.

As they danced past each other Lubitsch left his partner, Miss Munson, grabbed Kraly by the arm and took a punch at him. It hit on his chest.

"He was infuriated and gesticulated wildly, muttering in German," Kraly averred. "I could hardly understand him. He said: 'What's the meaning of this?' or something to that effect. I insisted on him telling me what he meant or what annoyed him. He started to walk away."

Meanwhile Mrs. Lubitsch entered the scene. Her former husband, she said, started after her in a manner which was not at all pleasant.

"So I took a poke at him," she said. "I don't know whether I hit at him or shoved him, but I do know my hand fell flush on his face."

As Lubitsch started back toward his table, Kraly followed him, he avers, still demanding an explanation.

"I told Lubitsch this was not the place to settle anything," Kraly asserted. "I suggested we go outside or that we go to my home or his home and settle any grievance he might have as gentlemen would. He

ATHLETE ATTACKED BY DREAD DISEASE

DRURY HIT BY GRAVE AILMENT

Ex-Grid Star Reported Infantile Paralysis Victim, but Recovery Expected

Sudden illness of Morley Drury, former all-American quarterback of the University of Southern California football team, was diagnosed by physicians at the General Hospital yesterday afternoon as a light attack of infantile paralysis.

Drury's hands showed the effect of paralysis when he was taken to the hospital early yesterday morning, Drs. Harry Wilson and A. G. Bower, in charge of the case, declared, but at the same time they said they believe the football star will recover completely.

Shortly after having been admitted to the hospital Drury was given an injection of serum and last night was reported doing favorably. The serum used is taken from the blood of persons who have recovered from an attack of infantile paralysis and, therefore, are immune.

For a week Drury complained of an attack of influenza, Dr. Wilson reported. Contrary to orders he attended the U.S.C.-Oregon State football game Saturday, where he conducted a radio broadcast of the game. Sunday his illness became acute. Dr. Wilson called Dr. Bower, one of the senior physicians in charge of communicable diseases at the General Hospital, into consultation. Dr. Bower advised Drury to enter the General Hospital—one of the few institutions accepting infantile paralysis cases—at once.

Since leaving college in 1927 Drury has helped Coach Jones in preparing U.S.C. teams and recently has been connected with a Los Angeles bond house. He has been residing at the home of W. T. Kester, 1015 Oak Grove avenue, Pasadena.

ACADEMY PICKS LEADER

Courtland Clark, son of Mrs. John Logan, 2907 Hill Drive, Eagle Rock, has been elected senior class president at San Diego Army and Navy Academy, it was announced yesterday. He holds the rank of cadet sergeant. Other officers are Cadet Richard Wulzen, Merced, vice-president; Cadet Jack Crook, Whittier, treasurer; and Cadet Eugene Rodriguez, Calexico, secretary.

NEW PORT UNIT PUT IN SERVICE

Long Beach Has Ceremony Dedicating Transit Shed

Delegation From Los Angeles Participates in Exercises

Mayor Fickling Speaks on Huge Building Program

By a "Times" Staff Correspondent

LONG BEACH, Oct. 6.—The open-sea harbor of Long Beach is in service.

Los Angeles helped to open the gates at exercises held at noon today. Leaders of its business life joined with the heads of Long Beach's commercial and industrial activities in an impressive ceremony.

The Municipal Band rendered stirring tunes and a crowd of several hundred spectators furnished a holiday background.

The steamship Panaman of the American-Hawaiian Steamship Company brought in the first cargo. Tied to the dock of the first transit shed to be placed in operation, it discharged 400 tons of cargo, the full capacity of the warehouse.

CHEERING CROWD

As the steamship came into the inner harbor Mayor Pickling and representatives of the local Chamber of Commerce were at the dock. So were the Los Angeles representatives. As the vessel was making fast cheers from the crowd mingled with the band music.

The program of speeches that followed laid emphasis on Long Beach's hope that the new inner harbor is the opening of a great trade in water-borne traffic, and the beginning of a series of protected harbors eventually to line the entire length of the Pacific Coast.

A. T. Jergins, chairman of a special committee of the Long Beach Chamber of Commerce, and a well-known oil operator, was chairman.

"The time is not so far away when Long Beach will have one of the foremost inner harbors in the world," he said, "and be one of the great port cities of the Pacific Coast."

MORE TO FOLLOW

Mayor Pickling spoke of the past and the future of Long Beach as a terminal for water-borne cargoes. He said the transit shed opened today and dedicated as the initial operating unit of the new harbor, is the first of many.

A large building program has been outlined, he said, and work on several new sheds soon will be under way.

J. A. H. Kerr, vice-president of the Los Angeles Chamber of Commerce, and vice-president, too, of the Security-First National Bank, declared in his address that Los Angeles is as delighted as Long Beach with the new development. He predicted long lines of transit sheds in Long Beach as well as in Los Angeles Harbor.

OTHER SPEAKERS

Many other speakers followed, including C. C. Lewis, City Manager of Long Beach; Capt. Paul Chandler, harbor director of Los Angeles; Clarence Matson of the Los Angeles Chamber of Commerce, Fred Hooper, general agent of the American-Hawaiian Steamship Company.

The new transit shed is 510 feet long and eighty-two feet wide. Its construction and the other work to be done in the harbor was arranged for by Long Beach without Federal aid. When completed it is expected the inner harbor will have a frontage of 9.35 miles, abutting on water from thirty-two to forty feet deep.

The outer harbor will have 19.2 miles of deep-water frontage. Public and private terminals for the accommodation of more than 182 ships may be placed within this port. There are 2744 acres of land available for industrial purposes within the city limits and within the harbor area.

CHAMBER'S PLEA GRANTED

The City Council yesterday acceded to a petition from the Wilmington Chamber of Commerce and directed the City Engineer to designate as Avalon Place the first alley east of Avalon Boulevard between J and Anaheim streets.

The Lancer

by Harry Carr

I DON'T know why the officers should pay any attention to the last-minute confessions of Northcott.

There is a general superstition to the effect that a man in the shadow of the gallows will always tell the truth. As a matter of fact there is no stage of a murderer's life when he is less likely to. They very seldom really believe they are going to be hanged. The hope always lingers of a last-minute reprieve; and the final "confession" is frequently made in the hope of the Governor being sufficiently impressed to yank them off the scaffold.

ARGONAUT HARDSHIPS

Raoul Walsh's picture "The Big Trail" is an important historical document. I have read a lot about the West but I confess that I never had any real true comprehension of the frightful hardships the Argonauts endured—especially the women—until I saw this epochal screen drama.

Incidentally this is one of the few times that Indians have ever been shown on the screen without making them ridiculous. The scenes where a party of Cheyennes make themselves ready for the war trail is great stuff.

"GRANDEUR FILM"

"Grandeur film" is terrific in its possibilities; yet it has certain definite drawbacks. It lacks intimacy and concentration. For scenes in which there are a lot of people, it gives a sweep and breadth that heighten the drama; but on the other hand it takes in too much territory to permit complete effectiveness in a scene between two men.

ARE TIMES HARD?

It is difficult to believe in the gloom stories of the financial disasters, said to envelop us, when you go to the opera or to the movie openings. It looks outwardly like a world wallowing in wealth.

It is a curious fact that during the worst of the depression, the one thing that boomed was miniature golf. Personally I don't believe that the public at large ever completely lost hope. Locally, at least, a great deal of the real estate depression came from the fact that no one would sell his own real estate at a loss; and on the other hand was bargain-hunting in his capacity as a purchaser.

For some reason that no financial expert seems able to account for, times have suddenly grown better. Houses for rent are growing very scarce.

ANOTHER BOOM

All my banker friends wag their heads and say they hope that another boom is not coming. But oh, brethren, no one knows the Christian fortitude with which I could stand up and be brave under the afflictions of another real estate boom.

SPANISH TREND

This whole country has certainly gone Spanish. I haven't seen a motion picture lately during the course of which some one

MIC AIR ATTACK MAPPED

Artillery Units to Defend Los Angeles in Maneuvers Testing Radio Outposts

One of the most elaborate warlike practice maneuvers ever undertaken by the United States Coast Artillery Corps approximately 400 officers and men will converge tomorrow on United Airport, Burbank, to stage a defense against a scheduled air "attack" on Los Angeles.

Headquarters will be established at the port for 250 men and officers from the Sixty-third Regiment, Coast Artillery Corps, Antiaircraft, Fort MacArthur, San Pedro.

The surprise day and night "attacks" to be made by eight Army planes from Rockwell Field, San Diego, will take place on the 13th, 14th and 15th inst.

One hundred men and three officers of the Sixth Regiment, Coast Artillery Corps, Fort Winfield Scott, San Francisco, will come here to augment the Fort MacArthur force in carrying out the exercises.

From now until the 13th inst. the combined force will complete a communication system southward from the Burbank airport to Oceanside that will test the efficiency of outpost radio and telephone systems in relaying warnings to the airport antiaircraft defenses.

A band of outposts will be established from Oceanside inland to Sutherland and a second band from Newport inland to Corona. These outposts will be manned by Fort Scott soldiers and it will be up to them to flash the word of the planes approaching Los Angeles from San Diego. The outposts will be equipped with the latest developments for aircraft detection.

At the airport there will be two

SUBWAY PLAN'S COST SET

Pedestrian Tunnel From Los Angeles to Olive Street Figured at $3,960,000

City Engineer Jessup yesterday filed with the Board of Public Works a report estimating the cost of a pedestrian subway between Sixth and Seventh streets and from Los Angeles to Olive streets at $3,960,000, but presenting an alternative plan of areaways under buildings and subways under the street, at a reduced cost.

The board transmitted Jessup's report to the City Council. The plan was suggested some months ago by the Downtown Business Men's Association.

Jessup based his estimate on a tunnel forty feet wide, ten feet high, 2200 feet long and 17 feet below the roadway, with columns and twelve entrance stairways fifteen feet wide entering the buildings.

He points out that the success of the plan depends on the ability of altering the interior subsurface of the business buildings without impairing their efficiency.

The other plan calls for a sort of underground arcade through the buildings, with twenty-five-foot tunnels under the cross streets.

He proposes that a scheme of arcading the buildings fronting on Broadway between Fourth and Ninth streets and fronting on Seventh street between Spring street and Grand avenue be referred to the Board of Building and Safety Commissioners for consideration and report.

BANDITS TIE UP THEATER GROUP

Chicago Technique Used in Belmont Robbery

Hold-up Men Bind Janitor, Wait for Managers

Fingerprints on Glass Carefully Avoided

Using tactics similar to those employed by a gang of Chicago bandits which has held up and robbed two local branch banks of $16,000 within the last two weeks, two bandits yesterday morning bound three employees with telephone wire and obtained $1350 in cash in a robbery at the Belmont Theater at 126 South Vermont avenue. The methodical operations of the pair left nothing for police to work upon.

The bandits, both masked, were in the office of the theater when John Hambrose, janitor, arrived first about 9 a.m. He was immediately bound up with wire and placed face down on the floor. For an hour the bandits waited until the arrival of R. E. Edwards, assistant manager.

With the muzzle of an automatic pistol jammed into his back, Edwards was ordered to open the safe.

"I can't open it," he cried. "I don't know the combination."

"Oh, yuh don't, eh?" cried one of the bandits. "Well, maybe this'll help yuh to remember." And he struck Edwards on the head with the butt of his pistol. Dazed by the blow Edwards staggered back, and insisted the manager, R. S. Borst, was the only man who could open the safe. Edwards was then tied up and placed beside the janitor.

Patiently the bandits waited for another hour when the manager walked in. Borst, threatened with quick death, was forced to open the office safe. He handed the bandits two money sacks, one containing $1150 taken in through the theater box office Saturday and Sunday and the other holding $200 held for a golf course near by. The bandits dropped the sacks into a paper shopping bag and tied the manager's hands and feet with a piece of telephone wire jerked loose from a wall.

As the bandits were leaving Borst asked for a drink. One of the men took a glass of water to the manager but carefully grasped it with a handkerchief.

"Here's your drink, brother," he grinned. "Thought I'd leave yuh a few finger prints, eh? Well, yuh got fooled and yuh can tell the cops that we don't work that way in Chicago."

No one observed if the bandits had an automobile. A few minutes after they left Hambrose wriggled loose from his bonds and released the others.

WIFE TELLS COURT HUBBY KISSED GIRL

A kiss given another girl by her husband was complained of by Mrs. Hazel H. Barton yesterday in getting a divorce from John H. Barton. The wife also asserted he molested her at her place of employment, and that he had associated with another woman since February, 1929. Superior Judge Guerin granted a divorce. The Bartons married February 27, 1906, and separated January 27, last. They have two sons, Lowell, 21 years of age, and Lloyd, 19.

CAMPAIGN PAY CLAIMS REJECTED

Actions Filed Against Fitts and Rolph Held Tardy by Judge

Failure to file campaign claims with committees within the time required by law cost two complainants verdicts yesterday in Municipal Judge Fields's Small Claims Court.

H. E. Bassett of 6134 Garrison Drive was denied a claim for $15 from Buron Fitts and Mrs. Helen Werner, which he asserted was due for a cartoon ordered for use in Fitts's campaign for Governor. Fitts told Judge Fields he knew nothing of the matter and Mrs. Werner testified the cartoon was not accepted by her. Bassett failed to file the claim within the legal time limit, it developed.

Al G. Faulkner, Los Angeles manager of the Rolph campaign, and Mrs. Gertrude C. Rhodes, named defendants in a suit for $21.50 by Walter G. Stennett, 213 1-4 North Reno street, for money assertedly expended by him during the campaign, were awarded judgment by Judge Fields. In addition to testimony by Mrs. Rhodes, who said she had paid the bills which Stennett asserted he paid, Judge Fields found that the claim was not filed in time.

Trippet Again in Chest-Drive Post

Oscar A. Trippet, attorney, will head committee No. 28 of the Community Chest campaign Central Division, a position he held last year, according to J. A. H. Kerr, Chest campaign chairman. This committee represents the Junior Chamber of Commerce.

The increased service which Chest agencies are rendering, due to the larger demands made upon them this year, makes it necessary, according to Trippet, "for every man and woman to seriously consider an increase in his or her contribution."

Trippet has organized his soliciting committee, and announces that the following members of the Junior Chamber of Commerce will be associated with him this year: Durward Howes, John R. Mage, J. H. Gilliland, Robert L. Green, Walter Allander, Caine Farrell, Harry Silke, Byron P. Storey, Charles E. Beardsley, Allerton H. Jeffries, Art Schofield and Edward G. Barcome.

LAND PURCHASE DELAYED

On recommendation of its Street Opening and Widening Committee, the City Council yesterday suspended action upon acquiring plots of ground at Wilcox avenue and Cahuenga Boulevard and at Hollywood Boulevard and Laurel Canyon Road. Street improvements at these intersections form islands but the Council decided to delay their purchase due to lack of funds.

Trojan Baking Triumph

Miss Martha Van Buskirk cutting herself a piece of S. C. anniversary cake while coeds look on.

STUDENTS and members of the faculty observed the fiftieth birthday anniversary of the University of Southern California yesterday with special exercises during chapel hour and the presentation of a mammoth cake, made by the members of the Alpha Gamma Sorority.

The progress made by the Trojan institution since the opening of classes a half-century ago was reviewed by Dr. George Finley Bovard, president emeritus, and a member of the first graduating class, at the morning exercises.

Members of the faculty who have served S. C. for twenty-five years or more, and who make up the all-ver committee, participated in the program.

The birthday cake, decorated with fifty candles, measured nine feet in diameter and three feet in height.

PLEA MADE FOR WILD FOWL

Biological Survey Chief, Here on Official Mission, Urges Voters to Support Proposition No. 11

Loss of habitats resulting from drought, unwise drainage and the intrusion of agriculture, coupled with disease and increasing numbers of hunters, is reducing the duck population of North America at an alarming rate, Paul G. Redington, chief of the Biological Survey, Department of Agriculture, said yesterday on his arrival here in the interests of game conservation. And, as a means to a constructive conservation program in California, he stated, voters will do well at the November election to support Proposition No. 11, which would vest in the State Fish and Game Commission plenary powers for the control of all wild life in California.

A nation-wide survey made last year with the help of about 3000 observers, according to Mr. Redington, convinced Federal authorities that immediate action was needed to decrease duck slaughter. Accordingly, the day's bag was reduced from twenty-five to fifteen ducks and eight to four geese for each hunter. About thirty States thereupon legislated to conform with the Federal limit, while ten more, unable to do so because of adjournments, pledged co-operation in enforcing the law. The remainder to date have done nothing toward supporting it.

"The unfortunate aspect of the situation is that we have only twenty-five Federal game protectors," said Mr. Redington. "And it is an extremely difficult thing for them to enforce the law on more than 2,000,000 hunters.

"In California we have only one man, and he is charged with enforcement in Nevada as well. He stands ready and willing to arrest violators, but he is helpless; he cannot be expected to carry out the work alone. Therefore, poor sportsmen, as well as the commercial interests, are taking advantage of inadequate protection. And every one of them, by bagging more than the Federal limit—regardless of whether his State has legislated to conform—is flouting the law—violating a law of the land.

"If it continues we shall have to take further action. One measure that has been proposed is a shortening of the season, which, of course, would be more easily enforcable. And some conservationists have gone so far, in fact, as to suggest a closed season for five years."

Mr. Redington is touring the country, inspecting sites for establishment of refuges provided for in the Migratory Bird Conservation Act, passed February 18, 1929. The act appropriates $6,000,000 for the purpose. Nearly 200 acres in various sections have been examined to date and reported on to an approving commission composed of the Secretary of Agriculture, Secretary of the Interior, Secretary of Commerce, two Senators and two Representatives. Several tracts in California are under consideration, one being in the vicinity of Salton Sea.

Following a conference with the State Fish and Game Commission this morning, Mr. Redington will leave by airplane for San Francisco.

MIMIC AIRPLANE ATTACK MAPPED

three-inch antiaircraft guns and eight machine guns in readiness to "receive" the attacking planes if the word is relayed swiftly enough from the outposts. There will be no firing, but accurate check will be kept on the efficiency of the outposts and the theoretical results of an antiaircraft repulse at the port.

Five billion-candle-power antiaircraft searchlights will be moved to the port to test their efficiency in picking out the attacking planes at night. The outposts also will function at night and observations made of their relative efficiency in detecting an approaching attack during daylight or darkness.

From the exercises officers expect to learn the minimum distance from Los Angeles at which an outpost could be maintained that would give a local antiaircraft defense enough time to get into action against approaching planes.

Lieut.-Col. Willis Peace will be in command during the problem, Maj. Felix E. Gross, commander of the Sixty-third Regiment, and Maj. K. B. Lemmon, commander of Fort McArthur, will co-operate in carrying out the exercise. The Pacific Telephone Company will aid by placing its facilities at the disposal of the soldiers during the maneuvers.

The Fort MacArthur soldiers will establish their camp in tents between the runways at United Airport. A ton and one-half of hay will be moved to the port for beds and the port will take on the aspect of a military camp until the attack problem is completed.

JUNIOR COLLEGE PLAN TOLD

Vote on Separate District Soon to Be Sought; Bouelle Reports on Tahoe Meeting

Voters residing in the Los Angeles City School District probably will have an opportunity within the next year of voting for the creation of a separate junior college district, according to a verbal report made to the local Board of Education last night by Superintendent of Schools Bouelle on the sessions of the State Board of Education at Lake Tahoe, which he attended last week.

At present the elementary school district and high school district are separate and the Los Angeles Junior College is administered by the latter. If a separate junior college district can be formed to administer that institution separate State funds not now received for the college will be granted to the new district.

PERMISSION NECESSARY

Such a district must be created by vote of the citizens of the proposed district and permission to hold an election on the creation of such a district must be granted by the State Board of Education. Supt. Bouelle told the local board last night that he believes the State board favorable to the election.

The request of Beverly Hills for the creation of a Beverly Hills high school district was also before the board. The local school board is strenuously opposing its removal from the Los Angeles system, mainly on the ground that about 1000 of its 1600 pupils do not live in Beverly Hills.

BEVERLY HILLS BRIEF

Supt. Bouelle reported to the local board last night that Supt. Hummel of the Beverly Hills elementary district presented a brief on the matter to the State board.

A subcommittee was appointed by the State board to investigate the matter and make a recommendation. Bouelle reported, and the local board was asked to draw up a brief in answer to the one submitted by Beverly Hills. This brief is to be presented to the subcommittee at a hearing it will conduct in Los Angeles within the next month, the date to be announced soon.

Rolph Arrives With Leaders for Conference

Republican leaders from Northern California, headed by Mayor James Rolph, Jr., of San Francisco, gubernatorial nominee, arrived here last night for a series of conferences with party chieftains in this section of the State.

In the party, which will make headquarters at the Biltmore is also Marshall Hale, newly elected chairman of the State Republican committee, who is making his first visit with party leaders here since the State convention.

Others, all of whom arrived by Western Air Express at the Alhambra port from San Francisco, are: State Senator Roy Fellom, Louis O'Neal, chairman of the County Central Committee, Santa Clara county; James Rolph III; Ed Christian and Hugh McKevitt.

FITTS TO SHIFT STAFF OF AIDES

More Efficiency Sought by District Attorney

Deputies to Get Chances for Wider Experience

No Dismissals Scheduled for Legal Talent

Radical changes in the personnel of various departments of the District Attorney's office will be announced today when the new assignment schedule which has been in course of preparation for more than a fortnight will be made public by Dist.-Atty. Fitts.

It is understood that the new schedule will result in the transfer of nearly 50 per cent of the staff of deputies from one department to another, the object being to increase the efficiency of the office as a whole.

The transfers, Dist.-Atty. Fitts indicated, do not reflect upon the efficiency of the men so moved. In a majority of instances the changes are being made merely to broaden the experience of the deputies in various departments to fit them better for more responsible positions in the future.

The schedule now being prepared does not provide for the discharge of any deputy district attorneys, according to Fitts.

The plan for reorganizing the office has been under consideration for nearly a month, it was announced, and the advice of various department heads was considered in an effort to increase the efficiency of the office staff.

Secretary Will Speak at Dinner

Miss Edna H. Porter of New York will be the principal speaker this evening at the fall banquet of the Business Girls' League of the Young Women's Christian Association, 941 South Figueroa street. She is national secretary of the business and professional girls' clubs allied with the organization and is on a tour of the country in the interests of advisory work.

Miss Betty Archer, chairman of the gymnasium and swimming class council, will preside. The honor guest of the evening will be Mrs. W. B. Mathews, chairman of the health education committee, and Miss Edith Stanton, general secretary. Dr. Samuel S. Mathews will speak on "Posture."

After the supper the girls will go to the gymnasium for a volley ball game, then to the plunge for a splash party.

RITES OF MRS. SHAW WILL BE PRIVATE

Mrs. Amelia Shaw, 79 years of age, mother-in-law of Harvey Thew, local playwright, died at the home of her daughter, Mrs. Thew, 1311 North Laurel avenue, Sunday night. She had been an invalid twenty years. A native of Picton, Ont., Can., Mrs. Shaw came to this city to make her home with her daughter in 1916. Her husband, who was a horticulturist of note, died here last year. In addition to Mrs. Thew, she leaves another daughter, Mrs. E. Percy Noel, and three grandchildren. Funeral services will be private.

BOOK BY SEA HAWK TELLS ADVENTURES

Lieut. D. W. Tomlinson

A sea hawk has changed his beak for a pen and as a result "The Sky's the Limit," an aviation story by Lieut. D. W. (Tommy) Tomlinson, former leader of the Navy's famous Three Sea Hawks, made its appearance yesterday at bookstores throughout the city.

The boo ktells of Lieut. Tomlinson's actual experience as a pioneer in aviation and is illustrated with photographs of the scenes described. All aspects of aviation, including its possible future in the United States, are presented. Lieut. Tomlinson now is vice-president and manager of operations for the T.A.T.-Maddux Air Lines.

Man Near Death From Asserted Still Explosion

What police believe to have been a still set up in the dining-room of a one-story frame bungalow at 636 East Seventy-ninth street exploded yesterday, burning Harry Martin, reputed owner, so severely his life is in jeopardy. In another room of the bungalow was Mrs. Martin, who called a neighbor to help her take Martin to Angelus Hospital where he is said to have given the name of Perry Mann.

Detective Lieutenant Hamlin found him there after the fire department had extinguished the flames in the bungalow. Harry Levine, 43 years of age, was found by Hamlin at the bungalow and arrested on a charge of being a party with Martin to the asserted liquor making.

NATHAN G. ROBERTSON TO BE BURIED TODAY

Funeral services will be conducted today for Nathan G. Robertson, the father of Roy Robertson, manager of the Frederick Arms Apartments, at Angeles Abbey at 11 a.m. Mr. Robertson died Sunday night. He came to Los Angeles in 1919 from Vincennes, Ind., where he was born in 1852. He engaged in the hotel business which he followed until his health failed two years ago. He leaves eight children.

Decision Result of Question Arising Out of Merger

Defense Scores in Action Over Promissory Note

Lack of Information as to Consolidation Asserted

Because the consolidation of two Los Angeles banks is not a matter of public record an action started by the Los Angeles-First National Trust and Savings Bank against Percy H. Howland and Charles T. Howland to collect a $1500 promissory note must be tried a second time in the Superior Court, according to a decision handed down yesterday by Division 1, District Court of Appeal.

The Howlands executed the note in favor of the Pacific-Southwest Trust and Savings Bank, which was merged into the bank appearing in the court action. When the Los Angeles-First National Bank sought to collect the note the Howlands said they had no information of the previous merger.

CAMPAIGN FOR BONDS LAUNCHED

Citizens' Committee Opens Headquarters in Drive for City Power Issue

Prepared to push forward a vigorous campaign in behalf of the $23,000,000 power bond issue on the November 4 election ballot, the Citizens' Water and Power Committee, headed by General Chairman Joseph Scott, yesterday formally opened downtown headquarters at 350 South Hill street.

With the Citizens' Committee directing a city-wide educational program to make plain the pressing necessity for the power bonds and the fact that these bonds will not, and cannot, increase taxes one cent, district centers of bond campaign work also have been established at the Tin Hups in the San Fernando Valley, in Venice, San Pedro, Fifty-fourth street and Western avenue and 5734 Pasadena avenue.

Further supporting its recent official action in unanimously indorsing the power bond issue in every particular, the board of directors of the Los Angeles Chamber of Commerce yesterday was on record with a statement stressing the vital importance of authorizing the bonds by an overwhelming vote at the November 4 election.

Emphasizing the benefits that will flow from approval of the power bonds by the voters and the fact that these bonds will be repaid with interest from Power Bureau earnings, the Chamber of Commerce, in its formal statement, said in part:

"Recently the citizens of Los Angeles went to the polls to vote upon a $38,800,000 bond issue to provide a means of augmenting our water supply. The emphasis with which the voters approved this issue left no doubt as to the certainty of the sentiment of the people of this city relative to the vital necessity of looking into the future needs of the community for water.

"Now we are confronted with a similar problem relating to the future of our supply of power. As the citizens of Los Angeles took cognizance of our need for water, just so certainly must they recognize the need of keeping our program of power development abreast of the water program.

"If new industry is to be brought into Los Angeles to provide employment for the community's growing population . . . ultimately the only solution of taking care of the vast army of homeseekers that flock to California each year . . . if we are to continue to build toward a healthy, sound economic, and prosperous structure, then it is the duty of every citizen to interest himself in this coming bond issue."

HERE'S A POWDER THAT BECOMES PART OF THE SKIN

Smart women have learned one of the most important lessons in make-up—that a natural skin only comes when the powder actually blends with the natural skin tone. The new Beige powder from Primrose House is the favorite this fall because it brings out all the lights and color of the skin without that horrid spotty appearance everyone wants to avoid. So fine in texture that it never clogs or cakes, yet it clings like the stone in a peach. Really a $3 powder, it may now be had in dollar portions. One-third the amount for one-third the cost. In boxes, $1 and $3. Primrose House, 595 Fifth Avenue, New York City.

JERITZA TO APPEAR FOR THIRD TIME

"Tannhauser" to Feature Other Notable Singers at Shrine Tonight

Wagner's "Tannhauser" brings Maria Jeritza back to the Shrine Auditorium tonight for her third role during the Los Angeles Grand Opera Association's annual season. She will share honors with John Charles Thomas, Sydney Rayner, Dorothee Manski and Ezio Pinza.

Tonight's version of "Tannhauser" is the one which Wagner wrote especially for the premiere in Paris. It includes the famous "Bacchanale" number, which was not included in the original version. The Serge Oukrainsky ballet will appear. Dr. Artur Rodzinski, director of the Los Angeles Philharmonic Orchestra, will make his final appearance of the season at the conductor's post.

Clare Clairbert, Brussels soprano, who was a sensation last week in "La Traviata," will appear on Thursday in "Mignon," and will bring the season to a close Monday with "Lucia." Jeritza makes one more appearance, singing Saturday night in "Girl of the Golden West."

UNIVERSAL FILM TIE-UP BY WARNER

Virtually All Laemmle Pictures to Be Shown by Continent-wide Circuit

Announcement was made yesterday by Carl Laemmle, president of Universal Pictures, of the booking by Warner Brothers of virtually 100 per cent of the Universal product to be shown in the 800 Warner houses throughout the country. The rental for the features alone will amount to more than $3,500,000.

This is the second big booking deal consummated by Universal during the past few weeks, the first having been with R.-K.-O. theaters for first-run release in many of the key cities of the country.

The R.-K.-O. deal included only the twenty features on the Universal 1930-31 schedule, but the Warner deal includes as well all serials, shorts, news reels and comedies.

Among the Warner houses which will play the Universal product are those in New York, Pennsylvania, New Jersey, New England, Chicago, the Middle West as far west as Omaha and several first-run houses on the Pacific Coast.

Three Accused of Being Drunk While in Auto

Arrested by Officers Cope and Smith of the county motor patrol at midnight Sunday night, three men were arraigned before Justice of the Peace Wood of Montebello township yesterday on charge of being drunk in an automobile. According to the officers, additional charges of contributing to the delinquency of a minor will be sought against them, as Clifford Summers, 15 years of age, and his sister, Mrs. Bernice Burton, with a small baby were arrested in a roadster with them.

One of the trio, R. M. Boles, 26, of Venice, who was driving the roadster, pleaded guilty to being drunk and to possession of the half-gallon of moonshine liquor found in the car. Justice Wood fined him $50 on the liquor charge and $15 on the drunk charge. The other two men, Thomas W. Masters, 38, and G. W. Maxwell, 31, both of Venice, pleaded not guilty to being drunk and their trial was set for the 15th inst.

Young Summers, who resides at 5552 Lewis avenue, North Long Beach, is being held in Juvenile Hall, according to Capt. Cannon of the motor patrol, pending charges which may be filed against him and as a material witness against the three men.

VALUE INCREASES~PRICES LOWER!

Established and Unusual Methods of Purchase Enables Bullock's to Price Fine Furniture So Low . . .

The establishment of a home necessitates certain expenditures for furniture. Bullock's has lowered such expenditures substantially without lowering quality and craftsmanship. Bullock's accomplishes this through sound, scientific methods of merchandising, employed to widen channels of service and activity.

Keeping in step with advancing conditions Bullock's has co-operated with the furniture manufacturer for greater quantity production, and this eventuates in a general lowering of price. An example of value achieved through these methods is the Love Seat illustrated, part of Bullock's new "Chelsea Ensemble" in Oak. Built with sturdiness that should resist more than a generation of use. This Furniture was produced in greater quantity than usual, so Bullock's can price it lower! An investigation of Bullock's "every day" prices on all Furniture and Home Furnishings discloses many such surprises in value . . . value far greater than price would suggest.

Furniture for real homes! The Chelsea Love Seat takes its inspiration from old early English types. Antique oak with special spring construction. Interesting covering of tapestry and homespun.

BROADLOOM

Bullock's Search for the Finest Domestic Broadloom Led to This

There is no reason to pay more! If you will examine Bullock's $7.95 Broadloom Carpet carefully . . . note its deep, luxurious pile, its closeness of weave, quality of wool and fine coloring, you will know why Bullock's search for the finest quality of Broadloom manufactured in America led to this. A quality limited to Bullock's in Southern California, and offered at a great concession in price because of the great quantity purchased. To add to value Bullock's markup was reduced to a minimum! Greater value at a lower price . . . a condition that exists throughout Bullock's Rug Section on all qualities of Broadloom, Domestic Rugs and Oriental Rugs.

You owe it to yourself to investigate Bullock's lower prices. Bullock's will save you dollars or hundreds of dollars depending on what Rugs you need.

PERIOD FABRICS IMPORTED by BULLOCK'S

CHENILLE DAMASK FROM FRANCE $4.95 YD.

When Bullock's went direct to European sources for Decorative and Upholstery Fabrics it was with a double purpose! To obtain authentic designs and to lower prices on finer types of Period Fabrics.

Bullock's accomplished this by means of direct purchase, with the result that the "middleman's" profit is eliminated . . . that prices are usually as low or lower than those of the importer or wholesale dealer!

And so it is that Chenille Damask from France, illustrated above, can be priced as low as $4.95 a yard! The pattern is worked in chenille against a gold thread ground. A design that might have decorated the walls of the palace of Fontainebleau when Francis I ruled France.

Today's Bible Text

For such a high priest became us, who is holy, harmless, undefiled, separate from sinners, and made higher than the heavens; who needeth not daily, as those high-priests, to offer up sacrifice, first for his own sins, and then for the people's: for this he did once, when he offered up himself.—Heb. vii:26, 27.

AFTER FIFTY YEARS

Kansas was a prohibition State back in 1880 and is still holding out. Of course there may be a bootlegger or two, but what is one bootlegger in a thousand stacks of wheat?

THE TOOTHLESS AGE

In the last twenty years the expectation of human life at birth has been extended from 48 to 58 years. How do they know? They still have a bunch of years to go on the first installment. Anyhow, this brings them to the age when they are needing new teeth.

THE MATCH INDUSTRY

The Swedish match king is finding a match for his talents in this country. For about $17,000,000 he is said to have virtually obtained control of the Diamond Match Company, which is the match trust of this country. A match is a cheap and tiny thing, but millions of them run into big money and the market is always there. The Swedes have always been match-makers—even to the royal family.

RAYS THAT PENETRATE

Scientists permit the information to ooze out that certain new gamma rays that have been rounded up for inspection have such penetrating power that they can go through ten inches of steel. Some of those Tammany politicians better go under cover else their consciences will be brought into the glare of day. A gamma ray machine that can bore through ten inches of steel could locate most any plunder. Nobody is safe when the scientists are at large.

THE FIRST COMER

A chief of the Sioux nation having accumulated about $75,000 in ready money has started overseas on an important quest. He is going to find out who Columbus was and if he really discovered America. He has heard that Columbus was an Italian, a Spaniard, a Catalonian or a Basque and he wants to get the low-down on it. His ancestors owned a large share of this country when this country was discovered and he is particular who found them. For $75,000 he can probably find that America was discovered by a Sioux chieftain who eloped to Spain in a park canoe and was in a hurry to get back. But it is a fine thing to realise that the Indians of the country are taking an interest in pioneer history.

KELLEY FINDS HIS LEVEL

The refusal of Ralph S. Kelley, suspended chief field agent of the General Land Office at Denver, to give to the Department of Justice any evidence in support of his charges that government-owned oil shale lands in Colorado have been improperly alienated by the Interior Department, coupled with his announcement that he has been hired to write a series of articles for the strongly partisan opposition paper, the New York World, stamps Kelley as probably merely another sensationalist. His actions, while of course they do not necessarily disprove his charges, do tend to discredit them and to indicate they are not worthy of serious attention.

Secretary Wilbur has already caught him in one exaggeration, in his estimate of the value of the lands on the basis of $1 a barrel for the oil they contain. This would be true only if the oil cost nothing to extract. By present processes the cost of extraction is $2 to $3 a barrel, however, a fact which Kelley is careful not to mention. It is plain that instead of being worth the enormous sums which Kelley estimates, they are worthless and will continue to be worthless until either a cheap extraction process is developed, or the price of oil rises, neither of which anybody expects in the near future, though, of course, either or both might come to pass. Any purchases of such lands under the circumstances are pure speculation.

Kelley, invited to make good, has evaded. He prefers to give his "evidence" where he cannot be cross-examined, where he cannot easily be answered and at profit to himself rather than to the public service.

THE TIME TO BUY

These fall months of the year 1930 have the best buyers' market that this generation has seen, or is likely to see, in all probability. Some articles are lower than they have ever been and nearly every staple commodity is so much reduced that the dollar of 1929 is worth approximately $1.25 at the present time, on the average. This amounts, for those on regular salary or other fixed income, to a 25 per cent increase in pay.

In the opinion of most competent observers, the bottom has been reached. The decline in wholesale prices which characterized the early months of the year has fully reached the retail market and there are bargains to be had in almost every line. The purchaser of today can be assured of getting his full money's worth, and in the case of staple, long-lasting goods can save vast amounts by laying in as large a supply as the purse will permit.

Proof of these assertions has been furnished concretely in a series of brief articles appearing in The Times which took up in detail various items of expenditure which come into everyone's budget and showed how far below last year's level prices had fallen.

Food, for example, which had been falling gradually for several years, dropped off another 12 per cent during the year, its biggest and probably last drop. Food is only 31 per cent higher than in the prewar year of 1913. The decrease since last year amounts to increasing the purchaser's dollar by approximately 13 cents.

Clothing is at least 20 per cent off for men's wear and 10 to 35 per cent off for women's wear. On the average the dollar of 1929 is figured to be worth $1.25 in clothes-buying power now.

Household furnishings have declined 10 to 25 per cent, the lesser decrease coming in kitchen utensils and the larger in furniture. On the average the dollar of 1929, invested in furnishings today, will buy nearly $1.25 worth when proportions are weighed.

Fixed charges also are lower. In addition, to a decline in interest rates, taxes are off 10 per cent, electricity 10 to 14 per cent, burglary insurance 20 to 25 per cent and permanent improvements for which assessments are levied, such as street paving, 10 to 25 per cent. Most recent contracts for public improvements have been let well below the estimates.

One of the greatest declines has come in building materials, which are at least 25 per cent below the 1929 level, which means that the 1930 dollar will buy around $1.33 worth of building now. Paints and builders' hardware are at material reductions. The opportunity for home builders is better now than for years.

Gardening materials are substantially cheaper—phenomenally so in some items. Plants and shrubs are off about 25 per cent, implements and tools 10 to 25 per cent, galvanized pipe 5 per cent. Poultry feed, an interesting item in the suburbs and outlying sections, is off 25 per cent.

The decline in automobiles and auto accessories is figured from 4 to 25 per cent. This is one department in which prices for several years have been lower than in 1913, values having advanced tremendously. Tires are at their cheapest in history and may be expected to advance materially, as rubber growers are discouraged at the low prices they are receiving and rubber production is certain to fall off. Cotton, from which tire cords and fabrics are made, is also at a very low point. In the used-car market there are splendid bargains to be had.

Realty and rentals also are at low figures, but with every prospect for an upward swing in the near future. There was for a time an excess of building of housing in the city, but the demand is now catching up and recently in some parts of the city there have been increases in rentals. In other sections there have been decreases ranging from 8½ to 10 per cent; but it is the general opinion that the rock-bottom has been reached. There is little doubt that the present is a highly favorable time either for purchases of realty or for long-term leases.

Nothing has been said about the stock market. While it is probable some investment purchases can be made there at favorable figures, the market in general is something for the uninformed to leave alone, especially for speculative purposes.

But for buyers in a position to judge values there is reason in every line for going ahead and none for hanging back. Further, money spent now will help to create the revival for which the country has been hoping.

THE R-101 DISASTER

The whole world joins Great Britain in mourning the forty-seven victims of the disaster to the giant dirigible R-101, among them the foremost British experts on lighter-than-air construction. The airship, weighted down with rain and buffeted by a gale, crashed on a hill near Beauvais, France, and the inflammable hydrogen with which she was filled was released and caught fire, probably from her engines. Her immediate destruction followed. It is remarkable that any of the fifty-five persons aboard escaped with their lives.

The most cogent comment on the disaster so far heard is that of Rear-Admiral Moffett, who points out that had helium instead of hydrogen been used the fire and explosion would have been prevented, and calls for the repeal of the law preventing the export of helium so that this gas may be available to the experimenters in England and Germany. The United States is the only country where helium is produced in any quantity and here much of it is going to waste for lack of a market. Its capture is somewhat expensive, but the gas itself costs nothing, flowing as a by-product from gas and oil wells.

Presumably the law forbidding export had for its purpose the prevention of the military use of the gas by other nations. But dirigibles have peace-time possibilities overshadowing any war-time use; in fact, their war usefulness at all remains to be proved. It would be easy enough to control helium in time of war or threatened war, without preventing its use in time of peace. Other peace-time uses of helium are restricted to certain types of radio tubes and other electrical devices, which furnish a negligible market. Incidentally, if a larger market for the gas could be found, its price probably would come down.

In the general interest of humanity, the law forbidding helium export should be repealed or substantially modified. Such disasters as that to the R-101 furnish a sufficient reason.

NEW ENVOY TO MEXICO

There will be a general feeling of satisfaction over the appointment of J. Reuben Clark as Ambassador to Mexico, in place of Ambassador Morrow, who resigned to run for the Senate. Clark has been Morrow's right-hand man at Mexico City, where he has served as counselor to the embassy, and the fact that Morrow himself picked Clark as the ideal man for the post is sufficient recommendation.

Morrow is going farther, with an expedient new to American diplomacy, in offering to pay the expenses of the embassy out of his own pocket. It is doubtful whether appropriate comment should consist of congratulating the nation in having wealthy men of such great public spirit, or condemning Congress for the niggardliness toward the diplomatic service which makes the assumption of such a burden by an outsider necessary. There is obviously something wrong about a system which absolutely bars men dependent on their salaries from taking diplomatic posts. But Congress has been fully informed time after time about the situation and does nothing to remedy it, though it lavishes expenditure in other directions.

Clark will be well received at Mexico City, where he appears to be as well liked as Morrow himself. Ambassador Telles at Washington called the appointment "a most happy one," no doubt echoing the sentiment of his government.

HIGH COST OF DYING

The coffin makers of America agree that the mortality is greater in times of plenty than in years of depression. They are unable to explain it, but the fact remains. But it must be remembered that it costs a lot of money to die.

LEE SIDE O' L.A.

By Lee Shippey

AMONG its many peculiarities, Southern California has, we believe, the world's highest proportion of handy men.

Retired millionaires or white-collar men who come here because they cannot stand the hot summers or cold winters of other climates all have to have something to do. And here they catch something of the spirit of the pioneers who had to do everything for themselves. Some for amusement and some from necessity turn their hands to innumerable odd jobs and sidelines. Not long ago an architect friend of ours drew plans for a $150,000 home. "Do you wish me to attend to the landscaping, too?" he asked the man for whom he did the job. "Oh, no," the client replied. "I have some overalls and expect to attend to that myself."

A man who landed in one of our suburbs could find no work at once, so he put an advertisement in the paper and hung out a sign—and began filing keys, mending locks and doing all sorts of "fix-it" jobs. A couple of years later he became one of the town's officials. He had won respect by doing some kind of odd job for everyone in town and doing it well.

And we know a kitchen mechanic who confidently expects to blossom out as a grand opera or concert star.

Adventures of a Handy Man

But handy men are among the chief reasons why there are miles and miles of smiles in Southern California.

Take our friend, Ralph Sheff, for instance. He is a business man, an efficiency expert. His advice is sought by people about to make investments. He is an expert on cost-finding systems, office management and financial operations. He can solve problems in trigonometry, differential calculus and income tax. He has to attend important meetings as the representative of a great business institution.

But he also raises blooded bulldogs for the market, chickens for the home table and a vegetable garden. He's a pretty good automobile mechanic and an A-3 plumber. When the lights go out at our house we have to call the electrician, but that his tool box and soon there is light again. And so on.

But he doesn't make those home activities stand the test of his cost-finding system. He doesn't dare.

How to Kill a Sunday Morn

The other day, for instance, he decided that the automatic heater under his water tank was burning too high. He decided on Sunday morning to let his wife go to church without him, while he regulated the heater.

When his wife got home from church she found him on his back on the cellar floor, muttering things which suggested that he should have gone to church. He had cut down the supply of gas so efficiently that none flowed at all.

Guests were coming for dinner. But he had set his hand to the gadgets and would not turn back. He still was there when the guests arrived. Then his wife demanded that he stop long enough to kill the chicken for dinner, a thing he had been postponing for two hours.

Pets Are Hard to Kill

He didn't like to face his guests, looking as he was, so he got Mrs. Sheff to bring his clothes down cellar and changed there. Then he went out to greet them, and showed them a bit about the place, which was new.

"But Ralph, you must kill the chicken for dinner," whispered Mrs. Sheff.

Now Sheff had never killed a chicken. Chicken-raising was, in fact, a new thing for him—something undertaken when he built out in the suburbs. And he built only very recently, because now is the most advantageous time to build.

"We'll let you folks pick out the chicken you want for dinner," he cheerily announced and led the way to the latest improved chicken pens.

The guests looked at each other, a little worried. If the chicken wasn't killed yet dinner was likely to be late. They suggested it would be nice to just have a light picnic lunch.

"Nonsense!" said Sheff. "You were invited here for a chicken dinner. This is the new improved cafeteria style—you pick out what you want while it's still on the hoof."

Finally they chose one—but it happened to be Mrs. Sheff's particular favorite. They chose another, which happened to be Ralph's. They selected a third and tears sprang to the eyes of both the Sheffs. "Oh, we couldn't kill that one," cried Mrs. Sheff. "That's the one we nursed through the pip."

All Out But the Chicken

At last they found a chicken they could part with—though not without a sigh—and Sheff attempted to wring its neck. He never had wrung a chicken's neck, but often had seen it done. He thought he could do anything he had seen done. But that job was an exception. He sprung the neck badly, but didn't succeed in wringing it. When the bird flopped out of his hands the neck had a very queer twisted appearance, but still could squawk.

Mrs. Sheff began to sob. The feminine guest turned pale. Ralph ran for the hatchet, laid the chicken's head on a two-by-four and struck desperately.

He did very well, only missing the right spot by half an inch. Blood spattered him. The chicken flopped away with its neck hanging like a half-opened knife blade.

But it still could squawk.

The feminine guest and Mrs. Sheff swooned into each other's arms. The man guest swore softly and turned green. Sheff had barely strength to run for old man Garza, to whom he gave a dollar for finishing the job.

Help Everybody

When they tried to light the gas stove to cook the chicken it wouldn't light. The efforts to regulate the heater had put it out of commission. They had to call a plumber (who got double pay because it was Sunday) and dinner was three hours late.

But even then nobody could eat any of it, when they thought of how that chicken had looked a few hours before.

Which goes to show that handy men don't take the bread out of the mouths of trained workmen. They just help the market for materials and eventually call in the trained workman, anyway.

FACE LIFTING

A belated announcement comes that expression is given to the face by over twenty little pairs of muscles guided by the brain. So it would seem that a little brain lifting would also help.

A PLEA FOR PITY
By James J. Montague

It has been found that people who are reducing become inaccurate in their statements.

When Smith is counting up his score
And, happy and elate,
Observes, "Well, well! I had a four!"
When he has shot an eight,
Do not be surly or unkind,
Or gruffly cry, "What's that?"
He merely has impaired his mind
While working off his fat.

When Brown, who borrowed ten of you
A week or so ago,
Says: "Saturday I'm coming through
With that five bucks I owe!"
Don't say: "That fifteen cents you mean!"
With a derisive grin.
He's just a trifle off his bean;
He's trying to get thin.

If Judson says he caught a trout
Three feet ten inches long,
Don't look at him with scowling doubt
And say, "That's pretty strong."
Or think that somewhere in his brain
A screw or two is loose,
For, it should be extremely plain,
He's trying to reduce.

When men must dine on milk and toast
The latter, thin and brown,
And have a muffin at the most
Before they go to town,
And never at an oyster bar
Fill up a second plate,
One must not blame them if they are
A bit inaccurate.

LETTERS TO The Times

[Name and address of writer must accompany all letters for this column. Letters of a personal nature or involving contentious religious questions are not acceptable.]

Arizona Cotton Pickers

LOS ANGELES, Oct. 2.—[To the Editor of The Times:] This writer on yesterday applied at the United States Government Employment Service at 901 North Alameda street, Los Angeles, for an opportunity to go to the Arizona cotton fields and was told that an edict had come forth from the Cotton Growers' Association of Arizona that only men with their families would be accepted, and I am a man of family and need the work, but so situated that it is impossible to take my family with me.

In this very morning's issue of your paper, first page, third column, reads this headline: "Crop Crisis Revealed—Arizona Cotton in Danger. Restriction of Mexicans at Border Blamed for Lack of Pickers."

I stood near a group of honest-looking, sincere and serious-minded men and overheard their conversation, some single, and some like myself, married, and so situated that it would be economically impossible for them to transport their families to Arizona, and yet these same men need that work and need it badly.

I was told that only about 250 persons of the 1000 quota asked for from Los Angeles had been actually checked out to Arizona before the above ruling of the association had been issued. Now, it seems to the writer that there is something radically wrong when if the truth were known there are probably 5000 potential cotton pickers in Los Angeles and vicinity who would gladly go.

French Folding Door

LOS ANGELES, Oct. 1.—[To the Editor of The Times:] By expelling W. R. Hearst from France the French have showed the courage of their convictions, one thing Great Britain has been lacking in for some time. I notice Hearst's cause in the United States taken up by such well-known statesmen as Mayor Cully of Boston, Mayor Thompson of Chicago and the fiery ex-Senator Reed. Real Americans know that Hearst got what he deserved.

The French republic stands now higher in the estimation of the people of the United States than ever.

JOSEPH W. PICKENS.

Hopes He's Not Typical

LOS ANGELES, Oct. 3.—[To the Editor of The Times:] Well, I see that our fair city is about to have the dubious honor of entertaining Willie Hearst of the famous yellow press, and the sole reason for this outpouring seems to be the fact that he was thrown out of France as an undesirable. My opinion of France has undergone a decided change since this episode and the French people are to be congratulated on the fact that they have demonstrated to the world that there is a limit to what they will stand.

In the case of New York and Chicago the names signed to the various and varied resolutions of welcome give the answer, made up as they are of about 90 per cent traditional enemies of England, but any such violent Anglophobe as Hearst would be naturally welcomed by the aforementioned class. His past violent tirades against everything British would be tragic were they not so ridiculous, but not half so comic as his later attempts to curry favor with England in every way possible.

I am an American dating back to 1637 and proud of it, but I am less so when I am called upon to accept William Randolph Hearst as a typical American citizen.

Also Shut Out Eyesores

LONG BEACH, Oct. 6.—[To the Editor of The Times:] Why is it The Times continually harps on outdoor advertising? Witness your editorial in Sunday's issue: Obstruction to scenery and a menace to traffic is your apparent contention.

These displays are invariably neat in appearance, as to structure and of artistic design—more frequently an added beauty rather than a despoiler of surroundings and never placed obstructionally as to either scenery or traffic.

They oftener shut out eyesores than they obstruct beauty spots.

A HISTORIC BITE

Thomas A. Edison and Charles P. Steinmetz represent the master minds of modern electricity, and when the affairs of the latter were being settled after his death, there was found among his effects a bite off a piece of tobacco carefully wrapped in a piece of paper. With it was a note, this "chew" of tobacco was bitten from a plug offered by Mr. Edison. The real reason why Steinmetz did not apply this chew to its traditional legitimate use was that his teeth were no longer in condition for the purpose. Deprived of the orthodox benefit of the offer, the "little giant" nevertheless could not bear to so slight the kindness of his chum, the "sage of East Orange," as to throw the tobacco away, so he tagged it for identification. What better indication of chummy relations between men can be found than that one should offer the other a "chew," and that the recipient thereof should value the chew so highly that instead of putting it in his mouth he put it in a neat little paper package, carefully wrapped and labeled it himself as to date and place, with his name at the bottom?

Aircraft, engines and parts shipped from the United States in the first five months of this year were valued at $3,591,257.

HOME REPAIR DEPOT

BY WILLIAM HAMILTON CLINE

Some chap in Providence, R. I., has sent me a folder about a firm that has what seems to me not only a unique but a profitable line. As a householder, it struck me midriff, and I'm wondering why some one in Los Angeles doesn't investigate the same plan—possibly to his own profit and certainly to that of those to whom he might bring its workings.

This Providence concern acts toward a house like an auto repair shop does to a car; in other words, it will take in hand a domicile, give it a complete overhaul, put experts on each phase of the work, and revamp it from cellar to garret. Then, it assumes the upkeep of that place; if anything goes wrong, you telephone this company and the very man who fixed it up hotfoots out and attends to the job. He knows just what to do, because he is familiar with the premises; he knows what tools to fetch because he has handled the work before; he doesn't have to investigate or experiment, because he has the knowledge in advance. For one of the keynotes of this firm's policy is to keep its mechanics and to assign each one to the particular home that comes within his scope, whether he be plumber, carpenter or what not. When you phone in the clerk consults the files, sees who did your work before, calls him and assigns him to the trouble shooting.

This particularizing of work is the most unique part of the plan, to my mind, though I know by long experience what a joy it would be in any case to have one central place to which all my petty home troubles might be referred. As it is now with me—and doubtless with many others—when a thing must be fixed—and usually that means "in a hurry"—I have to thumb through the telephone book, seeking some repair man I know, or one that is near by, explain to him as best I can—and usually very poorly—what is wrong and needed and then have a strange worker come out and putter about till he finds the pipe, faucet or whatever it may be, ere he can fix it up. All that takes his time and mine, and the damage may be continuing throughout the process. Then, the next time, another search, another man, another delay to permit him to nose about, and more damage to house and pocketbook alike.

This Providence (good name, what?) firm eliminates all that. You have one number to remember, one phone call to make. There, if you are a past client, your complete needs are on their records. You simply say that a pipe leaks, a furnace doesn't work, a gas stove balks—at once, a man who has a full understanding of that particular pipe, furnace, stove, who has attended to it before and can do it again, almost with his eyes shut, is on the way to your rescue. When he arrives he is equipped for the job and he goes right to it without hem or haw.

Now, wouldn't there be a field for such an enterprise in Los Angeles? It wouldn't take much capital; it would require an association of skilled and willing workers of many handicrafts, all eager to add to their abilities by taking on other lines; all able to please the housewife and to build up her faith in himself and his employer. Such a concentration of repair abilities in one spot would inevitably lead to business, because if properly handled everyone who had had such service would be only too glad to pass on the word. A motorcycle service would make transportation of worker and tools easy and save expense. Materials could be accumulated at wholesale rates and a profit made legitimately by pricing them out at retail. A fixed hourly rate for wages could be established and adhered to as part of a schedule or rates could be made by the job.

WHERE CAN I LEARN

Correct English?

BY LOUISE L. TEMPLE

[Prepared in co-operation with the Los Angeles evening high schools. Questions concerning free evening classes will be answered if stamped addressed envelope is inclosed. Address Louise L. Temple, care of The Times.]

At Sentous Evening High School, 1206 West Pico, is a class in correct English. It is neither oratory, public speaking, grammar, written English nor literature. Students are taught what is correct in speech and why. Every evening, from ten to twenty minutes is given over to a question drawer. Enunciation and pronunciation drills form an important part of the course. Other features of the course are studies in synonyms, exercises for vocabulary enrichment and drills on correct English idioms, slang and the like.

This class meets every Tuesday and Thursday evenings, from 7 to 9, at the Sentous Evening High School, 1206 West Pico Boulevard. Men and women of all ages are welcome. There is no charge of any kind and books are loaned free, if a deposit is left to cover their value.

NEW SAFETY DRESS

Tests have been made in Loch Long, Scotland, of a new safety dress for sailors employed in submarines. It is the invention of H. L. Davis, and is said to have been successful in bringing men up from a depth of 130 feet. The dress contains a breathing bag which is supplied by a small cylinder of oxygen fixed below it. Poisonous carbonic acid gas of the exhaled breath is absorbed by a cartridge of soda lime. Should the submarine sink, every man aboard would don an escape dress, which will keep him safe from the poisonous gases given off when salt water comes in contact with the accumulators. When the hull is flooded the crew escapes through the hatch of the conning tower.

MODERN METHODS

There's sorrow in the Main Front store, the customers are sad and sore; the most of them are ancient wights who've been around there days and nights and smoked their pipes and told old tales and watched the cat use his scales. There we have met for many years, discussed all our hopes and fears, and thrashing out the problems confronting county, town and State. There we have gathered when grown tired, and wrangled, in some quarters mired; there we denounced the plutocrats and swept the floor with our hats, and when a customer came in, to interrupt was 'twas a sin. The boss, who ruled since '91, retires in favor of his son. The son is full of modern schemes; he has visions and his dreams. He invited us to chase our aged persons from the place. "It is," he says, "a mart of trade, and not a joint for gossip made. public square and you may stay and argue there. The chairs you've loafed in many years are going to the auctioneers; they can't come here and sell prunes unless you dig picayunes. I'll make this place so neat and clean that not a cobweb will be seen, and when the ladies come to buy, there'll be no greybeards squatting by and they won't be required to choke in billows of tobacco smoke. So chase yourselves, old gray men, and don't come loafing here again." This is the way the sad world moves, they yet I hear that it improves; ways we knew when we were young, the ways to which we long have clung, are fired, regardless of the cost, and we delegates feel lost.

Quarrel Crowned by Drinking Wood Intoxicants

Only Sole Conscious Witness to Double Fatality

"Bad whisky" was given by police yesterday as the cause of the killing of a drinking party in the home of Adolph Palmer, plumber, at 248 Glory Place Sunday night, in which Palmer killed his friend Ignatius Sullivan, also shot and then himself with a revolver.

Palmer's widow, Mrs. Corinne Palmer, and Fred Wymore, friend of the two dead men, are being held as material witnesses pending the coroner's inquest, which will be conducted at 1:30 p.m. today at the coroner's office.

Police have questioned Mrs. Sullivan and Wymore and carefully examined the scene of the double slaying. Detective Lieutenants Sanderson and Howard said yesterday, "and so far as we can see to only one conclusion, that Palmer became suddenly crazed by the number of drinks he had had and in this state of mind killed his friend and himself. We found bottles and jugs in Palmer's home which had contained gin, rye whisky and home-brew [illegible]

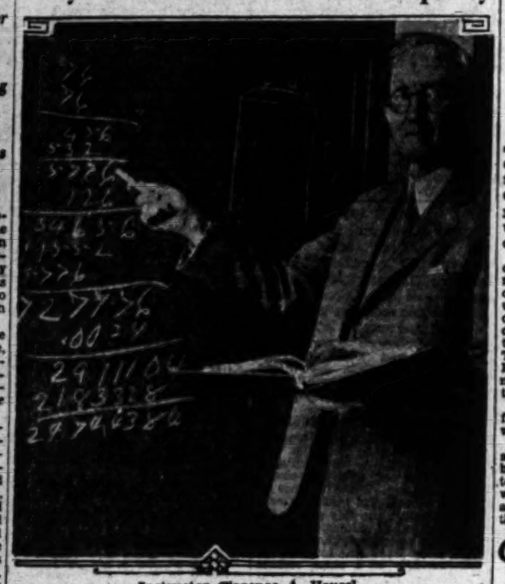
Wymore was in a drunken sleep [illegible] shooting occurred," the [illegible] continued. "He said he didn't even hear the shots though he was on the floor in the room in which the shooting took place. But it is his statement that no one provoked the shooting.

Mrs. Fred Alsop, He was separated from his wife, the detectives said, he had called for Sullivan in his car at their home at 2810 Glory Place early Saturday evening and picked up Wymore, a widower, at his home at 2230 Alessandro on the return trip.

The all-night drinking party followed. After breakfast Wymore lay down on the front-room floor and Mrs. Sullivan said shortly before 1 a.m. she was sitting in a chair in the living-room when Palmer suddenly grabbed the shotgun standing in a corner of the room, shot it at her husband and then turned the sharp stock of the weapon on Palmer in the same room and he fell dead. As Sullivan ran to him Palmer placed another shell into the barrel of the gun, pressed the muzzle to his head and pulled the trigger. Palmer and Sullivan were [illegible] of age, Mrs. Sullivan is 45.

FEDERAL DRY AGENTS IN SCHOOL

They Learn All About Stills' Capacity



Instructor Clarence A. Housel

FEDERAL dry agents were on the stand in the government's prohibition school which opened its sessions yesterday in the Federal Building under the direction of Clarence A. Housel and Clyde McLemore, instructors of the division of schools.

Instructions were started for about twenty agents on enforcement or criminal work; criminal investigation and constitutional law. The results of an examination, to be given later, will be made a part of the record of each agent.

The instructors yesterday devoted much time to investigation work, describing in detail on a large blackboard various types of stills and their capacity. In one instance a drawing was made of a still, giving its dimensions, and figures to show its capacity in gallons. The school will be in session for two weeks.

AWARD WON BY CONCERN IN BAY CITY

Contract Let for Metal Lath and Frames for New County Hospital

The Western Lathing Company of San Francisco was awarded the contract for metal lathing and frames, in the construction of the General Hospital, for $406,068, late yesterday by the Board of Supervisors. The contract was the only one let at the meeting.

The award to the San Francisco concern was made on the recommendation of the group of allied architects which is assisting the board under the revised specifications drafted after the Supervisors ordered that the cost of the structure be kept within $11,800,000. Those in the architects' group are Edwin Bergstrom, Myron and Sumner Hunt, Pierpont Davis and County Architect Muck.

The low bid on lathing and frames under the old specifications was approximately $700,000.

There are five contracts yet to be awarded out of the last batch of bids opened a week ago, according to Bergstrom. He said, however, it will a week or ten days before the architects are ready to announce the awards.

Commonwealth Case Put Over

Crowded court calendars and the absence of an important prosecution witness yesterday caused the trial of W. W. Costello, J. J. Costello and Frank Creasey to be continued by Superior Judge Fricke until November 12, next.

The three defendants, former officials of the Commonwealth Securities Company, are charged with twelve counts of grand theft arising out of stock transactions.

The continuance was made upon the stipulation of Dep. Dist.-Atty. Menzies and Defense Attorney Robert O'Neill.

TOWN HOUSE ENGAGES BITTICK'S ORCHESTRA

The management of the Town House yesterday announced the engagement of Jimmy Bittick's orchestra to provide the music for dinner-dances Friday and Saturday evenings, commencing the 17th inst. The orchestra will play in the Wedgewood Room where a table d'hote dinner is to be featured in conjunction with its appearance.

"The needy and suffering are always with us, and are more numerous than usual during the present period of unemployment.

"It is to be hoped that everyone, whether solicited or not by the Community Chest workers, will consider the urgent needs of the present situation as well as his or her own resources and will not forego the pleasure and satisfaction which come from giving liberally to relieve the many who are, for various reasons, unable to help themselves."

LAST RITES OF CONDEES ANNOUNCED

Funeral Services of Two Brothers to Be Conducted Today and Tomorrow

Funeral services will be conducted today and tomorrow for Charles H. and Robert A. Condee, pioneer Southern California brothers, whose deaths, each from a heart attack, occurred within twelve hours over the week-end. Rites for the former are to be conducted at 2 p.m. today at the Paul Robinson chapel, 101 West Washington street, followed by cremation at Rosedale Cemetery. Robert A. Condee will be buried in Inglewood Park Cemetery tomorrow after services at 2 p.m. in Grace Chapel at the cemetery.

Robert A. Condee, president of the State Board of Agriculture, died Saturday in a Pomona hospital. He was 55 years of age, and a resident of Chino. He leaves his widow and two children.

Charles H. Condee, 74, succumbed unexpectedly Sunday morning shortly after receiving word of his brother's death. He was widely known as a real estate abstract and title expert and lived at 1855 West Twenty-first street. He leaves a widow, one daughter and three sons.

GOV. YOUNG PRAISES SERVICES OF CONDEE

SACRAMENTO, Oct. 6. (AP)—Gov. Young praised highly the services of Robert A. Condee of Chino, president of the State Agricultural Society, who died in Southern California yesterday, when in a statement issued today he said "no man in official life in California has ever rendered a more faithful and unselfish public service."

"It had been my intention again to reappoint him to the present vacancy for another four-year period in the hope that my successor would continue him in the post he has filled so well.

"I have never known a truer gentleman or a finer type of citizen than Robert A. Condee, and all Californians who knew him and his work will unite in mourning his loss."

The Governor said he will be represented at the funeral services in Los Angeles Wednesday.

Beery Cast in Role of Villain by Cook's Suit

Noah Beery, film "heavy," practiced his screen roles on the cook at his Paradise Trout Club, according to a suit filed yesterday in Municipal Judge Baird's court.

George Cary, the cook, asks $1950 damages for rough treatment he asserts he received from Beery, September 21, last. The actor struck him in the mouth and threw him forcibly out of the club building, compelling him to remain outside in the cold for five hours, he complains.

The exposure resulted in a severe cold, according to Cary, and when he went to Beery's office at 1509 North Vine street next day he was verbally abused and cursed by the actor, he asserts. The suit will be set for trial later.

Zunac Slasher of Zunac Must Go to Asylum

Steve Zunac slashed Steve Zunac, following which Steve Zunac was sent to General Hospital, and Steve Zunac yesterday was committed to Norwalk State Hospital. It sounds wild, and Superior Judge Gould decided that one of the Steves was not sane.

The two bearers of the same name met for the first time September 29 in a cafe on El Paseo Drive. One, a stranger, is asserted to have grown so excited about the coincidence that he announced he had been appointed by Providence to clear up the world's mess. Thereupon, according to Detective Lieutenant Vail, the visiting Steve drew a knife and slashed the local Steve Zunac, real estate dealers of Boyle Heights, and his brother, Alex Zunac.

Attorney S. S. Hahn represented the patient yesterday at the psychopathic court hearing.

Dinner Dance Marks Passing of Beach Club

A dinner-dance in the main dining-room tomorrow night will mark the formal conversion of the Breakers beach club into a hotel, it was announced yesterday by the owners, Mike and Abe Gore, C. L. Langley and Ruth Roland. The affair is to be attended by a number of prominent film folk. Guests of honor will include the Keating twins, girl swimmers, now appearing in pictures at the Fox studio.

Renovated and refurnished throughout, the hotel plans to offer guests all the privileges formerly accorded club members, including use of the plunge, lockers and private beach. C. E. Kells is managing director.

Of Interest to Women

Society

By JUANA NEAL LEVY

Culminating a wonderfully successful year's work as chairman of the exchange department of the Assistance League, Mrs. Arthur Bumiller is in charge of the two-day fashion show and sale of gifts to be held Thursday and Friday afternoons in the East Indian Room of the Ambassador.

The league, which is the outcome of the Red Cross shops of the World war, and of which Mrs. Hancock Banning is president, has its headquarters in De Longpre avenue. The gift shop is the outgrowth of an original idea, and rather than have the usual type of gift shop, with more or less saleable workmanship, the plan was evolved to set a high standard of material, designing and workmanship, and through the help of Mrs. Clara Maize, reorganizing; Mrs. Catherine Palmer, in charge of sales, and with Mrs. I. H. Thompson co-ordinating the departments, a highly developed state of efficiency has been arrived at, fulfilling the dream of Mrs. Edwards-Laughlin, who has always been interested in building up the workroom in connection with the exchange.

The excellent tea room, under the guidance of Mrs. Abraham Lehr, is an additional attraction to lure new visitors and bring back, time and again, older friends to the league. No more charming cosmopolitan spot it can hardly be duplicated than is to be found at the league, where debutante daughters, young society matrons and stars of the stage and screen volunteer their services to wait on tables in the tearoom and assist in the gift shop.

Seventy-five women, experts in handicraft and sewing, are kept employed at the league making linens, pajamas and robes, children's clothes, linens and novelties. The materials are purchased, designed and cut out to the committee's orders, thereby obtaining results that have in a comparatively short time made the league's shop a nationally known institution.

The gift sale at the Ambassador is to raise additional funds to further this project, and increase its scope. There will be an air of gaiety, with special music, luncheons and tea served on the new Spanish patio, and a fashion show of pajamas with Misses Jane Gibbs Wooldin, Mary Peace, Betty Bunch and Jane Richardson modeling at luncheon time. The children's fashion show at th. tea hours will have as models small sons and daughters of prominent families displaying the handiwork of the league. They will include Paula and Patricia Schertzinger, Gloria and Peggy Lloyd, Barbara Bushman, Barbara Ford, Patricia Beardsley, Suzanne Elsbach, Florine Harris, Loris Nibio, Leatrice Joy II, Sally Carewe, Billy Carewe and Karon Hale.

Mrs. Bumiller will be assisted by Mrs. Alphonso Bell and Mrs. Eugene Consigny, vice-chairman, and members of the exchange committee, Mmes. C. C. Tegetoff, Frank Peck, John Byers, Ingle Barr, H. T. Thompson, Ralph Meyering, George Bliss, H. T. McMillan, Charles Stark, Frank Bennett, Hallock Hoffman, Loren Babcock, Philo Lindley, Douglas Honnold, Morgan Maree, Floyd Allen, William Bacon, Gordon Murray, Joseph Zukin, Hal Kennaston, C. F. Welch, John Griffis, T. W. Braun, J. S. Mellon, Warren Pierson, R. H. Nelson, Albert Biggs, Jack Norton, Tristram Tupper, D. D. Bunch, June Braun Pike, Henri De La Chapelle, and Misses Mary Peace, Jane Richardson, Jane Woodin, Clory Kennedy, Helen Morganthaler, Louise Raughey, Isabel Arnold, Peggy Ducommun, Sally Smith, Edith Selby, Virginia Rothacker, Aliee Rule, Eleanor Donau, Eleanor Johnson, Betty Woodhead, Muriel Fowler, Midge Thatcher, Louise Gair and Carol Henderson.

Mrs. Tod Browning and Mrs. John Ford are in charge of the children's fashion show, while Miss Eleanor Johnson is in charge of the pajama display. Gene Ross, talented silhouette artiste, is donating her services for the luncheon and tea hours, adding a charming note to the already very full list of attractive features.

Honors Daughter

Mrs. A. Frank entertained with a dinner party at the Ambassador Friday evening, honoring her daughter, Mrs. D. Edgar Kalisher of New York City, who is visiting in the Southland. Those included were Dr. and Mrs. Stanley Immerman, Dr. and Mrs. Carl Immerman, Mr. and Mrs. Sam Levy, Mr. and Mrs. Harold Davis, Mr. and Mrs. Frank and the honor guest.

Marriage Solemnized

The marriage of Miss Virginia Elizabeth Inman, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Peter H. Inman of Alhambra, to Everett N. Morningster, son of Mrs. Anna Morningster of Bremerton, Wash., was solemnized Thursday evening, the ceremony taking place at the home of the bride's parents, 1712 South Second street, Alhambra, with Rev. Roy L. Luarin officiating.

The bride was graduated from University of Washington this last summer and from the Los Angeles General Hospital in 1928. Mr. Morningster attended University of Washington and is a member of Alpha Tau Omega Fraternity. After a brief wedding trip Mr. and Mrs. Morningster will make their home in Long Beach.

Lovely Affair

In honor of Mrs. R. E. Marks and Miss Evelyn Hamburger who are visiting friends and relatives here, a beautifully appointed tea was given Wednesday afternoon by Mrs. George A. Ralphs at the Wilshire Country Club. Palms and potted plants with a profusion of fall flowers and lighted candelabra, formed the attractive feature of decorations of the clubhouse. The hostess was assisted by Mrs. George Albert Ralphs, Mrs. Judson Claudius Rives, Mrs. Theodore Stassforth, Mrs. Thomas Okey and Mrs. Howard Stassforth while Jose Arias provided the musical program during the tea hours.

Your Baby and Mine

by MYRTLE MEYER ELDRED

Mrs. Eldred will be glad to answer all questions pertaining to babies and children. A stamped and self-addressed envelope forwarded to this office will bring a personal reply.

This department offers leaflets on weaning and feeding the child from 6 weeks to 6 years, prenatal care and diet for the nursing mother, constipation, eczema, outfits for the new baby, sleeping, walking, teething, thumb sucking, ammoniacal urine, bed wetting, training in climatic habits, perjods of eczema, cod liver oil, orange juice, hives, worms, vomiting, refractory children, acune juice, lime water, rupture, styes and boils and cradle cap. Before asking a personal question about one of these subjects, it is better to send a self-addressed stamped envelope for the leaflet you need. If your particular problem is not covered in the above list, Mrs. Eldred will be glad to give you a personal reply.

BOTTLE BABIES JUST HAVE VITAMIN C IN THEIR DIETS

The almost universal use of orange juice in the baby's diet very early in his life comes about because of the increased number of babies who are now bottle fed, even before the sixth month. Babies who are nursed have a live food, one containing all the nutritive elements. The moment baby is put on the bottle his food is more or less deprived of some of these live elements. This cannot always be helped, because in large cities especially the milk supply is made safer by pasteurization. Sometimes in addition to this the mother boils the milk, both of these processes robbing the milk of much of its vitamin C contents.

PREVENTS SCURVY

Citrus fruits are the richest sources of vitamin C. It is quite commonplace for a baby to be given milk in which there is lemon juice. This increases baby's ability to digest the milk because of its acidity, and in addition he gets a good supply of vitamin C.

Most babies get this element in their daily orange juice or tomato juice (likewise rich in vitamin C.) When mothers understand that orange juice isn't given because their babies are constipated, but because of the vitamin C content, which prevents scurvy, they are more conscientious about its use.

Mrs. E. D. S. says she has been advised that baby doesn't need orange juice until 6 months of age. She is not pleased with baby's diet and doesn't think it satisfying. Her baby is 5½ months of age, weighs sixteen and three-fourths pounds and gets twenty-four ounces of milk, sixteen of water, one tablespoonful of milk sugar, two of cane sugar and five teaspoonfuls of cereal food. He takes all of his bottle and cries for more, cries a lot in daytime and cries for two hours in the middle of the night, from about 4 to 6 o'clock. He can sit alone, but has no teeth.

DIET NEEDS CHANGE

You can see why the age of the baby makes no difference at all in the need for orange juice. His diet is most important and, as he is a bottle baby, he must have orange juice daily. Increase the amount of milk in the formula an ounce or two and decrease the water a corresponding amount. The cereal is more desirable when fed separately and not as part of the bottle formula. The product you are using is just a good cereal. Feed it, or any other cereal which is well cooked, before baby's 10 and 6 o'clock bottles. Increase the amount of sugar in the formula slightly. One and one-half ounces is about right for a baby this weight and you may find the baby better satisfied with his formula. All other information about feeding is included in our regular feeding leaflet, which discusses formulas and additions to the diet from six weeks to six years. You may have this by inclosing a self-addressed, stamped envelope with your request.

Everything else is all right. Don't dream of rocking baby because he won't sleep, but change his diet so that he will.

Health and Diet

ADVICE

by DR. FRANK McCOY

Author of "The Fast Way to Health"

SCHOOLS SHOULD TEACH HEALTH

Our system of education has improved to a marvelous degree in the past quarter of a century, but there are still some vital changes to be made before educators can honestly feel they have fulfilled their duty in giving a coming generation real facts about life and preserving health.

The public school system is undoubtedly improving in its effectiveness in teaching children to be more prodicient in making a living. Manual training is available in every well organized school and students are carefully trained to be more efficient in business and making a living, but I do not believe the children learn enough about how to live. This subject seems so important that I believe that at least one-third of the hours of each day should be spent in studying such subjects as physiology and the science of food, the practice of corrective physical culture, and sex instruction. In only a small percentage of schools is the study of physiology made compulsory, and the facts then given are so primary as not to be taken seriously. Many pages are given over to the evils of tobacco and alcohol, but almost no information is given on the important study of food science.

It is amazing, how much the young folks know about literature, and how little they know about the function of their own bodies. Often, they pick up the most important facts of life in a distorted way, from coarse companions.

The study of physiology is far more interesting and important than most of the stories of classical literature which are studied. I have never yet talked to parents who do not believe that what I am saying is true and still there is very little constructive effort made to improve the present system of education. The responsibility for putting such studies in the public school must be laid upon the shoulders of the parents, for they are the tax payers who employ the teachers and select the boards of education.

Your duty does not end when you send your child to the public schools, but if your health consciousness has been sufficiently aroused you will realize it is not only your duty but your God-given opportunity to see that your child is given the very best chance to learn the habits which make for healthful living.

Children's diets do not differ materially from those of adults, and you can impress your advice by the priceless example of practicing good diet habits yourself. If something is not good for your child it is not good for you. It is not good to say, "This is not good for little boys," and then eat the same indigestible food yourself.

No teaching you can give your child about the bad effects of certain foods will be worth anything if you continue to show such a bad example.

SHE ENTERTAINS FOR OPERA STARS

(Tyce studios, Ambassador)

Mrs. Albert Laurence Bagnall

One of the charmingly appointed affairs of the week will be the dinner with which Mrs. Albert Laurence Bagnall and Mme. Pietro Cimini are entertaining tomorrow at the home of the former, 951 South Western avenue, the special guests of honor being the visiting stars of the grand opera, as well as the various conductors of the association.

Assisting the hostesses will be Hope Hampton, Miss Ellen Andrews, Mrs. Alexander Buchanan Barret, Mrs. Benjamin Bledsoe, Mrs. Samuel Cary Dunlap, Mrs. Clifton Herd, Mrs. Fred C. Hartman, Mrs. George H. Kress, Mrs. R. B. Shepherd, Mrs. Rufus Bernard Von KleinSmid, Mrs. Gurdon Wallace Wattles, Mrs. Warren Lee Pierson and Mrs. Carl Breckner.

Three hundred guests have been bidden. An elaborate program of entertainment is being arranged for the amusement of the guests, including dancing, bridge, a fortune teller and palmist. The dinner hour is 8 o'clock. Mrs. Bagnall is leaving Thursday for the East to meet her mother, Mrs. Francis J. Brady, who is arriving in New York after a summer abroad.

Window Cords

Include in your housecleaning a little attention to the window cords. They should be dusted and then rubbed with a well-greased rag. This will make them pliable and less apt to break with the constant friction. It also makes for easier window raising and lowering.

WHEN THE SANDMAN COMES

by THORNTON W. BURGESS

THE HARVEST IS FORGOTTEN

Love, then jealousy and rage;
You'll find this true in every age.
—Old Mother Nature.

Impy never will forget that morning when the harvest was forgotten. It was early. Jolly, round, red Mr. Sun had only just begun his daily climb up in the blue, blue sky. Early as it was, all of the Squirrel cousins were on hand at the beech trees. Jack Frost had been very busy the night before, and the little three-cornered brown nuts came rattling down with every Merry Little Breeze that passed along. Presently, Lightfoot the Deer appeared. Impy stopped picking up nuts to sit up and stare at Lightfoot for a moment or two. Certainly, Lightfoot was worth staring at. Never had he appeared more handsome. His great antlers which some people call horns, although they are not true horns at all—had been freshly polished by rubbing on a tree. They made a wonderful crown for his handsome head. The points were sharp. Lightfoot held his head proudly, as he stood testing the winds with his wonderful nose. All the Squirrels stopped gathering nuts just to admire him.

Lightfoot appeared to be uneasy. He would put his head down to search for a few nuts, only to throw it up again suddenly to test a Merry Little Breeze that came along and to cock his big ears forward that he might better hear. Once or twice he stamped impatiently.

"Isn't he beautiful?" whispered little Mrs. Impy to Impy. "He's the handsomest person in the Green Forest. I wonder what makes him so uneasy this morning? I've never seen him act like this before. Hear him rattle those horns against that tree. What do you suppose makes him act so?"

"I don't know," replied Impy. "I guess he's just feeling good. These cold mornings make a fellow feel good. I feel good myself. Look, Frisky, look!"

Little Mrs. Impy, who used to be Miss Frisky, looked where Impy was looking and gave a little gasp of surprise. If it were not that Lightfoot the Deer was standing almost in front of her she would have said that he was over behind a fallen tree a short distance away. She could hardly believe her eyes. There stood a Deer that looked enough like Lightfoot to be his twin brother. He was just as big as Lightfoot and just as handsome. He was a little younger, perhaps, but he had the same bold appearance and he was staring straight across at Lightfoot.

"Isn't he beautiful!" whispered Mrs. Impy to Impy

Mrs. Impy looked. That hair was standing right up. She looked across at the stranger. The hair on the back of his neck, shoulders and back was doing the same thing. Something else she noticed also. She had often thought how big and soft and gentle looking were the eyes of Lightfoot the Deer. They were just as big now, but they were no longer soft or gentle looking. It seemed almost as if they flashed fire. Certainly they were filled with anger. The eyes of the strange Deer had the same appearance. Lightfoot blew a sharp challenge. The stranger replied. Lightfoot took a few steps forward. The stranger leaped over the fallen tree into the open, facing Lightfoot.

Impy looked around hastily. Chatterer the Red Squirrel was looking down from a branch almost above Lightfoot and had forgotten that there was such a thing as a harvest. Happy Jack Squirrel was sitting up in a crotch of a tree, with his eyes round with excitement. He, too, had forgotten the harvest. It was the same way with Rusty the Fox Squirrel. The very air was filled with excitement.

Chef Wyman's RECIPES

Every Friday at 2 o'clock Mrs. A. L. Wyman will conduct a free class and demonstration of good cookery in the lecture room of the Southwest Building, 130 South Broadway.

DATE PIE

Mix in a saucepan one and a half cupfuls of seeded dates, chopped; half a cupful of water, and four tablespoonfuls of sugar, add three or four drops of lemon juice, stir and cook over a slow fire until soft and creamy, add a half a cupful of chopped blanched and toasted almonds. Cook, and pour into a baked pie shell. Just before serving, cover with whipped cream, or make a meringue and brown in a slow oven.

AVOCADO FRENCH DRESSING

Rub a bowl with a small piece of garlic, and place in it half a teaspoonful of salt, a teaspoonful of paprika, and one level teaspoonful of dry mustard. Place a piece of ice in the bowl, and gradually add, beating against the side of the ice, one cupful of oil, adding it a little at a time, and one-third cupful of lemon juice. Mash the meat of one small avocado to a paste, remove the piece of ice, and mix the avocado with the dressing. Use this for a plain salad of lettuce, romaine, or entive.

SPANISH MEAT PIE

Line a deep baking dish with a rich pie crust, cut into thin flakes two cupfuls of cooked chicken, lamb or veal. Place a layer of the meat on the pastry, cover with a layer of chopped pimientos, then add a thin layer of sausage meat, and repeat this process, until the dish is filled. Season with salt and pepper, mix two tablespoonfuls of flour, with two-thirds cupful of cider, or meat stock, pour over the meat mixture, cover with pastry, pinch the edges tightly together, and bake in a moderate oven about one hour.

POCKETBOOK ROLLS

Place in the double boiler four tablespoonfuls of butter, two tablespoonfuls of sugar, and one cupful of milk, allow to heat, but do not boil. Stir until the butter and sugar are dissolved, stir in enough sifted flour to make a stiff, smooth paste. Place the paste in a bowl, and allow to cool, then add one at a time three eggs, and beat two minutes after the addition of each egg. Form into balls, the size of a small apple, place on a baking sheet three inches apart and bake in a slow oven. Turn off the heat and allow them to remain in the oven for ten minutes, split and fill with a layer of tart jelly.

Mrs. Wyman does not reply to letters, but requests for recipes are answered in the department, PRACTICAL RECIPES published every Friday.—(All rights to reproduce reserved by A. L. Wyman.)

BOUDOIR SCARVES

No more "bare tops" for bedroom furniture. Matching scarfs sets for dresser, vanity, chest and night stand are now the vogue. The style of furniture, of course, dictates the type of the cover. For refined, delicate line groups sheer French linen sets edged with Venise or Binche lace are popular. These are available in rectangular or oval mats, four in the set, or in "Duchess" sets for dresser, vanity, chest and night stand. Sheer tailored scarf sets of Italian church linen, simply hemstitched or embroidered in self color (ecru and pastel shades are popular) are appropriate for an oak bedroom for example.

Mat sets of sheer cambric, or French linen, either hemstitched or with applique borders in the manner of French hand-made handkerchiefs used in smaller sizes give a chance to show richly polished surfaces.

HOUSEHOLD SUGGESTIONS

The Worn Lining

If last winter's coat is all right for wear except that inevitable place in the lining around the cuffs, buy some ribbon either in the same color or in a contrasting shade, loosen the lining around the cuff and stitch the ribbon over the worn section. Tack back the ribbon at the edge of the cuff and the job is done at a minimum of labor and cost. Worn places under the arm may easily be mended by means of a false shield of the new material, completely covering the worn places of the old.

Home Helps

Don't forget that a perfectly ventilated sick room is a great aid to recovery.

Water from boiled rice may be used for garments that require just a little starching.

Dry woolen scarfs and shawls between towels. Never hang them or, the line or they will stretch out of shape.

Scarfs rolled on a short stick will look much nicer when put on the bureau than if they are folded several times after laundering.

Must Be Washable

Hardwood floors are very impractical in either the kitchen or bathroom and should be avoided if possible. These floors must have a covering that will withstand water and be able to endure a good scrubbing, and only a durable flooring, such as linoleum, rubber, cork or fiber can stand the gaff. No matter how pretty it looks don't be tempted to put hardwood floorings in these two rooms.

Cake Pans

Grease cake pans with lard or unsalted fat for real service. Butter scorches easily and causes the cakes to stick. The cakes will not pick up any taste from the lard. Of course, the lard should be fresh; drippings should never be used for greasing cake tins, as they have such a decided flavor.

NEW FLOORS FOR OLD

I've been receiving a great many letters recently about floors. "What about our floors?", they say. "What can I do about the worn and shabby spots at the door—near chairs and tables—on the stairs? Do you advise an ordinary floor stain or varnish or can I use a colored paint?"

There's one wonderful answer to all these questions and that is—"Quick-Step."

Quick-Step is a marvelous new fast-drying finish for floors and, in fact, for all surfaces requiring an extra durable finish. You can make your old floors new with Quick-Step. And the nice thing about it is you can do the work yourself for Quick-Step is just as easy to apply as Flex. In fact, it is made by the same people—the General Paint Corporation.

JUNIORS TO SHOW OWN LIVE STOCK

Christmas Exhibit and Rodeo to Attract Many Farm Boys and Girls

Boys and girls on farms and ranches will occupy the spotlight at the fifth annual Christmas Live-Stock Show and Rodeo at the Los Angeles Union Stock Yards on November 29 to December 6. These farm youngsters will take part in live-stock judging contests and oratorical contests and will exhibit their own live stock.

Saturday, November 29, has been especially set aside as 4-H Club day. The program is being arranged by the extension service, University of California, and is expected to bring to Los Angeles hundreds of farm boys and girls, along with county farm advisers, club leaders and their parents.

Thousands of high-school pupils will take part in an essay contest on subjects relating to live-stock production, value of meat in the diet and the place of live stock in general farm operations. The winners will meet here Friday, December 5, when their essays will be given orally.

Lions to Have Confidence in Business Week

A Business Confidence Week, to be observed throughout the United States and Canada from the 19th to the 25th inst., inclusive, is being sponsored by the Lions Club, International, it was announced yesterday.

Every associated unit has been urged to enlist the co-operation of its community in demonstrating an outward expression of confidence in business conditions by "going forward with business." Mass meetings and radio addresses by business leaders are to be part of the general programs.

Frederick William Wile, KECA, 4 to 4:15—but other duties aside for fifteen minutes.

"I think Rudy Vallee is divine—oh, can't we have more of him?" A gay young thing phoned that in today. Think I'll take up the saxophone.

Stewart Buchanan and Mary Duckett, who have been on a number of Monday Times Forum periods, will be heard over KECA at 8 tonight. Jeanne Dunn is to assist.

One Opposes Nine in Fight Over Estate

One child opposes nine brothers and sisters in the contest over the $25,000 estate of Fred Labine, rancher, which yesterday awaited assignment in Superior Judge Craig's court. Left only $200, Mrs. Evelyn Stekler, a daughter, is contesting on the grounds that her father was mentally incompetent and was unduly influenced by her brothers and sisters when he drew his will.

When Labine died March 10, last, he willed a Minnesota farm to a son, Phillip, and $200 to Mrs. Stekler. Two-ninths of the remainder was left in trust for Aurore A. Labine, a daughter. The other seven-ninths was to be distributed equally among the other seven children, Clara M. Esch, Lillian Gango, Stella J. Gillette, Lawrence O. Labine, Celia J. Labine, Emma M. Labine and Olive Rose Labine.

Inquest Set for This Morning in Ax Slaying

A Coroner's jury today is scheduled to review testimony concerning the death of J. C. Farmer, 45 years of age, oil-field worker of 2610 Leach avenue, Venice, asserted by police to have been killed with an ax in the hands of his brother-in-law, William P. Sutton, last Saturday night.

The inquiry is set for 9:30 a.m. at the undertaking parlors of Kirkelie, Bernard and Peek in Ocean Park.

CITY CONTRACTS LET

The Board of Public Works yesterday awarded the contract for a pedestrian tunnel under Broadway between Twenty-eighth and Thirtieth streets at $5037; the contract for paving Eighty-ninth street at Figueroa street, $8183.44; and the contract for paving Marlin Place between Haskell avenue and Gloria avenue, $6083.20.

Eddie Cantor Will Appear on Stage at Opening of "Whoopee" Film

Eddie Cantor arrived in Los Angeles yesterday. He came from New York to act as master of ceremonies at the premiere of his first talking feature, "Whoopee," which takes place at the United Artists Theater tomorrow evening.

In between singing songs and telling jokes, Cantor will present George Olsen and his band and Ethel Shutta. Olsen's band supplied the music for "Whoopee," while Miss Shutta is the comedienne of the picture.

"Whoopee" is the culmination of a year's effort by Samuel Goldwyn and Florenz Ziegfeld. Thornton Freeland is responsible for the direction.

The production is filmed in Technicolor and is said to introduce several new improvements in motion-picture production.

Former Officer Has Extra Role in "Half Shot"

Once a major-general—now an extra in motion pictures.

This is the story of Alexander Ikonnikoff, who is one of the more than 1000 people furnishing atmosphere in "Half Shot at Sunrise," the war-time comedy now at the Orpheum Theater.

During the World War, Ikonnikoff fought for the Czar of Russia as the colonel in command of the Finland regiment of the Imperial Guard. After the revolution he was given the rank of major-general in the White armies, which he and Gen. Kilchak led across Siberia in the now historic 4000-mile trek in the dead of winter.

The march ended tragically, with the two leaders being imprisoned with 800 other officers. These men managed their escape, and Ikonnikoff fled to Mongolia. He is now an American citizen and is well known in Hollywood as a film extra and technical adviser.

Horace Heidt and Band Will Play on Stage

The name "Californians" used by Horace Heidt and his orchestra, opening for a week's engagement Thursday on the stage at the Paramount Theater, is not merely a name, but a birthright, all of the members of this aggregation being native sons of the State.

Heidt and his orchestra, headliners of the "Golden Gate Revue," a Paramount-Publix stage show, share program honors with Clara Bow's latest film venture, "Her Wedding Night." In this farce the star portrays a foot-loose and fancy-free young modern visiting in Paris where she is married by proxy to a man whom she does not know.

Skeets Gallagher, Charles Ruggles and Ralph Forbes play supporting roles in "Her Wedding Night." Currently screening is "The Santa Fe Trail," with Richard Arlen, Rosita Moreno and Eugene Pallette.

M.-G.-M. SIGNS ESTHER RALSTON

Ricardo Cortez Gets Long Contract for R.-K.-O. Films; Universal Importing Many Noted Foreign Actors; Mrs. Charles Ray Visits Mother Here

BY GRACE KINGSLEY

When a Laurence Tibbett picture is under consideration, naturally everything possible is done to insure its success. Therefore, numerous screen- and voice tests have been made of leading actresses to play opposite the star in his next Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer starring vehicle, "The Southerner," written by Bess Meredith. Esther Ralston wins the coveted role.

ESTHER RALSTON

There will be, naturally, some musical numbers in the picture, and it is expected that, while Tibbett will do the main part of the warbling, Miss Ralston, who has lately been studying voice culture, will also contribute her musical part to the success of the story. It is quite possible, also, that she will appear in a couple of dance numbers. As is known, Miss Ralston from her childhood stage days was trained as a dancer.

The director problem was another vital consideration. We are happy to say that Harry Pollard is to act as directorial guide.

RICARDO CORTEZ SIGNS CONTRACT

After a career of ups and downs Ricardo Cortez has at last settled down in a professional home, so to speak, signing a long-term contract with R.-K.-O., according to word received yesterday.

RICARDO CORTEZ

A discovery of Jesse Lasky's, when the producer saw Cortez dancing at the Ambassador Hotel, Cortez was for some time under contract to Paramount. Later he left and has since appeared in numerous free-lance roles including leads of Fox, Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer and Tiffany productions.

Cortez recently instituted proceedings for divorce against Alma Rubens, former Fox star, to whom he was married during the past five or six years.

Players Imported

When talking pictures came in many players heaved a sigh of relief as they congratulated themselves that the foreign menace was over. However, it appears now that it had only just begun, since these foreign players not only are needed for foreign versions, but usually understand and speak English, or soon learn it.

Now Universal, whose foreign production department is under the supervision of Paul Kohner, we hear is importing a large number of noted foreign actors to appear in foreign versions of their latest pictures. Due to his long residence abroad and his knowledge of foreign languages, Kohner is peculiarly well fitted for his position.

"Boudoir Diplomat," for instance, is to be made simultaneously in Spanish, French and German, this being the first instance of three foreign versions being made at once.

To play the various leads, Universal is importing several notable players, who are to arrive simultaneously on the 26th inst. Marcel de Sano will direct the French version, Ernest Laemmle the German film, and Arthur Gregor the Spanish.

Tala Birell, said to be another Greta Garbo, is arriving from Vienna for the German version, while the other principals will be played by Olga Tschechova and Johannes Rieman, of the Berlin stage.

The French version will have Ivan Petrovich, Arlette Marchal, formerly in Hollywood under contract to Metro, and Tania Fedor of the Comedie Francaise.

Arriving from the Argentine to appear in the Spanish version are Fausto Rocha and Amelia Senisterra.

Claire Ray Here

Claire Ray, wife of Charles Ray, is in the city visiting. Mrs. Ray came west due to the illness of her mother, who lives in Beverly Hills. She expects to be here about two weeks.

She tells us that Charles Ray has written a musical comedy which is on its way to production. She herself has appeared on the stage in New York in notable stage productions.

Lou Brock's Next R.-K.-O.

"Trader Ginsburg" is the title selected for the next Broadway headliner which Lou Brock will produce for R.-K.-O. pictures. Nat Carr will be starred in it with George Macfarlane, Gladden James, Bertram Johns and Bill Bailey in support.

Production will be started with an all-night shooting schedule at Selig's Zoo next Saturday night, with Mark Sandrich directing.

Conrad Nagel Returns

Conrad Nagel has just returned from New York, where he met many old friends from the picture world, some of whom are now interested in the stage.

Conrad Nagel

"Rod La Rocque and his wife, Vilma Banky, Mr. and Mrs. Fred Niblo, Mr. and Mrs. Sidney Franklin all lived in the same hotel with us on the same floor and Charles Ray lived next door," said Nagle.

"La Rocque and his wife are rehearsing the new Anita Loos-John Emerson comedy, 'Cherries Are Ripe,' with all the theaters near by which are booking the play already sold out for the first week. Charles Ray has been doing splendidly in vaudeville, and has been developing his voice. He is also writing a play."

Loew's State Announces New List of Films

New bookings for Loew's State Theater during October and November have been announced.

Following "Three French Girls," which starts Thursday, will be the first popular run of "So This is London," starring Will Rogers. On the 23rd inst., will come "Love in the Rough," a comedy of golf and sport, adapted from the play, "Spring Fever." Featured are Robert Montgomery and Dorothy Jordan.

"Lilliom," produced at Fox studios from Franz Molnar's drama, is scheduled to start on the 30th inst., with Charles Farrell as featured player. Frank Borzage directed. Rose Hobart and Estelle Taylor have important roles.

William Haines delves into a radio mystery in his new vehicle, "Remote Control," the first November booking. Mary Doran has a part.

"MANON" EVENT OF APPLAUSE

Large Audience Sees Debut of Hope Hampton

Gigli Shines as Hero of the Musical Aspects

Sartorical Sensation Evoked by New Soprano

BY EDWIN SCHALLERT

Excited interest in the debut of a young American girl, formerly of the motion pictures, and vociferous adherence to the ideals of singing as represented by the most popular tenor of the opera turned the production of Massenet's "Manon" into a veritable celebration of competitive applause last evening at Philharmonic Auditorium. It was an enlivening event of the series of productions with Hope Hampton and Beniamino Gigli as the primary figures of the occasion—more enlivening in some ways for its atmosphere, than for its actual musical effectiveness, but still eminently colorful.

"Manon," opened the second week of the opera presentations, and the Massenet work is a favorite. It contains, after all, the lovely "La Reve," which Tito Schipa has made famous hereabouts, and it is a work of charm and offers rare opportunities for attractive costuming.

Needless to say, in respect to beauty sartorial Miss Hampton's appearance on the stage has never been rivaled. She conjured a magical impression with as glorious a sequence of bouffant gowns ranging from the most resplendent ivory to the most lavish crimson and gold that have ever been viewed here probably in any opera. To this she added attractions of presence that the prima donna might well envy.

The musical triumph of the work went necessarily to Gigli. He was more completely victorious perhaps in "La Traviata," but the rendition of "La Reve" in "Manon" and particularly "Ah fuyez douce image" in the St. Sulpice scene were splendid moments.

"La Reve" was, perhaps, slightly less enthralling than Schipa has caused it to be on certain occasions, but the mezzo voce quality that Gigli brought to the air was a revelation for him.

It was evident time and again in the applause that the public responded to his singing fully and completely, and Miss Hampton showed rare courtesy in urging him to take curtain calls alone—a privilege which he has not enjoyed at other times during the engagement.

It might unquestionably be charged against Gigli that at times he seemed to hold back in his singing. This was true especially of the first two acts. But beginning with the seminary episode he appeared to give the desired full-voiced rendition of the role.

Estimates of Miss Hampton's work on the stage might vary considerably in accordance with the standpoint that might be adopted regarding it. Undoubtedly many people were favorably inclined toward her enterprise in the operatic field, revealing the first steps toward a high goal of ambition. Too, the test that she brought to the portrayal of Manon, and the comprehensiveness of her schooling in the routine of the role could not fail to draw commendation.

Vocally she left much to be desired at times in the performance, and one might surmise from the fact that her intonation was faulty that she was extremely nervous. However, this fault was not overcome as the work progressed except in the exceedingly interesting culmination of "Ce Lruit de l'or" in the gambling scene, which was rewarded by the warmest applause. Miss Hampton still has a considerable distance to go to achieve the necessary authority of interpretation and singing, but her debut here was none the less promising in certain well-defined aspects.

Millo Picco appeared as the cousin of Manon, and gave an antic note to this portrayal. Some bits of singing were well done, and the chorus merited approval for their work in the fourth act. Pietro Cimini, as conductor, shared in the ovations.

Educational Groups to See 'Silent Enemy'

Several educational groups have indicated that they will attend the opening of "The Silent Enemy," scheduled for Thursday at the Million Dollar.

This epic of Indian life in the wilds of Northern Canada required over two years to produce, it is said, and all scenes of animal life are authentic, according to William D. Burden, leader of the expedition.

Last-minute touches are being given to the Jack Laughlin stage creation which will also start Thursday.

'Rain or Shine' Opens Thursday

"Rain or Shine," a screen version of the successful stage play of the same name, with Joe Cook in the starring role, comes to Pantages Hollywood Thursday.

Joe Cook's film debut is made in this picture which uses an entire circus, from sideshow to big top. Frank Capra directed. The supporting cast includes Joan Peers, Louise Fazenda, William Collier, Jr., Tom Howard and Dave Chasen.

Larry Ceballos staged the Fanchon and Marco presentation to be presented. It is called "Fountain of Youth."

NEW BILL AT FOLLIES

Melody and comedy are the predominating features of the current bill at the Follies Theater where a company of eighty persons is presenting merry entertainment. Performing under the title of "High Hat Revue," the production is filled with amusement. The show serves as a vehicle for comedians Pagan and Clark and soubrettes Vilma Josay, Dorothy Akern and Bee Cunningham, all of whom add to present laurels. Adel Stepp, Robert Stanley and Bob Jones are also prominent in the cast.

Actress Shares Death's Holiday

Betty Ross Clarke

Popular player enacts one of the central characters in the fantastic drama, "Death Takes a Holiday," which is now playing at the Filtmore Theater.

NEW PRODUCTION BOOKED

"Sweet Kitty Bellaires," David Belasco's stage play of a coquette, will be brought to the screen Friday at Warner Brothers' Hollywood Theater.

This production, with a cast headed by Claudia Dell, Walter Pidgeon, Ernest Torrence, Perry Askam and June Collyer, has been photographed entirely in color and is said to be handled on a pretentious scale.

"Sweet Kitty Bellaires" was presented at the Belasco Theater in New York City and was called one of the finest plays of its type. The action is laid in the Eighteenth Century in England.

Alfred F. Green, who directed George Arliss in "Disraeli" and "Old English," also filmed. "Sweet Kitty Bellaires." The play while dealing with spectacle, is essentially romance and comedy. Claudia Dell plays the leading role.

DOWNTOWN ANNOUNCES NEW FILM

"Road to Paradise" Will Begin Run Friday; Loretta Young Featured

Appearing for the first time in her career in a dual role, Loretta Young has the feature part in "Road to Paradise," a First National production, starting at Warner Brothers' Downtown Theater Friday.

The screen play by F. Hugh Herbert deals with twin sisters who are separated in infancy and reared in different environments, one being brought up in the underworld, and the other raised in the lap of luxury.

Jack Mulhall appears as the leading man, and others in the cast are Raymond Hatton, Purnell Pratt, Fred Kelsey, Kathlyn Williams and others.

Light Display Promised for Film Opening

A dazzling display of lights is promised by the Carthay Circle Theater for the premiere of "Just Imagine" Friday night.

Seventy-two men will be required to manipulate the electrical apparatus. McCarthay Vista and other streets leading to the entrance will be a solid mass of colored lights, furnished by sun arcs and Kleig lights. A unique effect will be created by the placement of a special lawn sprinkler system leading from Wilshire Boulevard to the theater doors. A myriad of colored lights will play upon the stream, designed to give it a rainbow effect.

The cast of "Just Imagine," as well as other Fox notables, will be present on the opening night. The cast includes El Brendel, Maureen O'Sullivan, Frank Albertson, Marjorie White, John Garrick, Hobart Bosworth and Ivan Linow. David Butler directed.

Tiny Soubrette Now Playing at Mayan Theater

The Mayan Theater boasts the tiniest soubrette on the stage, it is said, in the person of Mona Ray, one of the principals in "The Temptations of 1930."

Standing only four feet eleven inches, and weighing only eighty pounds, Miss Ray is literally overshadowed by the smallest members of the ensemble.

"Sometimes I wish I was larger and was not babied so much, but then along comes a part like the lead in Pathe's 'Half-Pint Polly,' where diminutive size eliminates competition, and then I feel I am lucky," says Miss Ray.

Bill Sharples Booked on New Variety Bill

Prompted by the success of Hugh Barrett Dobbs in his recent engagement, the R.-K.-O. Theater has completed arrangements to present Bill Sharples and company, another radio attraction, on the program opening Thursday.

An "Old Western" sketch has been devised by Sharples for his appearance at the R.-K.-O., where he will supplement the regular stage and screen program.

Boulevard Lists 'Last of Duanes'

The adventure and romance of the early southwest will be revived when the film version of Zane Grey's novel, "Last of the Duanes," opens Thursday at the Boulevard Theater.

The story concerns the adventures of a young rancher who does away with his father's assassin and then turns outlaw. His wanderings embody a romance with a beautiful girl whom he rescues from a band of ruthless cattle thieves. George O'Brien plays the leading role as Buck Duane, and Lucille Brown makes her debut on the audible screen as the heroine.

Novel Theater Built for Film

Built of scrap material on the battlefield just behind the lines for entertainment of soldiers during the war, a strange replica of a theater was used during the filming of Buster Keaton's "Dough Boys," which comes to the screen of the Fox Wilshire Theater Thursday.

Sally Eilers plays the feminine lead in the picture and the cast includes Cliff Edwards, Victor Potel, Arnold Korff, Frank Mayo, Pitzy Katz and William Steele. Norma Shearer in "Let Us Be Gay" is the current attraction.

Whispers in the Wings

BY MURIEL BABCOCK

BRAMWELL FLETCHER, young Englishman who is under contract to Samuel Goldwyn, has been receiving a lot of telegrams lately.

First came a flood of messages congratulating him on being named leading man to Dorothy Burgess in the forthcoming Belasco production, "Bird of Flame."

Friday, driving home from the theater after afternoon rehearsal, the young actor was tossed headlong from his car in a collision with a car driven by a woman. He was badly bruised and suffered a spine injury. The news traveled fast and friends hurried to send him sympathy.

BRAMWELL FLETCHER

Yesterday came word that his injuries were not so serious but that he might continue in the role. It will mark his first appearance on the stage in Los Angeles. He was seen in New York a year ago August in the Al Woods production of "Scotland Yard." It was because of his work in this that he gained his Hollywood contract, appearing first in "Raffles," and later in "The Man in the Air," yet to be released by Warners.

He had considerable stage experience in England, playing in "Thunder on the Left," "The Chinese Bungalow" and "Devil in the Cheese." He also found time for some English pictures.

Duffy May Take Playhouse

Although the local Henry Duffy offices insist that no deal has been closed, there is a strong rumor current that the Pacific Coast showman will take over the Hollywood Playhouse, following the run of "Little Orchid Annie."

HENRY DUFFY

Credence is given to the report by Duffy's activity in the north. He is again running two theaters in San Francisco and one in Oakland. With Dale Winter, his wife, he is appearing in "Michael and Mary" at the Alcazar and is currently showing Bert Lytell in "Brothers" at the President.

A pretty good guesser along theatrical row yesterday vouchsafed the opinion that if Duffy does take the Playhouse he will start out with "Michael and Mary." "Ada Beats the Drum," a John Golden comedy to which he possesses Coast rights, is another possibility.

"My Girl Friday" Coming

And that audacious comedy which Will A. Grew wrote and in which he appeared in New York, "My Girl Friday," is scheduled to be next at the Vine-street under the stock production policy current.

"My Girl Friday" will probably come into the Hollywood theater in two weeks. It follows "Kongo," ultra-torrid drama of the Congo which, with Charles B. Middleton, is now on view.

ACTRESS IN PLAY

Doris Lloyd, well-known actress, has been secured by the Civic Repertory Theater for the principal feminine part in Shaw's "The Apple Cart," which comes to the Hollywood Music Box Theater November 3.

MYSTERY DEATH QUIZ CONTINUES

Jury at Inquest Remains in Dark on Causes

Glendale Garage Man Says Gerards Bumped Head

Surgeon Declares Fall Did Not Result Fatally

Further investigation into circumstances surrounding the fatal injury of Paul J. Gerards, 37 years of age, who died of a fractured skull at the General Hospital last Friday morning, was recommended yesterday by a Coroner's jury.

The jury returned a verdict to the effect that in its belief Gerards received the injuries causing his death in a manner not disclosed by testimony at the inquest.

Immediately following the inquest, conducted by Deputy Coroner Monbert at the Coroner's office, Chief of Police Frazier of Glendale stated that he is dissatisfied with the progress of the investigation into the death of Gerards and intends to continue the inquiry until all details were cleared up.

FALL DESCRIBED

Gerards, according to testimony of his father-in-law, James F. Olmsted, 1415 North New Hampshire avenue, last Wednesday morning left the Olmsted home, where he had been living with his wife for the preceding few days, to go to Glendale to collect some money on some notes. Olmsted testified that he next saw his son-in-law in the hospital Thursday night.

William J. Leach, garage proprietor of 537 North Brand Boulevard, Glendale, and an acquaintance of Gerards, told of seeing him for a short while Wednesday morning and that late in the day the man reappeared at the garage in an apparently intoxicated condition. Leach testified further that on entering the garage Gerards stumbled and fell over an obstacle and struck his head on the cement floor.

DIED IN HOSPITAL

Both Leach and Philip J. Rickenberg, mechanic, testified that Gerards's clothes were soiled and that one of his eyes was black when he appeared at the garage the second time.

The injured man, according to the testimony, was removed to the home of Leach at 323 Glen Oaks street where a physician was summoned and Gerards remained there all night when it could not be learned where he lived. Gerards having moved from an address known to Leach Thursday morning he was ordered taken to the General Hospital and after an operation died the next morning.

Assistant Autopsy Surgeon Schaefer testified that, in his opinion, Gerards could not have sustained the severe head injuries from which he died, in the fall to the cement floor described by witnesses.

VISITOR SEES BETTER TRADE

Seasonable increases in general business conditions are in evidence at the present time and the first of the year should be the starting time for a good business year in 1931, Frederick H. Stevens, vice-president of the American Locomotive Works, said yesterday on arrival via the Union Pacific.

"The turn of the year will see a definite business betterment," Mr. Stevens said. "At present, there are general seasonable increases but the real upward trend will come after the first of the year and should continue generally throughout 1931."

Mr. Stevens will spend some time at his winter home in Pasadena.

Arguments in Victory Park Fight Heard

United States District Judge James yesterday heard arguments on an order to show cause why a temporary injunction against the city of Los Angeles, the City Council, the City Treasurer and other city officials, restraining them from passing upon or approving an assessment in a zone in Victory Park, No. 2, should not be made permanent. The case was taken under advisement, the attorneys on each side to submit briefs.

It is asserted by the petitioner, Helen O. McNamara, that the city ordinance is unconstitutional in that it violates the provisions of the Fourteenth Amendment in that it takes property "without due process of law."

'SOCKS' FEATURE LUBITSCH SCRAP

refused my invitation, so I went back to my table."

TROUBLE IN AIR

Witnesses declared yesterday there was no doubt of trouble the minute Mrs. Lubitsch and Kraly walked in and were seated. Lubitsch was already there. It was in the air.

Even after the encounter between the two men, which occurred about 11 p.m., the guests sensed more trouble. When Lubitsch danced later on in the evening and Kraly danced with Mrs. Lubitsch the feeling was noticeable between the two men and their friends continually watched them to prevent another outbreak. Finally at 2 a.m. Mrs. Lubitsch, Kraly and their party left the club.

On two other occasions, once at Malibu Beach and the other at the Blossom Room of the Roosevelt at the Maurice Chevalier farewell party, Lubitsch avers, Kraly and Mrs. Lubitsch taunted him in a similar manner and made fun of him in the presence of his friends."

"JUST JEALOUS"

"It's a complex of the 'great Lubitsch,'" Mrs. Lubitsch asserted. "He always accused me of making fun of him and talking about him when we were married. It's always the 'great Lubitsch' with him. He wants everybody to do as he bids.

"No man or woman had anything to do with our divorce. If there had been a man he had plenty of opportunity to so charge when the divorce was filed. He is just jealous. Even though we are divorced, he doesn't want to see me out with another man. I guess he wants me to go to a convent or something.

"Lubitsch and Kraly were the best of friends up until the divorce. Now he doesn't want any of our friends to be my friends since we have parted. They can be his friends, but not mine.

"I am sorry this had to happen. I didn't want any scandal. I am trying to become an American citizen. I want to live here always. I want his respect, too. I admire him as a great artist, which he is. But he should never be married. If he had been living in Germany I would have divorced him long ago.

"After the divorce Lubitsch refused to speak to Kraly. It's because Kraly wants to be my friend as well as Lubitsch's that makes him mad. It's the same with all our other friends. If they want my friendship, too, Lubitsch won't speak to them."

Kraly said the reason he did not fight back is because it was in a public place and because of Mrs. Lubitsch's presence.

"Sometime, perhaps, I will find out what annoys Lubitsch. Outside of that I still don't know what it is all about."

OLD FRIENDSHIP

The friendship of the two men, now on the rocks, began years ago in Germany when Kraly was Lubitsch's assistant director. Lubitsch brought him to this country and started him here as a writer. Kraly lived at the Lubitsch home many months.

Mrs. Lubitsch filed her divorce in June on the ground of cruelty. Judge Hahn granted her a decree when she testified Lubitsch was more in love with his work than with his home. It was learned yesterday he gave her a property settlement of $150,000 cash, their Beverly Hills home and some automobiles.

Two other prominents also came close to fisticuffs at the same party Saturday. B. P. Fineman, executive, and John V. A. Weaver, playwright, had words, Weaver admitted. Weaver asserted when he invited Fineman to go outside to settle their difficulties the trouble ended. They have not been on good terms, Weaver asserted. Fineman was not reached for his version of the affair.

October Heat Relief on Way, Forecast Says

Cooler weather tomorrow is the official forecast, but today will continue warm with low humidity and high fire hazard. The temperature yesterday fell 1 deg. short of reaching Sunday's maximum.

It was 93 deg. yesterday between 11:30 a.m. and 12 m. On the day before it was 94. The average of October high temperatures is but 76. However, spurts of ambition on the part of the mercury are not unknown in the month. Last year it showed a peak of 100, which was but 2 deg. below the peak of October highs, made in 1885.

Wife Gets Divorce as Tank Goes Dry

Mauma All Gone
Maude Garfield, with empty purse, and her sister Peggy Peeler.

When a husband is using the family airplane, a wife should at least be entitled to drive the family auto, Superior Judge Hanby decided yesterday in granting a divorce to Mrs. Maude Peeler Garfield from Chase Garfield, Jr.

Evidence adduced by Attorney Bingham Gray indicated that Garfield, frequently made trips in a plane, spending money freely upon himself, while his wife's automobile stood in its garage because she couldn't buy gasoline. So the court granted the decree on ground of nonsupport.

Miss Peggy Peeler, the plaintiff's sister, corroborated her statements. The couple were married in 1925 and separated in January of this year.

TIME-FLIGHT TRIAL MAY BE CALLED OFF

Pride of Hollywood Down With Broken Piston on Fourth Attempt at Mark

Down again yesterday after twenty hours and fifty-three minutes in the air on their fourth attempt to set a new endurance record, Loren Mendell and his crew of two men were undecided last night whether a new start will be attempted.

It was stated at Grand Central Air Terminal, where Mendell made a forced landing after the endurance monoplane's engine went dead over Burbank, that the engine cannot be reconditioned for at least a week and that it is improbable the Pride of Hollywood will be used on another flight.

Mendell last night was attempting to negotiate for another ship, and declared that he has not given up hopes of establishing a 1000-hour record. His co-pilot, Verne Ewan, and radio operator, Al Dahlstrum, said they would go again while Bud Hussey, Al de Rose and C. H. Holdson, refueling and ground crew, were willing to carry on.

Hard luck has followed the Pride of Hollywood since it made its first take-off more than two weeks ago. The first flight lasted nine hours; the second, twenty-seven hours and the third sixty-six hours. Pete Reinhart, former holder of the world's endurance record with Mendell, quit the flight after the third failure and Ewan took his place.

The Pride of Hollywood landed yesterday at 1:27 p.m. Mechanics said a piston had broken in the motor.

Representatives will be present from the University of California at Los Angeles, University of Southern California, Pomona College and Occidental College.

Fewkes Denies Guilt at Trial on Grand Theft

J. B. Fewkes, promoter, on the witness stand in Superior Judge Fricke's court yesterday, denied the charges of eight counts of grand theft of money from Mrs. Thomas E. Merrill, wealthy Beverly Hills matron.

Mrs. Merrill accuses Fewkes of accepting $6300 from her to invest in stock, asserting that she never received the stock or a refund of her money. Fewkes asserts that he did not sell Mrs. Merrill stock, but a partnership in the Accounting Service Company, which he was organizing at that time.

The case is being prosecuted by Eugene U. Blalock, Deputy District Attorney.

Poor-Box Thief Gets Thirty Days

Found guilty of stealing $3.67 from the poor box of the Holy Spirit Church, Pico Boulevard and Dunsmuir avenue, Andrew J. Fatjor, Jr., was sentenced to serve thirty days in jail by Municipal Judge Northrup yesterday.

Testimony at Fatjor's trial last week was to the effect that he was captured by parishioners who saw him take the money from the poor box.

The Pennsylvania Society will hold its monthly meeting at Moose Hall, 1024 South Grand avenue, tonight. A program of vaudeville has been arranged, after which will be dancing.

Neon Lighting System Patent Held Violated

Suit was filed yesterday in the United States District Court by Claude Neon Electrical Products, Inc., and the Electrical Products Corporation against Metlox Corporation, Ltd., and Pantages Hollywood Theater Company, Ltd., asserting that the defendants infringed on a patent of the plaintiff. An injunction and an accounting are sought in the action.

The plaintiffs assert that Claude Neon Electrical Products, Inc., a Phoenix (Ariz.) company, was formerly the Electrical Products Corporation, and that the plaintiffs hold a patent on what is known as a system of illuminating by luminescent tubes, as invented by Georges Claude of France.

REVENUE OFFICIAL HERE

H. F. Miers, assistant Commissioner of Internal Revenue, of Washington, arrived in Los Angeles yesterday on official business. He conferred with Collector of Internal Revenue Welch.

Large Storage Companies Join Organizations

Announcement of the consolidation of the California Fireproof Storage Company with the Lyon Van and Storage Company was made yesterday by Judson M. Davis, chairman of the board of directors of the Lyon organization. This acquisition will provide an additional plant in Los Angeles for the Lyon Van and Storage Company in the West Pico district.

Organized two years ago as a California corporation, the Lyon Van and Storage Company now has fourteen warehouses throughout the principal cities of the State, four being in Los Angeles. The company as a franchised carrier maintains regular operation from San Francisco to the southern boundary.

J. W. Cameron and William Burns, who have been operating the California Fireproof Storage Company at 2800 West Pico street, will continue in the same capacities with the Lyon Van and Storage Company.

ERIC PEDLEY TO BE FETED TODAY

White Knight of Polo Due Here This Morning

Gala Welcome Planned for Famous Mallet Star

Junior Chamber to Tender Luncheon Reception

BY FRANK ROCHE

The White Knight of polo returns home today. Eric Pedley, California's greatest mallet star and the only boy born west of the Rockies to make an American Big Four, arrives this morning over the Southern Pacific. Pedley will be met at the station by a delegation of sportsmen headed by the Junior Chamber of Commerce of Los Angeles and will be the center of a reception such as has never been extended before to an athlete in this city.

Pedley, in the opinion of all the polo experts that witnessed the recent international polo series between the United States and Great Britain, is the greatest No. 1 that the game has ever seen. And the irony of the thing is that all of the leading polo experts and critics, including Louis Stoddard, chairman of the United States Polo Association, were certain before the trials that Eric was not a No. 1. But Pedley knew different and he proved it to them

There are two minor divisions, composed of three leagues in the southern part of the State,

YALE TACKLES GEORGIA

Game at New Haven Holds Interest Among Eastern Fans Next Saturday; Favorites Run True to Form

BY EDWIN B. DOOLEY

Former All-American Quarterback at Dartmouth

NEW YORK, Oct. 6. (Exclusive)—Last Saturday's games in the East caused no exciting aftermath. All the favorites ran true to form and won quite easily from their weaker opponents. Not until next Saturday will most of the football contests in these parts take on the aspect of equality between the participants, or be of any significance to football fans.

Two games in particular are being widely discussed at present and there is a good data of speculation as to their respective results: The Yale-Georgia fracas at New Haven next Saturday and the New York University - Villanova battle at the Yankee Stadium hold the spotlight. Yale by virtue of its victory over Maryland's rugged eleven last Saturday not only retaliated for the annoying deadlock which the Old-Liners slapped on the Blue score card a year ago, but gave itself neat confidence for the coming tilt with the southerners.

The sons of Eli feel that they can take Georgia over the hurdles this season, despite the fact that the Athens unit still has "Catfish" Smith, Yale's jinx, in the line-up. Smith, you recall, is the youngster who doesn't give a hoot for anyone, including Albie Booth, and who would just as soon snap a man behind the line of scrimmage as anywhere else when he can.

Yale is basing its hope of beating Georgia on several tangible reasons. In the first place the Eli team is better equipped with crack ball carriers than it was last year. Besides Booth, it has McClenman, about as

SAGEHENS PREPARE FOR BATTLE WITH BRUINS

CLAREMONT, Oct. 6.—Disappointed—but not disheartened—by the poor showing of his Pomona College football team against San Diego here Friday night, Coach Eugene Nixon today set about the difficult task of preparing the Sagehens for the remainder of the tough schedule ahead of them. It means plenty of work for the Hens when Nixon plans improving his eleven.

San Diego's strong 1930 aggregation made the first big splash in Southern Conference circles by upsetting the Hens, 6 to 0, in the opening struggle Friday night. In doing so the Aztecs showed their most powerful squad in recent years, and the Sagehens their weakest.

The Hens showed principally lack of preparation for the encounter, which is not surprising considering the slowness with which Blue machines always develop. Nixon is expected to concentrate on tackling and blocking this next week.

Lack of experience was strongly shown by the reserves, who found themselves badly mixed by the tricky reverses sprung by Coach Walter Hereid's outfit. The visitors wore white on their jerseys, against which a white ball was hard to

CUBS WIN CHICAGO TITLE

Bristling Rally in Ninth Inning Gives Bruins, 6-4 Victory and Series Over White Sox

CHICAGO, Oct. 6. (AP)—A bristling ninth-inning finish that capped a wild afternoon of baseball today gave the Cubs a 6-to-4 victory over the White Sox and left the Chicago city championship in possession of the National League.

What started out to be a pitching battle between Sheriff Fred Blake of the Cubs and young Pat Caraway of the Sox became a cat and dog fight in the last six innings. The Cubs had a two-run lead in the fifth, only to have the Sox tie it up in their half of the same inning. The Sox went in front in the sixth, but the Cubs jammed over a run in the eighth to knot it again. Donie Bush's men came right back for another in their half of the eighth and the American League again was in front. In the ninth, however, the Cubs cut loose with a drive that could not be denied, scoring three.

Blake sailed along in great shape until the eighth when three singles and English's second error let in a run. Petty went in and stopped the drive, and managed to stave off another Sox bid in the ninth which started when Lester Bell threw the ball over Grimm's head on Cissell's hit to third.

Caraway was wobbly at the start, but managed to keep out of serious trouble until the fourth, when two walks and two singles produced a Cub run. Wilson's home run smash in the fifth started him on his way and a base on balls to Stephenson finished him. Braxton replaced Caraway and was the victim of the rest of the Cub assault. Tommy Thomas finally had to go out in the ninth and finish the job, but was too late to do anything about the three Cub runs.

The triumph gave the Cubs four victories in six games and gave

STRATEGY WINS FOR ATHLETICS

Connie Mack Shoots for Moon and Gets It

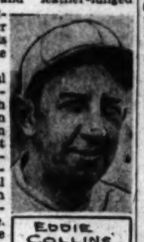
BY EDDIE COLLINS

Captain of the Athletics

(Copyright, 1930, by North American Newspaper Alliance)

EN ROUTE TO PHILADELPHIA, Oct. 6.—For intense excitement, nerve strain and leather-lunged cheering, our 2-to-0 victory over the Cardinals today takes the cake.

A masterful pitching exhibition on both sides ended in the ninth when our young first baseman, Jimmy Foxx, delivered a real home run with Mickey Cochrane on base. That and the pitching were the features.



What a ball game! Five hits for the Athletics and only three for the Cards. Only three men reached second base for St. Louis. That's how dangerous their big guns were with George Earnshaw blasting the ball over the plate for seven innings until it looked like a pea and Grove throwing his lightning bolts the last two.

We threatened in the eighth and it was then that Grimes began to

DICK GLOVER MAY NOT PLAY AGAINST WHITTIER

When Coach Eddie Kienholz counted noses yesterday afternoon on Patterson Field, quite a number of Oxy football stars were found to be on the missing list.

Last week practically every one on the squad had the influenza and the latest addition to the sick list is Dick Glover, who was expected to go great guns against the Whittier Poets in the Rose Bowl Friday night in the opening Southern California Conference game for both elevens.

Other Tigers who are more or less out of the running are Art Elliott, flashy halfback; Jack Schureh, star guard, and Capt. Jerry Chappell, center. Elliott still has the flu and is reported recovering slowly, while Schureh suffered a broken nose last week in scrimmage. He will start against the Poets however. Capt. Chappell received a bad injury last week, his right ear almost being torn off. The Tiger leader was in suit yesterday with his head swathed in bandages.

Tuffy Reed, another flu victim, reported for the first time in a week last night and has a good chance to open against Chief Newman's gang.

A little joy was mixed into the gloom clouds surrounding the Tiger institution, when it was noticed that Martin Hansen, a transfer from Pasadena Jaysee last year, was going well against the varsity line. Martin plays tackle and may be just what the doctor ordered for the Oxy outfit. He is a hefty chap weighing close to 200, but some idea of his speed can be gained from the fact that he played on the varsity tennis team last spring.

It is a known fact that Newman is gunning for the title this year and a victory over the Bengals would be no surprise to conference followers.

Oxy admittedly has a weaker eleven than last year and now with the big noise of the offense, Dick Glover, out of the way, Newman's task of knotting the Tiger's tail should be much easier.

hundred short of yesterday's record outpouring. The reaction as though a sudden pall of gloom had drifted down from the leaden and slightly leaking skies, could be felt by everyone as Cochrane and Foxx trotted around the bases after the stroke that administered the "kiss of death" to Grimes and dealt a smashing blow to the Cardinal hopes of triumph.

Having watched their favorites romp through two straight to square the series count after they had lost the first two games in Philadelphia, Cardinal rooters were wildly confident of a continued rush toward the world's championship.

The warring forces left tonight for Philadelphia with the Athletics holding a lead of three games to two and needing just one more victory to clinch their second successive world's championship. They have two chances now to do it, either in the sixth game scheduled Wednesday at Shibe Park, or in a seventh, if necessary, on Thursday in the same place.

Up until the ninth today's battle was easily the closest, hardest-fought and most exciting of the series as the two well-matched teams fought desperately for any and every advantage, fully realizing the winner figured to become the ultimate world's champions.

For seven innings there was very little to choose between Earnshaw and Grimes. Each had great control, each bore down with all the speed and craft they could muster. The big star of the A's making his second start was even better than before.

Through three first seven frames each allowed only two safe hits, Cochrane singling off Grimes in the first and Foxx in the fifth, while Frisch touched Earnshaw for a single in the first and Wilson for a double in the seventh.

NEW YORK, Oct. 6. (AP)—The retirement of Gallant Fox, champion three-year-old and probably the greatest thoroughbred to step a hoof on American turf since the days of Man o' War, was announced today by his owner, William Woodward.

The Fox, which rose from the ranks of a mediocre two-year-old to the all-time money winning champion with earnings in excess of $327,000, was to have fulfilled several fall engagements, including the rich fine a back as you will find anywhere, Beane, who is better than average, Snead, Taylor, Parker and a host of others—all of whom are mighty good. The forward wall, while inexperienced here and there, is powerful enough to do a good job in any game. And most important of all Yale is two weeks ahead of itself in comparison to the team that met Georgia at Athens last season. Added to these assets is Mal Stevens's new and more versatile running and passing attack, which is certain to give the Athens outfit a bit of trouble when the whistle blows for action the 11th inst.

Yale Hopes for Victory Over Georgia Saturday in Outstanding Eastern Grid B

All the confidence is not Yale's side of the fence. Georgia is anxious to cling to the banner it won from Yale a year ago, and will not relinquish it without a terrific fight. Against Mercer, Georgia gave the impression of being well rounded and extremely powerful, but the weakness of the opposition may have misled our correspondent in his judgment. Bernie Bierman, capable coach of Tulane, tells us "not to mind what we see and hear of Yale, but just watch Georgia go at New Haven."

In the metropolis the N.Y.U. game for Saturday leads the parade, Villanova, under the tutelage of Harry Stuhldreher, former Notre Dame quarterback and a member of the so-called "four horsemen," the little Pennsylvania institution has been bowling over powerful teams with astonishing gusto, and building up a reputation that makes it a big drawing card wherever it plays.

To date N.Y.U. hasn't met real opposition, but when it kicks off to Villanova Saturday it will know that it has met a football team. Chick Meehan, coach of the New York eleven, has been driving his team hard for five weeks and he himself feels that if his man aren't ready by now they never will be.

PENN STRONG

Pennsylvania in stamping Swarthmore last Saturday, 63 to 0, demonstrated that it has in Masters and Capt. Gentile, two of the greatest broken-field runners in the country, and in its attack one of the most unusual forms of offense ever seen on a football field. Coach Ludlow Wray, who succeeded Louis Young in the capacity of head mentor, has synchronized perfectly the outstanding feature of the hidden-ball plays, end sweeps and lateral passes.

Time and again a play would start off like a delayed line buck, develop into a hidden-ball play, take on the appearance of an end run, and finally transfer itself into a lateral pass. Swarthmore stood by completely befuddled. Perhaps another team with a more aggressive line that charges through and masses things up in the backfield, may ruin the Quaker attack, but then again, the speed and finesse that are characteristic of Wray's offense may baffle even smarter teams, like Notre Dame, Cornell, Navy and Kansas.

Penn has a backfield that averages 190 pounds and can run like the wind. Gentle is most elusive in the open field and so is Masters, while Perina is a powerful plunging back with a high knee action that tears a man's arms apart. The line is a trifle heavier than the backfield and also possesses speed as evidenced by the manner in which forwards came out to lead the interference.

Cornell rolled up 61 points against Niagara, the strongest small college team in the eastern sector, which demonstrates that Gil Dobie is in the battle again. It has taken him five years, due to inadequate material but he now has a team in the hills of Ithaca that will do a lot of damage this fall.

Firemen Hear Cheering News

The victory of North Dakota University last Saturday over Davis Elkins, one of the strongest teams in the East and South, sends the stock of the Fire Department game here against North Dakota up another notch, E. O. Barnett, athletic director for the Smoke-eaters, announced yesterday. "We play North Dakota on Christmas Day at the Coliseum and it is bound to be one of the finest contests of the season," Barnett said. The North Dakota team plays the Army team from West Point and then comes here for the Firemen game, he stated.

The Firemen will leave Thursday for the north, where they tangle with the West Coast Army eleven at Kezar Stadium, San Francisco. Coach Bill Blewett will take thirty-five men north for the game. They expect a good tough struggle but Blewett is confident they will beat the service football squad.

Blewett believes if the Firemen had gotten any kind of breaks they would have beaten the Olympic Club last Friday at the Coliseum. "We are as good a ball team as they are," is the way Blewett puts it.

LONDOS BEATS DAVISCOURT

PHOENIX (Ariz.) Oct. 6. (AP)—Jimmy Londos, recognized by the National Boxing Association as the world's champion heavyweight wrestler, successfully defended his title here tonight when he defeated Dick Daviscourt in straight falls. The first came in forty-eight minutes with a step-over toe hold, the second, followed in twelve minutes with the same tactics.

BENNY BASS SHADED

DAVENPORT (Iowa) Oct. 6. (AP)—Mike Dundee, Rock Island junior lightweight, was given a shade over Benny Bass of Philadelphia, champion junior lightweight of the world, by newspaper men tonight in the feature ten-round bout.

BARGAIN WEEK FOR FANS

Double-header Today Between Indians and Angels Opens Eleven-Game Series at Wrigley Field

BY BOB RAY

It'll be bargain week out at Wrigley Field during the next six days with Jack Lelivelt's Angels and the Seattle Indians scheduled for an eleven-game series that will necessitate five double-headers.

Of course there are probably a few sarcastic individuals who'll probably claim that the Seattle Indians are no bargains, but then that's something else again.

Of even greater import, especially to all those old-fashioned fans who never did like night baseball, all of this week's games will be played in the afternoon. It's our opinion that the day games won't draw any more than the night ones now that the interest has been sapped from the race, but the magnates want to see for themselves.

The Indians have won their last three series and are now perched at the dizzy height, for them, of fifth place in the standings. The Tribe has been getting good pitching of late, though, and had a good home stand even if the good Seattle folks didn't come out to see them.

The Angels are eight-and-a-half games behind the league-leading Stars and it would take a miracle for them to beat the Skeeps out this half. However, should the Seraphs do such a thing as win about eleven straight from the Indians they'd probably find themselves within shooting distance when they opened the final second-half series with the Stars.

The Seraphs and Indians are billed for a double header this afternoon, starting at 1:30 o'clock. Twin bills are also scheduled for tomorrow, Thursday, Friday and Sunday, with Saturday being the only day one game is carded.

Big Ed Baecht, who has won twenty-five games for the Angels, will probably be on the mound for the Cherubs in one of today's contests. Dutch Ruether looms as one of the Seattle's alabsters this afternoon.

Oscar Vitt's Sheiks play their next to last series of the season against the Senators at Sacramento. The Solons haven't given the Stars any trouble so far this season and there's no reason to believe this series will find them any exception. The Vittmen took six out of seven from the Solons in their last series and should they do that this week they'll come back home with the second-half race cinched.

Other series on this week bring together the Seals and Acorns at Oakland and the Ducks and Missions at San Francisco.

Warner Picks Card Men for Gopher Game

STANFORD UNIVERSITY (Cal.) Oct. 6. (AP)—Coach Glenn Warner of Stanford today named thirty-three men to leave tomorrow for the game with Minnesota at Minneapolis Saturday. There will be three players for each position. The team arrives in Minneapolis Friday.

Ray Tandy, captain and tackle, went to Los Angeles yesterday to see Dr. Spencer, bone specialist, about his knee which he injured in the game with Santa Clara, last Saturday. He was named to accompany the squad although it is not certain he will play.

The squad:

Ends—Neill, Colvin, K. Albertsen, Deuh, Wittenau, Bush.
Tackles—Bogue, Grey, Tandy, Ehrhorn, La Borde.
Guards—Hand, Heiser, Hulen, Hunt, Bardin, Dawson.
Centers—Taylor, M. Albertson, Marks.
Quarterbacks—Hillman, Allen, Winnek.
Halfbacks—Moffatt, Bintals, Hardy, Caglieri, Clark, Wilson.
Fullbacks—Rothert, Simkins, Caddel.

GALLANT FOX TO BE RETIRED

Latonia championships and the Hawthorne gold cup. Last week, however, he developed a cough and after he was out of training for several days Trainer Sunny Jim Fitzsimmons and Owner Woodward decided to retire the big son of Sir Gallahad III.

He will stand at the head of Woodward's Belair stud farm in Prince Georges county, Maryland. His retirement brings to a close a brilliant three-year-old campaign that carried the Fox and his famous riding partner, Earle Sande, victorious through every leading three-year-old stake, with the exception of the Travers at Saratoga, in which he finished second to Jim Dandy, a 100-to-1 shot. In addition, he won the Saratoga and Jockey gold cups, defeating small but select fields of older horses.

SAILORS TO CHEER FOR HEINTZ IN RING

Several hundred sailors from the battle fleet will journey to the Wilmington Bowl tomorrow night when Ad "Pickles" Heintz, all-Navy heavyweight champion from the U. S. S. Idaho, meets Chief Whitehorse, veteran Indian scrapper, in the six-round semi-wind-up. The big sailor who won the service title in his ninth ring engagement and who has scored nine kayoes in eleven starts is the idol of the bluejackets who claim he is a far better fighter than was Jack Sharkey when the latter held the Navy belt a few years back.

Joe Bitto, rugged San Pedro light-heavyweight, mixes with Paul Drake in the six-round main event.

PUBLIC LINKS RESULTS

Long Beach scored 9 points to Montebello's 6, in the Southern California public links play-off Sunday. Pasadena led Westwood, 8 to 7. The tournament which got under way on September 21, last, has seven more matches to go.

BELANGER UNLUCKY IN MANLEY BATTLE

TULSA (Okla.) Oct. 6. (AP)—George Manley, Denver light-heavyweight won an unpopular referee's decision over Charley Belanger, Canadian champion, in a ten-round bout here tonight. The decision was lustily booed.

TENNIS STARS TO PLAY

Johnny Van Ryn, one of America's Davis Cup defenders, and Midge Gladman, national intercollegiate women's champion, are scheduled to meet Cliff Butler and Dorothy Robinson, two nationally known stars, in an exhibition tennis match this morning at University High School in Sawtelle. The games will start at 10:30 a.m. After the doubles play the foursome plans to pair off in a series of singles matches.

MEXICAN KNOCKED OUT

NEW YORK, Oct. 6. (AP)—Domenico Bernasconi of Italy knocked out Elias Rodriguez, Mexican bantamweight in the sixth round of a ten-round bout at the Jamaica arena tonight.

QUINN SEEKS RACE LEAD AS SHARP, MAY OUT

Francis Quinn, veteran ace of southwestern dirt ovals, hopes to take advantage of the fact that two of his rivals in the battle for the 1930 championship will be on the sidelines tomorrow night at the Legion Ascot Speedway. Jimmy Sharp, who is topping the throttle boys in the race for the crown, and Walt May, who is in third place, are both on the shelf as a result of injuries. May is not expected to be back for at least two weeks while Sharp, whose car overturned at Fresno, may have to remain in the pits for the rest of the season.

Quinn is only 39 points behind Sharp but unless Francis has better luck than last week, he will have difficulty creeping up. Motor trouble on his Gabhart special sent Quinn out of the forty-lap race in the seventeenth turn last Wednesday night, just at a time when it appeared that he was going to lead the rest of the drivers home by half a lap and win himself a bundle of points toward the title. However, the Gabhart creation undoubtedly is one of the most reliable dirt-track chariots in the country and there seems little likelihood that there will be more motor trouble tomorrow night.

Los Angeles drivers may have difficulty upholding their laurels tomorrow night. With a half dozen fast "outside" entries already listed, another formidable invader cast his hat in the ring yesterday in the person of E. C. Snyder of Portland. Snyder, who is one of the leading speed kings of the Northwest, has never raced here. He has brought along fast Fronty No. 54 south with him and promises to rival the accomplishments of "Swede" Smith, another citizen of the Oregon metropolis. Smith's car, the Beggs special which he drove to first money in the forty-lap race last week, came from Portland as did the Deulin special, which "Stubby" Stubblefield drives.

Following is the standing of drivers in the Pacific Southwest championship competition for 1930:

Pilots—	Points
Jimmy Sharp	475.43
Francis Quinn	436.46
Walt May	216.33
H. W. Stubblefield	208.34
Wendell Smith	203.75
Mel McKee	183.96
Speed Hinkley	116.42
Carl Brandt	94.99
William Heiser	94.97
Ernie Triplett	87.89
Shorty Cantlon	84.99
Arvel Brunmier	79.23
Johnny Krieger	78.80
Nick Martino	68.72
Curtis Crandel	66.38
Phil Pardee	64.38
Dewey Butterworth	60.31
Mel Kenealy	46.98
Bob Scorell	45.25
E. C. Wood	34.30

TERRY BOXES SALERNO

Jack Perry, former contender for the world's welterweight title, who is managing the Pico Bowl near Whittier, offers middles and flyweights in his main event and semi-wind-up tomorrow night with plenty of action expected in each bout. Young Terry, Whittier Mexican, will step out against Guy Salerno in the main event, and inasmuch as both are hard hitters, there is a good chance of the bout ending inside the limit.

All of the entrants are to gather tomorrow morning at the Breakfast Club at 9 o'clock.

TONY FREITAS LEADER AMONG COAST PITC

Tony Freitas, Sacramento hurler, is the Coast League's leading regular pitcher to date, with seventeen victories and five defeats to his credit. Gordon Rhodes, with nine wins and two losses, tops Freitas, but can hardly be called a regular.

Frank Shellenback, the Hollywood spitball veteran, is right behind with seventeen victories, and seven defeats, followed by Ed Brandt of the Angels, Jim Turner of the Stars, and Jimmy Zinn of the Seals.

Baecht, with twenty-five victories, tops the loop in that department, with Zinn next in line with twenty-four. Turner is third with twenty. Baecht has lost eleven games, Zinn, twelve, and Turner, nine. Howard Craghead, working in forty games, has won nineteen, and lost twenty-one, for whatever honor may be attached to losing the most contests. The figures:

camp, until tonight, at least.

Fay and Kennedy will weigh about the same. Neither is far away from 195 pounds. Both are in good shape. Kennedy has been in almost steady training for six weeks, two of his fights being canceled.

Walker is brand-new copy. He has whipped Joe Dundee, former welterweight champion, and Sammy Baker, who was a runner-up contender, since the first of the year.

Being only 20 years of age Walker is not allowed to box main events in New York or was sent to California. He is an Italian youngster, formerly a student at Bucknell University.

In the gymnasium Walker looks like a decided stand-out. If he can fight like that in the ring he will be seen here soon with the Young Corbetts and the Billy Townsends.

BEAT LaSALLE

Aguirre, a 19-year-old Mexican, earned his chance for a main-event spot by taking seven out of ten rounds from Bobby LaSalle two weeks ago in San Diego. It is declared for Aguirre he has won forty out of sixty-five fights by knockouts. The Mexican is not a bad short-ender after whipping LaSalle as the bad boy from the beach had scored three knockouts.

Tommy Huffman and Henry Rolline will box the six-round special event at 130 pounds. Both are good punchers. Young Huffman is a brother of Eddie, the sailor heavyweight.

Chalky Wright, called by many the new "Kid Chocolate," is paired with Sergio Radam in another six. Johnny Previs, knockout sensation of the small clubs, meets Frankie Boldt in a four.

Four 200-year-old cushions were sold in London recently for $7500.

Circuit in Ninth Brings 2-to-0 Series Win

second base in the first seven innings, so effective was Grimes in the pinches. Not a Cardinal got beyond the middle station and only two, Gelbert in the third and Wilson in the seventh, advanced that far as the innings rolled by.

The Cards got a break in the third when Jimmy Dykes made a mistake trying to outrun Charley Gelbert in a chase back to second base. Gelbert had walked and been sacrificed by Grimes. Douthit bounded to Dykes and Gelbert was trapped off the base but the A's third-sacker, instead of making a throw to the waiting Bishop, tried to run down his man. They slid into the bag together, Gelbert was safe and Dykes had his name linked with that of Heinie Zimmerman, the old Giant infielder who made himself famous chasing Eddie Collins across the plate in the 1917 series.

FRISCH FIZZLES

There were then two Cardinals on the sacks and only one out but Adams popped to Boley and Frisch grounded out to Foxx as Earnshaw escaped from a dangerous spot.

They did not threaten again until the seventh, when Jimmy Wilson doubled with two out and Gelbert was purposely passed. Grimes, after a taunting exchange with Connie Mack who tapped his head in reply to the pitcher's comment, drove a long fly to Haas in right center to end the inning.

Grove yielded a single by Frisch in the eighth, but two were out and Bottomley, in the pinch, struck out for the third straight time in the game and the eighth time in five games. This equalled the performance of Rogers Hornsby in the 1929 series, but still short of the all-time record of ten strike-outs by George Kelley of the Giants, in eight games in 1921.

In the ninth Ray Blades, batting for Watkins, walked with one out and advanced to second on Wilson's grounder to Grove, but Charley Gelbert, a hero yesterday at bat, took a third strike with his bat on his shoulder, ending the game.

The A's heavy hitters were almost helpless against Grimes's assortment of stuff through the first seven innings. For the first time in the series Simmons went hitless in four turns at bat and Foxx's home run was the only full-fledged drive off the veteran spitballer in the entire game.

A bad "break" for Grimes almost cost him the game in the eighth, when an error by Frisch helped the A's to fill the bases. With one out in this frame, Haas bunted down the third-base line and easily beat Grimes's throw to first for a hit. He set sail for a steal of second and appeared out down on Wilson's fine throw, but Frisch dropped the ball and Umpire Geisel reversed his decision, calling the runner safe. Boley's bunt slipped off Grimes's glove and went for another hit. Jim Moore, the Texas recruit, batted for Earnshaw and walked, filling the bases. Grimes calling on all his cunning as he forced Bishop to ground to Bottomley, who made the force play at the plate and then retired the side on Dykes's roller to Gelbert, who threw to Frisch for the third out as the big crowd roared.

Grimes fanned seven Mackmen, as compared with five strikeouts for Earnshaw and two for Grove. He had fooled Foxx in the seventh with a third strike and perhaps was overconfident when he took on the big youngster again in the ninth. This was fatal, for his only real mistake of the afternoon cost him the ball game.

Big Four

ST. LOUIS, Oct. 6. (AP)—This is how the "big four" batsmen of the world series fared at bat in the fifth game today.

Al Simmons, Athletics:
First inning—popped to Gelbert with a man on first and two out.
Fourth inning—Grounded to Gelbert.
Seventh inning—Flied to Watkins close to the right-field wall.
Ninth inning—Popped to Gelbert with a man on base in scoring position and one out.

Mickey Cochrane, Athletics:
First inning—Singled over second for the first hit of the game.
Fourth inning—Called out on strikes.
Seventh inning—Popped to Wilson in front of the plate.
Ninth inning—walked.

Frankie Frisch—Cardinals:
First inning — Popped to Boley with man on first and one out.
Third inning—Grounded out to Foxx with two mates on base and two down.
Sixth inning — Bunted and was tossed out by Earnshaw.
Eighth inning—Singled past second.

Jim Bottomley, Cardinals:
First inning — Grounded out to Foxx.
Fourth inning—Struck out.
Sixth inning—Struck out.
Eighth inning—Struck out.

BREAKFAST CLUB TO ENTERTAIN GOLFERS

As the first entertainment feature planned in honor of the visitors to Southern California entered in the thirty-fourth annual woman's championship tournament of the United States Golf Association, the Breakfast Club tomorrow morning will entertain the entire group at its regular Wednesday morning festivities. Findlay Douglas and Herbert H. Ramsay, both of New York, president and vice-president, respectively, of U.S.G.A., will head the party; while such celebrities as Glenna Collett, defending national champion; Helen Hicks, New York star; Maureen Orcutt, Canadian champ; Dorothy Campbell Hurd, thrice national champ; Bernice Wall, beautiful finalist; Mrs. O. S. Hill, western champ; Virginia Van Wye, Chicago finalist; Helen Stetson, Philadelphia's past national champ, and many others.

RABBIT PUNCHES

POOR OLD TROJANS

MR. BIFF HOFFMAN, who formerly cavorted in the football spangles of dear old Stanford, has good news for the Trojans as they prepare to invade Pullman, Wash., next Saturday.

They are in for a licking when they meet the Washington State Cougars. Biff is quite positive about the matter, and in a signed story printed in the San Francisco Chronicle he forecasts as follows:

"Washington State is scheduled to meet Southern California next Saturday. If they play the type of football they displayed against the California Bears the Trojans are in for a beating. The Cougars have an offense that won't be stopped, and a defense that refuses to be scored against. Their interference is beautiful to watch, and their pass defense flawless.

"Washington State has established itself as one of the outstanding contenders for the Pacific Coast championship, and it will take a real team to knock them off their perch."

IN RETROSPECT

THAT'S a great build-up for the Cougars, and it probably will make the Trojans fight all the harder.

But somehow I can't quite digest all of Mr. Hoffman's remarks in spite of the fact that I always greatly admired his football and hung his nickname on one of the country's future All-Americans.

Last year Washington State had much the same team it has this year, and the Trojans managed to win, 27-7.

The Cougars looked great in the first quarter. They scored on a 42-yard pass from Ellingson to Jones, and they made four first downs to the Trojans' one.

But that was the extent of their scoring threat, and they failed to make a single first down in the last three periods of the game.

As for their pass defense it was good, but the Trojans nevertheless got away with two or three at opportune moments.

And even if the Cougar pass defense is impregnable, I will ask Mr. Hoffman if the Cougar defense this year can stop the old Trojan power plays.

Readers of this column probably recall that a couple of gents named Saunders and Duffield each started touchdown parades 75 yards out from the Washington State goal in the 1929 game.

That Duffield, caught behind the line on an attempted pass, got away for a 22-yard run and three plays later swept over the line.

That Saunders ran back a punt 45 yards for the fourth score.

I fully appreciate that the Trojans are in for a tough battle, but somehow I question the Washington State ability to stop the Trojans by both land and air routes. They may bottle up one—but not both.

THE BERKELEY SLANT

IN ORDER to appreciate fully the terrible catastrophe that befell California when the Cougars swept over 'em at Berkeley last Saturday, you must get the picture before the game.

Here it is, as it comes to me in a letter from an undergraduate on the campus:

"To judge from what has been seen so far, it appears that Coach Price is about to be rewarded for those many seasons of weary waiting.

"This boy Schaldach, who is also something of a track phenom, is the talk of the campus. He is a small but powerful fellow. He throws the shot about forty-five feet.

"Price has good first-string material, of course, and the reserve strength is more plentiful than at any time since he has been in charge here.

"There is something else about the California varsity this year that has perhaps been overlooked in some quarters. That is, it directly concerns the varsity. I refer to the coaching staff. Price, Clint Evans, Bodie Andrews from St. Mary's College and Clarence (Brick) Mitchell, up from last year's frosh, make a pretty powerful staff. There are some direct-talking, football-wise men in that group.

"This year's gang has the right spirit. It is not dependence upon one or two men, but upon the whole team. There was one worry before the start of the season. It was felt that perhaps these fellows with their 'right attitudes' might be weak with the punch, on account of their lack of experience. But they evidently have had enough experience for college football.

"It looks like a California year again."

HOW MACKS 'FOXXED' THE CARDS

FIRST INNING

Athletics—Bishop fanned on a called third strike. Dykes rolled to Gelbert, and was thrown out at first. Cochrane singled to center. Simmons lifted a high fly that Gelbert got back of short. No runs, one hit, no errors, one left.

Cardinals—Douthit bunted down the first-base line, and was out, Foxx unassisted. Adams hit the first pitched ball for a single to center. Frisch lifted a short fly to Boley in left. Bottomley hit a bounder down the first-base line that Foxx caught, and then stepped on first for the putout. No runs, one hit, no errors, one left.

SECOND INNING

Athletics—Foxx hit the first ball pitched for a fly to Hafey in deep left. Miller lofted to Douthit. Haas also flew out to Douthit. No runs, no hits, no errors, none left.

Cardinals—Simmons ran in to take Haley's short fly to left. Watkins missed a curve ball, striking out. Wilson lined out to Simmons in deep left. No runs, no hits, no errors, none left.

THIRD INNING

Athletics—Boley fanned, swinging at a fast ball. Earnshaw sent a roller to Frisch, and was thrown out at first. Bishop fanned, for the second time, again taking a called third strike. No runs, no hits, no errors, none left.

Cardinals—Gelbert got a big cheer as he walked to the plate. He walked on four straight balls. It was not an intentional pass. Grimes bunted to Earnshaw, and was thrown out at first for a sacrifice, Gelbert going to second. Douthit rolled to Dykes, who lifted to Cochrane, between second and third, but the Cardinal shortstop scrambled back to second successfully, Douthit being safe at first on a fielder's choice. Adams lifted a high fly to Boley. Frisch sent a bounder down the first-base line, and Foxx took it, making the putout at first unassisted. No runs, no hits, no errors, two left.

FOURTH INNING

Athletics—Dykes was thrown out, Gelbert to Bottomley. Cochrane fanned on a called third strike. Simmons also went out, Gelbert to Bottomley. No runs, no hits, no errors, none left.

Cardinals—Bottomley fanned. Cochrane missed the third strike and threw to Foxx for the putout. Haley, with the count two strikes and one ball, worried Earnshaw for a walk. Watkins flied to Haas in right-center. Wilson bunted to Earnshaw, and was thrown out at first. No runs, on hits, no errors, one left.

FIFTH INNING

Athletics—Foxx singled to center. Miller forced Foxx at second, Gelbert to Frisch. Haas hit into a double play, Adams to Frisch to Bottomley. No runs, one hit, no errors, none left.

Cardinals—Gelbert lifted a fly to Foxx. Grimes got a big hand as he came to the plate. He sent a bounder to Earnshaw, and was thrown out at first. Boley tossed out Douthit. No runs, no hits, no errors, none left.

SIXTH INNING

Athletics—Boley was thrown out by Gelbert. Earnshaw fanned, swinging hard at the third strike. Frisch threw out Bishop. No runs, no hits, no errors, none left.

Cardinals—Adams fanned, swinging so hard at the third strike that the bat slipped out of his hands. Frisch bunted, and Earnshaw threw him out at first. The Mack pitcher made a nice one-handed stop. Bottomley fanned, missing a curve ball for the third strike. No runs, no hits, no errors, none left.

SEVENTH INNING

Athletics—With the count two strikes and no balls, Dykes worked Grimes for a walk. Cochrane lifted a high fly to Frisch, at the plate on the first pitched ball, and Wilson smacked the first pitch. Simmons also hit the first pitched ball, Watkins making a running catch of his drive on right field. Foxx fanned, swinging hard at a third strike, and the fans gave Grimes an ovation. No runs, no hits, no errors, one left.

Cardinals—The fans were all on their feet for the "lucky seventh." Hafey struck out on a called third strike. Watkins flied to Simmons in short left. Wilson smacked a double to center for the Cards' second hit off Earnshaw. Gelbert was purposely walked on four balls, Grimes seeing at the first pitch, fouled the second, and then flew out to Haas in right-center. No runs, one hit, no errors, two left.

EIGHTH INNING

Athletics—Gelbert threw out Miller. Haas bunted to Grimes, and beat the throw to first for a safe hit. With Boley up, Wilson called for a waste ball, and whipped a throw to Frisch, who tagged Haas sliding into second. Umpire Geisel called Haas out, and then reversed his decision. The Cards protested, and the crowd booed, but Geisel stood by his decision, Grimes knocked down Boley's smash through the box, recovered the ball, and threw to third too late to get Haas. Boley was given a hit. Grove began to warm up in the Mack bullpen. Moore went in to bat for Earnshaw, and walked, filling the bases. Bishop claimed Grimes's second pitch hit him, and Moriarty did not allow the plate. Bishop proceeded to Bottomley, who threw to Wilson, retiring Haas at the plate. The bases were still full, with two out. Dykes hit to Gelbert, and Bishop was out at second. Gelbert to Frisch. No runs, two hits, one error, three left.

Cardinals—Grove replaced Earnshaw on the mound for the Athletics, although he had pitched in Sunday's game. Douthit popped to Bishop back of second. Dykes took Adams's roller and threw him out at first. Frisch drooped a single to center. Bottomley fanned for the third time, missing a fast ball for the third strike. No runs, one hit, no errors, one left.

NINTH INNING

Athletics—Cochrane worked Grimes for a walk. Simmons lifted a high fly that Gelbert took just behind short. Foxx hit the first pitched ball into the left-field stands for a home run, scoring Cochrane ahead of him. Miller popped on a called third strike. Gelbert took Haas's roller, and threw him out at first. Two runs, one hit, no errors, none left.

Cardinals—Hafey popped up to Cochrane. Blades batted for Watkins, and walked. Grove took Wilson's bounder, and threw him out at first. Blades going to second. Gelbert struck out. No runs, no hits, no errors, one left.

GRIMES HURLS SPLENDID GAME

Mates' Failure to Get Runs Loses for Burleigh

BY FRANKIE FRISCH
(Second Baseman of the Cardinals)
(Copyright, 1930, by North American Newspaper Alliance)

EN ROUTE TO PHILADELPHIA, Oct. 6.—It certainly was heartbreaking for Burleigh Grimes to lose today's game on one pitched ball. His work until then was magnificent. He did not allow a Philadelphia runner to reach second base for seven innings, and then, in the eighth he worked out of a hole to prevent a run after the bases had been filled with only one out.

FRANKIE FRISCH

Foxx, of course, in breaking up the game, hit the ball well, and in addition to the power he had on the drive, he had the wind in his favor.

We had several chances to get some runs for Grimes, but we simply could not do anything with Earnshaw and Grove on the dark day. Like Grimes, both the Philadelphia pitchers had terrific speed and their control was fine.

Grimes, in losing his second tough game of the series, gave only two hits for seven innings and but five all day. When he lost the first game of the series, he allowed only five hits. He certainly is due for some good luck here shortly and I hope we can get it for him before this series is over.

We could solve Earnshaw and Grove for only three hits, which is the lowest total we've had in any game during the series. Even so, we had several chances to drive in runs, but just could not get the wood against the ball solidly at the right moments. Grimes himself tried his best to break up the game against Earnshaw in the seventh inning, but, with two men on base, his drive to right center was caught by Haas after a long run.

We have started back for Philadelphia right after the game and will resume the series' play there Wednesday. That will be the sixth game. Manager Street is not sure as to his pitcher, but he is likely to send Bill Hallahan back to the mound. Bill pitched remarkable baseball last Saturday when he shut out the Athletics on seven hits.

I believe our pitching staff is in much better shape than Philadelphia's for the rest of the series, and I am confident we will even this thing up again Wednesday. If we do, we'll play a seventh game at the home of the Athletics.

This is the longest series played and the most spectacular since 1926, when the Cardinals beat the Yankees. We have been at our best all year, coming from behind. Therefore, I believe we'll turn that trick again.

FILIPINO HEADLINES MAIN STREET FIGHTS

One of the biggest Filipino boxers in the ring today will be seen in action at the Main-street Club on Saturday night, when Vivencio Alanie, a recent arrival from the Philippines, meets Tommy Elks, Mexican welterweight champion, in one of the six-round bouts topping the weekly boxing card. Alanie is a natural 140-pounder and a great puncher. He will give away a bit of weight to the Mexican, Elks having agreed to come in at 142 pounds.

Carlo Curtis is still seeking an opponent for Joe Guerrero, Mexican lightweight champion, who appears in the other half of the double main event. Four four-rounders will complete the card.

MALCEWICZ TO TACKLE DOMINGUEZ IN MAT GO

Promoter Lou Daro scheduled a second bout for the all-star wrestling program he is planning for the Olympic, the 15th inst., yesterday, when he signed Joe Malcewicz, the rough and sensational Utica mat panther, to meet Jose Dominguez, a 215-pounder who is rated as the greatest grappler ever turned out in Mexico.

These two will meet in the bout preceding the finish feature battle that will bring together Dan George, former national amateur mat king, and Bob (Bibber) McCoy, flying tackle exponent. McCoy is the grappler Champion Gus Sonnenberg rates as the best young heavyweight in the game today. George has not been defeated since turning professional last November and his bout with McCoy is regarded as the most important one he has ever been signed for.

One of these two young stars is expected to replace Everett Marshall as the outstanding title contender Despite Marshall's victory over him both on the east and west coasts here recently, McCoy is still looked upon in the East as the grappler having the best chance to dispose of Sonnenberg as champion. His close bout with the mat king there this summer is said to have been the most sensational bout seen in Boston in the last two years.

This will be Dominguez's first appearance in this section. He was in this country at the time Luis Angel Firpo, the "Wild Bull of the Pampas," was preparing for his battle with Jack Dempsey, and acted as the Argentine's sparring partner. He has had a number of mitt battles himself, and is said to have lost none of his ability to use his fists on mat foes who have a leaning for roughing. His match with "Elbows" Malcewicz has possibilities of developing into a very rough battle.

Minnesota Needs Time to Learn New System, Says Victorious Vanderbilt Grid Me

GOPHER COACH HAS MATERIAL

Needs Fair Chance to Get Most Out of Eleven

Askew Is Great Sensation of Crushing Victory

Alabama, Georgia Tech Are Decisive Winners

BY DAN McGUGIN
Football Coach, Vanderbilt University
(Copyright, 1930, by North American Newspaper Alliance)

NASHVILLE (Tenn.), Oct. 6.—Here we are back home from Minneapolis.

DAN McGUGIN.

Vanderbilt's 33-7 victory over Minnesota was of course very gratifying and while we were hopeful of winning, the score of the game was a surprise to us as no doubt it was to Minnesota.

My friends Knute Rockne and Bob Zuppke and perhaps all the other experts picked Minnesota to win. Almost the only expert in the entire country who believed that Vanderbilt would emerge victorious was my efficient assistant, Lewie Hardage, whose confidence in the team infected the players and contributed to their success on the field.

Minnesota is putting in a new system under which all men will come under the benefit of organized physical education and supervised games. There are some who believe these men of the northern races are a little slow to learn. I do not agree with that theory and in any event they are men of great energy a capacity for taking pains and they have strength and vitality to stand coaching and the attendant drudgery to an extent which would kill off the average football team.

Back in the time of Dr. Williams, Minnesota had fancy shifts and an involved offense which demanded quick thinking and swift execution and the Minnesota teams did these things exceptionally well. We have only to recall those seasons when Minnesota scored about thirty points average on each of the western conference competitors to become convinced of the capacity of these men to play jam-up football.

It will take time to get Minnesota organized. Fritz Crisler is a man of outstanding personality and ability and if he is given a fair opportunity these men of the north in the not-far-distant future will become a cross for Western Conference teams to bear.

Sitting on the sidelines Saturday as Vanderbilt made the second touchdown to put her in the lead, my mind was frequently wandering off to South Bend, where Ray Morrison's Mustangs were waging a losing fight against Notre Dame. Ray was a great Vanderbilt quarterback, a boy of intellect, personality and a modest, winning way which went straight to your heart. He was so skillful a player and his judgment was so swift and certain I used to feel, sitting on the sidelines, that under his direction the Vanderbilt team would play a game up to the full measure of its capacity. My friend Knute Rockne will realize, I know, the reasons for my vain hope for the success of Ray's team.

Turning to the Southern Conference, the three outstanding events were the crushing defeats of Mississippi by Alabama, of South Carolina by Georgia Tech and of Virginia by Duke University. There are so many colleges in Virginia that no one school gets a large number of experienced players from the preparatory schools.

MERCURY SOCCERITES IN DEBUT ON SUNDAY

Los Angeles Athletic Club soccerites make their debut next Sunday afternoon at Loyola Field for the season of 1930. They clash with the Richfield Oilers in the first end of a double-header. The additions of Roffredo, Hepburn and Bert Tunicliffe have made the L.A.A.C. one of the strongest combinations in the league, club officials point out. In the other game at Loyola Sunday the Sons of St. George battle the Magyars.

Two games are also scheduled for the Tournament Park grounds on Sunday by the Los Angeles league. In the opener there the Scots face the Victoria players and Hollywood battles Pasadena.

SUNFREEZE BEARS IN ICE HOCKEY VICTORY

With Joe Brown playing the leading role the Sunfreeze Bears defeated the Gilmore Lionettes last night at the Winter Garden Rink in an exhibition game. Brown, not the comedian, scored three goals for the winners. Abby Newell, who recently returned to the amateur ranks, made two for the losers. The amateur season officially opens Thursday night.

HUNT SHADED BY RENAULT IN RING

PHILADELPHIA, Oct. 6. (AP)—Jack Renault, Canadian heavyweight, won a close ten-round decision over Babe Hunt of Oklahoma, in the main event at the arena tonight. Renault scaled 208½, seven pounds more than his opponent. The decision was unpopular with many of the fans.

WILLS LOSES TO MURDOCK

SALT LAKE CITY, Oct. 6. (AP)—Young Harry Wills, 145, San Diego Negro, lost to Eddie Murdock, 144 Tulsa, Okla., here tonight when his claim of a foul in the sixth round of their ten-round headliner was disallowed by Referee Al Abbett.

The SPORTLIGHT by Grantland Rice

(Copyright, 1930, by North American Newspaper Alliance)

ST. LOUIS, Oct. 6.—Almost surrounded and cut off, the Athletics had to shoot the works in the fifth game of this steamy series for the championship of the world.

It took the brains and courage of Connie Mack, the combined pitching arms of Earnshaw and Grove and the big war mace of Jimmy Foxx to beat the somber Burleigh Grimes and the Cardinals, 2 to 0, and thereby shove Philadelphia within one game of another baseball crown.

For the better part of nine innings Grimes and his famous spurt ball remained deadlocked with Mack's two mighty aces, Earnshaw and Grove, but you can gang a man and throw too much power even against a stout heart.

With Mickey Cochrane on first through a walk in the ninth and Simmons retired, Grimes whistled one high and fast along the line of Foxx's chin and the big first baseman broke up the best world series show in years by clubbing the ball deep into the center-field bleachers for a home run, scoring Cochrane on the trip. It was a mighty wallop from the bat of a mighty mauler, one of the best, and it sent the Cardinals eastward-bound needing the two remaining games to win, where the Athletics need but one. And the Athletics will be home again when the next charge starts.

There have been few ball games in any world series to equal this final battle in St. Louis before another big, raving mob of western fans, who rooted their hearts out for Grimes and the Red Birds until Jimmy Foxx lit the fuse to his four-bagger in the ninth and the ball disappeared from view amid a stricken silence deeper and denser than the silence of the tomb. They may have wished to pay tribute to this blow, but it struck into their hearts like a poisoned pon-lard, and there was no soul left for any further noise. Young Foxx silenced the clang of their bells, the music of their horns and the roar of their voices, with one of the most timely blows ever delivered in a big game.

You could sense drama in overlapping waves from the start of this battle to the finish. It was the big game to win, the vital one of the series up to date. The sky was gray and threatening with occasional drops of rain spattering down, indicating a possible postponement if no team scored in the early rounds. And from the start it was easy to see that Grimes and Earnshaw were at their best, two great pitchers with the coolness the courage, the stuff and the control needed to go the route.

Earnshaw, after his big day back in Philadelphia, was even better in this crucial game. The big right-hander worked like a master, and Grimes matched his work for the seven innings Earnshaw broke up the Cardinal attack. Neither team could make any dent against such high class pitching. If there was a rabbit ball in the contest it must have come from a rabbit with his legs cut off. Here was proof enough that high-grade pitching can still break up any attack.

Inning after inning the game rolled along with the crowd cheering one moment and tense the next, silent and strained. This was more than a ball game to this park full of people. It was the West against the East. It was St. Louis against the world for this one afternoon.

As the eighth inning arrived Connie Mack and his board were called upon to make a desperate decision, a decision that might possibly win or lose the game in this one inning. Haas and Boley had gotten on through skillful bunting with one out and Earnshaw was due at bat. Here was the pitcher who had held the Cardinals to two hits in seven innings, who was riding the top of the world, and who looked as if he could pitch shut-out ball all afternoon.

But Connie Mack wanted a run. He took the big gamble and sent in Moore to bat for Earnshaw, with Bob Grove warming up. And Grove had been worked hard the day before. Moore worked his way into a pass that filled the bases with only one out and the top of the Athletic batting order coming up.

The game looked to be over, as almost anything would score a run and there was Grove coming in with his fast ball on a dark, glowering day. The crowd was tense and silent as Bishop came up. The second baseman finally rapped one to Bottomley at first, and he whipped the ball to the plate to kill off the run. That made two out. It also turned some 38,000 fans into a mass of howling, hat-throwing, back-slapping momentary maniacs.

When Grimes retired Jimmy Dykes for the third out the racket left the big stands rocking in the gale from human throats. The surf ball king had risen to the top height. He had choked off a deadly looking rally in the nick of time.

Earnshaw, who had allowed but two hits in seven innings, the same Earnshaw who had beaten the Cardinals, to 1, in the second battle, was out, but the man taking his place was a big, tall, loose-jointed left-hander named Bob Grove, with a dark background to work against.

Connie Mack's first gamble had failed, but he had the serum ready for anything that might happen in the wiry, whip-like, left arm of Robert Moses Grove. Here was a game Mack had to win. All afternoon he had been the busiest man on his bench, watching every play, talking with his hitters as they started for the plate, shifting his outfielders, watching every move. He couldn't lose this one with only one pitcher left to face Hallahan, Haines and Grimes again. It was swim or sink.

Grove went breezing along, allowing but one hit. And then at the start of the ninth, Grimes, attempting to make Mickey Cochrane hit at a bad one, walked the Athletic star. When Grimes retired the always-dangerous Simmons, the vocal cataclysm broke out again. And just ten seconds later the ball game blew up in the face of the multitude after the manner of a sudden, unexpected explosion.

There had been no home runs for some time. But in attempting to wrap a fast one around Foxx's neck, Grimes got the ball too far out where Foxx isn't any more dangerous than a king cobra. Jimmy gave it the gas and where a moment before there had been an unbelievable pandemonium, there was now the silence of the grave, the somber silence of the last green mound, as the ball soared far and high against the gray evening sky of the west, and fell at last into the stands.

This big punch ended one of the greatest ball games ever played in any world series at any time. It was the climax of a day that saw its share of magnificent pitching and great support.

ALL-AROUND STAR

Few people realize just how good an athlete Eric Pedley is. He has won fame as a polo player the world over, but that only is part of the athletic story back of the man. Pedley is among other things a crack tennis player, an expert swimmer, a former amateur champion boxer and a very good low-handicap golfer. There is hardly any form of athletic endeavor in which Pedley cannot hold his own.

To borrow a common sports expression, Pedley is a real "money player." By that we mean he always comes through in a pinch. In the recent international series Pedley stole the show. He cinched his position in the trials by shooting goals so fast that the scorekeepers almost called for adding machines to record them all and in the big series it was Pedley who was really the difference between the two teams representing the United States and Great Britain.

When Tommy Hitchcock and his three team-mates, Earl Hopping, Winston Guest and Pedley, rode out for the first game of the series between England and America the coolest man on the field was Eric Jimmy Jackson, local polo expert, who attended the big games, told the writer he talked with Pedley a few minutes before the contest and that Eric showed no indication of nerves of any kind. He knew what he was going to do and he knew just how to do it," was the way Jackson summed it up.

Five years ago Pedley was invited to try out for the international games, the first western man to win that honor, but at that time he was picked as an alternate for the No. 1 position. This year they simply couldn't keep him off the team without shooting him.

BOESEKE TO BE THERE

Today Pedley will be greeted by sportsmen from every walk of life. One of the first fellows to shake his hand, however, will be the man who went back with Eric to try out for the international team and just didn't make it — Elmer Boeseke. Long-legged Elmer and Eric are the West's two greatest stars. They both were named as candidates for the team by the United States Polo Association. Pedley, the "money player," came through. Elmer did not. But Elmer will be on deck to lead the cheering for Eric today—that's sportsmanship.

Le Roy Owen, president of the Junior Chamber, will head the delegation that will escort Eric to the office of Mayor Porter at the City Hall. From there they will go to the Biltmore where a luncheon in his honor will be given and he will be presented with a picture of the international Big Four encased in a silver frame. Carleton Burke, daddy of west coast polo and captain of Midwick Country Club's polo four, will probably make the presentation. Poloists from Midwick and the Uplisters will occupy a special table at the luncheon.

show the effects of the strain of keeping pace with Earnshaw. After Bing Miller had grounded to Gelbert, Mule Haas beat out a bunt to Grimes. He then stole second, being declared safe after Frisch dropped the ball. Boley bounced a hit off Grimes's glove which put runners on first and third, with one out.

Here was our chance and the tense silence on the bench was nothing compared to the frozen hush that came over the grand stand. Connie Mack decided to make the most of it, so he sent Jim Moore, our rookie outfielder, to bat for Earnshaw. Grimes was crafty and he walked Moore, filling the bases.

Bishop and Dykes, however, were not equal to the task and Grimes shut our rally off without a score. There was a great chance to win and we booted it.

Mickey Cochrane started us off again in the ninth with a walk. Connie was shooting for the moon. It was a case of all or nothing, and he refused to order a sacrifice bunt though it seemed the logical thing.

It's not often during the season that you see Simmons or Foxx bunt and these games are just the same as the others. Al had his healthy cut but his best was a fly to Gelbert in deep short. Jimmy Foxx was next, and did he connect! I ask you?

In the games so far it seems to me that the Cards have played the same regular, steady game which has made them National League champions, whereas our play has been more or less spotty. We were right in our stride in Philadelphia, but far from it in the first two games in St. Louis.

JONES BUILDS FOR COUGARS

wants employed against Washington State. This is one of the strongest features of Jones's system—his defensive preparations for the enemy, and if Washington State wins on Saturday it will not be on account of lack of instruction given the Trojans.

Southern California looked practically impregnable against line plays Saturday, but there is no denying that the Cougar attack will be much harder to handle than that put out by Paul Schissler's team.

As for defense against passes I have seen several players other than the right one criticised for allowing McKalip to score Oregon State's only touchdown. The blame, if that's what you want to call it, rests on Erny Pinckert's shoulders. And part should also be shouldered by Duffield, for in the final analysis he was the safety man. But McKalip was Pinckert's man—not Kirkwood's nor Musick's. It isn't often Erny misses and it is unlikely that he will be caught in an embarrassing position at Pullman.

It is possible that Jim Musick, who is not a fast man in the open field, will be shifted to backing up the line against Washington State. This job has generally been attended to by Jones's inside halfback, such as Erickson, Apelt, Kirkwood, etc. But Kirkwood and Apelt are faster than Musick and inasmuch as Washington State did a lot of damage to California via the air it will not be surprising to see Jones change his secondary defense somewhat.

No matter how you figure Saturday's game you can't get away from the fact that last year S.C. won, 27 to 7, against what is virtually the same team Hollingbery now has. Of course, nobody knows at this time whether the Trojans are as strong as they were during late November of 1929. Probably not, which means a pretty even battle at Pullman.

SAUNDERS HERO

Those who saw last year's game will recall that Russ Saunders played the leading role in subduing the Cougars. With the score 7 to 7 at half time "Racehorse Russell" cut loose with everything he had, smashed 78 yards down the field in fourteen plays and broke the tie with as great an exhibition of driving power as Coliseum fans ever saw. Later in the quarter, Russ passed 10 yards to Tappaan for the third touchdown. Just to cap the climax Saunders, in the fourth quarter, returned a punt 48 yards for the closing touchdown.

Neither Mohler nor Duffield possess the drive of Saunders but together they offer as great a threat as last year's star. Provided they are not hurt the two Trojan quarterbacks ought to make the going mighty tough for the man-eating Cougars.

Whether the absence of a driving, power-plus back such as Saunders will handicap the Trojans remains to be seen. Jim Musick and Gaius Shaver have been doing some great line plunging for the Southern California eleven and you can bet that the middle of the Cougar line will take a pounding.

The team leaves tomorrow afternoon at 4 o'clock, returning here Monday afternoon.

CITY LOOP MAY BE IN PLAY-OFF

while the other will take in four small circuits in this section.

The San Diego City League, the Southern League and the Imperial League will make up the Southern minor group, while the Prep, the Riverside county, the San Gabriel Valley, the Tri-County and the Ventura minor will compose the Northern minor group.

Plaques will be awarded the winners of both divisions.

All the above matter was passed on at a meeting of the C.I.F.S.S. held last Saturday.

While not exactly pessimistic, Coach Horace Bresee of the L. A. High Romans, can't understand how anyone can give his team much of a chance against Manual Arts in the festure game of the opening round of the City League this Friday.

True the Romans have not been setting the world on fire in their practice games, but on the other hand they haven't been losing any of them.

The battle Friday should be a royal one, with the powerful Toiler line giving Coach Jim Blewett's charges the edge.

PRAISE LINE

Ray Call, who umpired the Manual Arts-Long Beach game last week was loud in his praise of the Toiler forward wall, saying that it was the best prep line he had witnessed in a long time, that they took out the opposition in quick time and did it in the cleanest manner possible. All of which speaks volumes for Line Coach Charley Toney.

While the Roman backfield has a little the better of the Manual ball packers, the Artisan line should prove to be the difference between victory and defeat.

Five other games are listed for Friday. Hollywood and Poly mix at L. A. High, Frank and Belmont meeting on the Hilltopper field, while Fairfax and Lincoln will tangle at Hollywood High. Roosevelt goes to Jefferson, with the Freemont Pathfinders taking on the weak Garfield Bulldogs.

FRESNO STATE TACKLES LIONS

Loyola Squad Prepares for Northern Team

Fresno State College invades Southern California this week with one of the strongest squads in the history of the school. The Bulldogs meet Tom Lieb's Loyola Lions in a night game at Wrigley Field Saturday, and are all set to get revenge for the 20-to-0 defeat handed them by the Lions last year.

On Coach Borleak's invading eleven are three of the best ball carrier ever to don a Fresno uniform. They are V. Ferraris, quarterback; Dick White, a halfback, and T. Bordary, full. These men work in harmony together and between them get off quite a number of long runs during the course of a game.

Ferraris is a Los Angeles youth who hails from L. A. High. He is perhaps the fastest man on the squad and specializes in open-field running. He is a triple-threat man, being able to kick, pass, and run equally well. He should cause Loyola plenty of trouble in Saturday's clash.

Fresno has played two games so far this season and has won each contest. It has defeated California Christian College and Redlands University.

SAGEHENS TO FACE BRUINS

diners: even when they switched the sweaters around in the middle of the first half, it was difficult to follow the course of the ball against the white numbers, opposing linesmen aver.

At any rate, Nixon will give his men plenty of work against the U.C.L.A. Bruins next Saturday in the Coliseum. It is hoped by this tussle the Sagehens will be more prepared on the 18th inst., when they meet Caltech here, than they were against the Aztecs.

Pomona's offensive was weak against the southerners, although Bob Baynham gained yardage on short end runs. The Sagehens accounted for thirteen first downs, but they lacked the punch to score when in enemy territory.

The lack of anything resembling the beautiful aerial attack possessed by the Hens in recent years prevented much offensive power. Nixon continues his search for an effective combination.

GUTTORMSEN TO PLAY AGAINST POMONA TEAM

U.C.L.A. is back in the football limelight this week, after a week's lay-off for rest, and will meet the Pomona College Sagehens in the Los Angeles Coliseum Saturday afternoon. A stiff workout was given the Bruin gridders yesterday by Coach Bill Spaulding and his assistants in preparation for the game.

The Westwood eleven should show considerable improvement this Saturday over its first showing this year when it lost to the University of Southern California, 33 to 6, due to the gradual seasoning of a number of green gridmen, and will be heavily favored to defeat the Pomona team. The Sagehens lost last week to San Diego State Teachers' College, 6 to 0, and should not give too much opposition to Spaulding's men.

Saturday will mark the first appearance in a game of Harold Guttormsen, full and halfback, in a Blue-and-Gold uniform. A trick knee kept Guttormsen out of the Southern California game, but the member is now in good condition again. Guttormsen has been showing lots of stuff in scrimmage at Westwood, and should prove a capable understudy for Norman Duncan, regular fullback. He transferred to U.C.L.A. from Washington where he played freshman football and where his older brother George was football captain four or five years ago.

Coach Freddy Oster's freshman eleven, victorious in two games so far this season, will meet its toughest opposition this year Saturday in the Oneonta Military Academy eleven as a preliminary to the Bruin-Sagehen varsity tilt. The cadets defeated the U.S.S. Oklahoma eleven, 7 to 3, last Saturday, and the gobs played a tie contest with Whittier College. The Bruin yearlings hold a 9-to-7 decision over Glendale Junior College and a 13-to-0 victory over Pasadena Junior College.

Legion Fight Card All Set

The Hollywood American Legion Stadium boxing card for Friday night is complete. Johnny Lamar, Mexican lightweight, fights Bobby La Salle in the main event. La Salle will have a shade the best of the weight but Lamar should prove to be the better fighter. He is the only fighter in these parts to beat Cecil Payne when Payne was doing some fighting in Los Angeles.

Lew Lafferty looked very good in the semi-wind-up last Friday night. He beat Manuel DeLeon. He fights Charley Ernst this week. Ernst is rated a better fighter than DeLeon. In the East Lafferty has fought main events but in order to keep in shape and eat regularly takes semi-wind-ups out in this country. This should be a great fight.

A pair of middleweights will fight the special. Johnny DeCoursey meets Jack Tremains and this should be a fight. Both fighters are pretty good with the sock.

Jack Gilmore and Jack Dunseith, heavyweights, fight one of the four-rounders and Tony Rose battles Sol Launano in the curtain-raiser.

EL MONTE BEES PLAY

Coach De Garia's El Monte Class B football eleven will travel to San Diego the 25th inst. to take on the strong San Diego High Bees in the city stadium. Coach Glenn Broderick's Hilltoppers are reported to be almost as strong this year as last when they nosed out the El Monte outfit for the Southern California championship.

GOODMAN OUTPOINTED

TORONTO, Oct. 6. (AP)—Willie Davies, Charleroi, Pa., flyweight, outpointed Johnny Goodman of Toledo, O., in a hotly fought eight-round bout here tonight.

LYNCH WINNER IN NET EVENT

Corrected reports from the Pacific Coast tennis tournament at the Berkeley Tennis Club tell of a rather astonishing upset in the 15-year-old boys division in which Jack Lynch of Taft, Cal., defeated Jay Cohn of Santa Monica, national boy's champion, in straight sets for the title. The match was exceedingly hard fought with Lynch just a trifle more accurate.

Incidentally the results in this event reversed the previous encounters between these two youngsters and Frankie Parker of Milwaukee. In early season play in the Middle West Parker beat Cohn three times but couldn't defeat Lynch who, in turn, was easy for Cohn. At Berkeley Cohn finally succeeded in beating Parker for the first time in the semifinal round only to lose to Lynch in the finals, this being the Taft boys' first victory over the national champion.

MAPLE LEAFS BOW AT HOCKEY TO MONARCHS

With Billy Wells leading the attack, the Hollywood Monarchs handed the Maple Leaf ice hockey squad a defeat in its first game of the season at the Palais De Glace last night by the score of 8 to 4. Wells scored four of his team's goals. Chuck Warren tallied two goals for the losers. Desmond Henry and MacDonald played an outstanding game for the winners.

DEMPSEY RETURNS TO CITY

Jack Dempsey, former heavyweight champion, arrived here last night on the Southern Pacific's Sunset Limited. The ex-heavy king showed no ill effects from his recent auto accident in New Orleans.

CITY "REFORM" RULE ASSAILED

Dr. Munro Likens Functions to Stinging Insect

League of Municipalities Meets in Long Beach

Mayors' Session Discusses Gas-Tax Distribution

By a "Times" Staff Correspondent

LONG BEACH, Oct. 6.—Several hundred officials of California cities registered today at the opening of the thirty-second annual convention of the League of California Municipalities which will be in session until Saturday.

In the feature address of the first general session at the Hotel Virginia this morning William B. Munro, professor of political science at Harvard University, talking on municipal government declared that the reform government is like the insect which stings once and dies. He outlined the middle road of safe municipal government and discussed revenue and assessments. The special assessment is a development of the West; it is unknown in the East, he stated.

SESSIONS SEPARATE

In the afternoon the various branches of the league and the two affiliated organizations, dairy and milk inspectors and sewage works officials, met in separate sessions. The infantile paralysis situation was discussed by numerous speakers at the session of the Department of Public Health. Dr. W. M. Dickie, president of the department, read figures showing that serum has been highly effective.

The gasoline tax and its distribution were the principal topic at the meeting of the Mayors and Councilmen section—the first time these officers have met as a separate branch of the league.

HOPKINS SPEAKER

Mayor Baker of Watsonville presented the problem from the municipality point of view and a general discussion followed. Ed W. Hopkins, County Assessor of Los Angeles county, was the principal speaker at the opening session of the clerks, auditors and assessors division, speaking on accurate, scientific and just assessments. City managers heard James S. Dean, Sacramento Manager, speak on planning and architecture, and a general discussion followed.

Numerous exhibits featured the meeting of the planning division. Gordon Whitnall, president of the league, led the discussion at this meeting, the subject dealing with molding public opinion. Contemplated legislation occupied most of the time of the city attorneys at the afternoon session today. Harold P. Huls, City Attorney of Pasadena, discussed constitutional amendments affecting public utilities; Charles N. Kirkbride of San Mateo, spoke on street assessments and Leon T. David, assistant City Attorney of Palo Alto, discussed municipal liability. Stockton and Santa Cruz launched intensive campaigns for the 1931 convention while Riverside began its effort to obtain the 1932 convention.

Officers of the general organization are Gordon Whitnall, Los Angeles, president; William J. Locke, Alameda, secretary, and John J. O'Toole, San Francisco, treasurer.

Damages Asked in Girl's Death

Damages of $51,340 are asked of Dr. William C. Fiske, facing murder charges for the death of Alta Vera Nelson, 19 years of age, in a suit filed yesterday by Edward Nelson, father of the girl.

It is asserted an illegal operation was performed September 20, last, at Hermosa Beach without knowledge or consent of the girl's parents. The victim died the next day. The suit was filed by Attorney David Welts.

JUNIORS AT U.C.L.A. PLAN FOR CLASS DAY

Active preparation for junior day, traditional celebration of the junior class at the University of California at Los Angeles, was begun yesterday when the class of 1932 conducted its official class assembly. Junior day, which will take place Saturday, will comprise a full day's program of activities, beginning in the morning with sports at El Vacquero Country Club and concluding with a dance in the evening at Beverly Hills Hotel. The morning crowd will proceed under motorcycle escort to the football game with Pomona College at the Coliseum.

NEW TELEPHONE BOOK READY

More Than Half-Million Copies Out

THE semiannual race for supremacy in the number of listings in the Los Angeles telephone directory between Brown, Jones and Smith is disclosed by the newly issued October directory as a complete victory for the Smith family, which has 4122 listings. Brown, with 3615, is next, followed by a mere 2049 for Jones.

A. A. Aab of 614 South Hope street, has the honor of having his name listed first in the book. Laurels of final listing go to W. B. Zylstra of 924 Woodruff street.

The new book appears in a rich brown color, contrasting with the blue and gray of the spring issue. It contains 752 pages of Los Angeles subscribers' names and 437 for county subscribers.

Approximately 662,000 copies of the alphabetical directory were printed to be used by city and county subscribers during the coming six months. The supplemental volume of business listings is issued in 590,000 copies.

More than 20,200 telephones have been affected by equipment changes resulting in new numbers and prefixes. These changes appear in the new directory. Four new central-office names—ADams, CLeveland, MIchigan and SYcamore—appear for the first time. YOrk, familiar prefix of the southwest, has been superseded by TWin Oaks, a change involving 8000 telephones.

Delivering 405,000 copies of the directory, 700 men yesterday began a city-wide distribution. Five days have always been required to reach all Los Angeles telephone subscribers with copies of the new book, but an attempt is being made to complete the October delivery in three days, according to O. R. McCully, directory manager.

The job of covering 200 square miles and reaching the 400,000 Los Angeles telephone subscribers can be greatly facilitated if subscribers absent from home during the day leave their March directories on the front porch, McCully said. It is estimated that 960 tons of old directories will be collected.

HARBOR INDUSTRIES LISTED

Survey of Regional Plan Commission Reveals 404 Plants Operating in Area

Los Angeles county's harbor area has 404 industries, occupying 5902 acres of land and employing 18,286 persons, according to a survey of the water-front district made public yesterday by William J. Fox, chief engineer of the Los Angeles County Regional Planning Commission.

The survey, according to the officer, is part of Section 4 of the regional plan for the entire county which is to be filed with the Board of Supervisors next year. It includes the communities of San Pedro, Long Beach, Wilmington, Torrance, Compton, Redondo, Manhattan, Hermosa and the Palos Verdes Estates.

The population of the area surveyed is given as 320,000 persons. The annual pay roll of the industries amounts to $40,000,000.

The report further shows that of the 18,286 industrial workers 20 per cent are skilled, 30 per cent semi-skilled and 30 per cent unskilled.

Fifty per cent of the industries in the district occupy one acre or less of land; 25 per cent one to two acres; 15 per cent two to fifty acres and the balance from fifty to 100 acres. One of the industries, a refinery, occupies 1200 acres of land.

The object of the survey is to create a scientific study of a basis on which to guide future development in the area.

VOTER LIST FOR COUNTY NOW 857,263

Registration Total, as Yet Incomplete, Shows Gain of 32,377 Electors

Compilation of incomplete registration figures last night by Registrar of Voters Kerr, gave a grand total for Los Angeles county of 857,263, of which 479,435 represents registrations in Los Angeles city and 377,828 registrations elsewhere in the county.

Failure to register by midnight last Saturday precludes electors from voting at the State general election on November 4, next. Last night's figures represent an increase of 32,377 registrations over those recorded for the State primary election on August 26, last.

Final count of registrations will not be completed before the latter part of the week, Kerr said.

Wife Divorces Isidor Achron, Concert Pianist

Mrs. Evdokia Achron, wife of Isidor Achron, concert pianist and accompanist for Jascha Heifetz, violinist, obtained a divorce "by proxy" in Superior Judge McComb's court yesterday, her testimony and that of Achron being presented in the form of depositions.

Attorney Walter B. Burks represented the defendant, Achron, and Attorney A. G. Ritter, the plaintiff, who by terms of a property settlement gets $300 a month from Achron as long as he is making his present salary.

The couple were married in Leningrad, Russia, August 4, 1919, and lived in Los Angeles at 525 South Ardmore street, Los Angeles, until they separated September 27, 1929. Grounds of divorce were desertion, Mrs. Achron contending that her husband's absences on concert tours amounted to breaking up their home.

Civilian Body Scans Charges Against Mayor

Fourteen charges attributing inefficiency and violation of election promises to Mayor Porter were filed with the directors of the Affiliated Improvement Association at a meeting last night at the Roslyn.

In an effort to get full light on the charges the directors decided to send a copy to the Mayor for his comment. Additional copies will be sent to city and county organizations for the same purpose.

A committee of three members, J. E. Lambert, C. E. Norton and J. C. Edwards, was appointed last night to investigate Supervisor Graves's action in the matters of the San Gabriel Dam and the County Hospital.

Ceremonies at Theater Site Set for Tomorrow

At 4 p.m. tomorrow ground will be broken for Warner Brothers' new motion picture theater at Wilshire Boulevard and Canon Drive, Beverly Hills. Arrangements have been made by Jack L. Warner, production chief of Warner Brothers' Studios, and M. A. Silver, general manager of the Pacific Coast theater division, for formal exercises to which city and State officials and representatives of Los Angeles and Beverly Hills chambers of commerce have been invited.

The new theater will seat 2000 persons.

'Jubilee' Salé Throngs Store

On the first day of its silver jubilee sale, which is to last through the current month, Walker's was visited yesterday by 71,305 persons, it was announced. This compared with 7000 when the store opened its doors twenty-five years ago.

"The tremendous showing is proof of a healthy trend of mind and purchasing power among Los Angeles people," said President Walker.

On Thursday the ton-and-a-half birthday cake will be cut. Mayor Porter has promised to be present.

Veterans to Fix Memorial Duties

Delegates from all veterans' organizations of Los Angeles county, constituting the 1931 general Memorial Day committee, will meet in Patriotic Hall at 7:30 p.m. today to elect officers and select committees for the next memorial observance.

President Hoover has been invited by by the City Council to address the veterans at that observance, but still has to make known his decision.

JUDGE ANSWERS SHULER

Keetch Calls Minister's Attack on Grand Jury Dismissal "Viciously False"

Answering charges by Rev. R. P. Shuler relative to his asserted motives in discharging the 1926 grand jury, Superior Judge Keetch last night in an address over Radio KMTR characterized Shuler's accusations as "wholly and viciously false."

Facts connected with the grand jury's dismissal as disclosed by official records, public documents and the substantiating comments of four members of the Superior bench were marshaled by Judge Keetch.

Asserting that the 1926 grand jury was dismissed only after repeated warnings against persistent violation by some of the jurors of the law requiring secrecy in deliberations of the body, Judge Keetch said that he had laid the facts before Shuler at the minister's request four years ago.

Shuler's charges, Judge Keetch said, are based on statements made by E. J. Nagle, a member of the first 1926 grand jury, who was accepted for duty because of being mistaken for another of the same name. Certain facts and asserted discrepancies connected with Nagle's applications in 1915 and in 1926 for deputy Sheriff were recited by the jurist. "These statements of Nagle are a tissue of falsehoods, and here and now I charge Mr. Shuler with the dissemination of such falsehoods, knowingly or not; if ignorantly, he made no effort to ascertain the facts," said Judge Keetch.

Judge Keetch said that the second grand jury of that year, impaneled immediately after dismissal of the first, had before it all the matters and evidence presented to the original body.

Signed statements by Superior Judges Stephens, Hahn, Fleming and McLucas, each concurring in the wisdom and necessity of his action in dismissing the jury, were read by Judge Keetch.

The radio comments of Shuler in this matter, Judge Keetch said, while not constituting technical contempt of court because they relate to past proceedings, "do constitute a violation of the commandment against bearing false witness." "As a candidate I realize," he said, "that my acts are open to discussion. However, I have the same rights as a private citizen—that such comment be made truthfully and without the malice shown by Mr. Shuler and those with whom he is associating and supporting."

MERCHANT SHIP POLICY CHANGES

Important Shift Announced by Shipping Board

Move Held Step to Getting Out of Management

Administrative Staff Cut in Half by New Move

BY WALDO DRAKE

As a further step toward complete private ownership and operation of the American Merchant Marine, the personnel of the Merchant Fleet Corporation will be cut in half and administrative control of government-owned ships will be left to the operator, it was announced yesterday by the Shipping Board in a general order. The present Merchant Fleet Corporation staff of 1385 persons will be cut to approximately 700 officials and clerks by January 1, next, when the Shipping Board's new "lump-sum" agreement goes into effect.

Under this plan, companies operating Shipping Board vessels pay an established sum, on a charter basis, to the government, in contrast to the old "M.O. 4" agreement where operation of the ships was under administrative control of the traffic department of the Merchant Fleet Corporation. In the future, says the general order, the work of the traffic department will be advisory only, pointing out that the department must "keep entirely away from responsibility for running the ships or for working out traffic problems except in a very general way."

The order stresses the fact that the Shipping Board has cut the number of government-owned ship lines from forty to ten and that plans are now being completed to sell two of the remaining services. As soon as the remaining eight are sold, it is planned to dissolve the Merchant Fleet Corporation.

In effecting a 50 per cent reduction in Merchant Fleet Corporation personnel it is planned to eliminate all field representatives of the traffic department and the supply department, to reduce operating districts to three and to make all possible reductions in the central offices.

EARLY SEASON FOR MEXICO TOMATOES DUE

Early Mexican tomatoes are expected this season to begin appearing at Los Angeles before Christmas, according to E. H. Hansen, one of the leading transporters of that fruit. It will mean an advance of 6 weeks over previous winter importations.

Hansen, who has pioneered this trade, expects to ship in close to 200,000 crates this season from his own plantation near La Paz, where he has doubled his plants this season. This is in the face of an American import tariff increased from one-half cent to 3 cents a pound.

Hansen is getting his fleet of small ships overhauled and will have a larger carrier, soon to be brought from the north, to augment his fleet. He will leave San Pedro next week to survey conditions in the Mexican tomato country.

Incidentally, Mexico has increased the import tariff on fresh and dried fruit 200 per cent, the increase being made in response to an appeal by Mexican fruit growers. Grapes, pears, peaches and apples are exported from the Pacific Coast to Mexico.

A menagerie of objects of art went to Ensenada on the National Navigation Lines steamer Washington yesterday for Jack Dempsey's new hotel. They included porcelain cats, bronze elephants, ivory camels and ducks, stone frogs and rabbits, porcelain unicorns and bronze storks. The liner also carried several passengers for the new resort.

The squadron of gambling ships anchored off Long Beach will be increased to three this morning when the former McCormick coastwise liner Rose City, renamed the Rose Isle, arrives from San Francisco in tow of the Red Stack tub Sea Ranger. She has been completely reconditioned at a Bay City shipyard and is said to have fittings of unusual luxuriousness for her new trade.

Capt. Harry W. Rhodes, superintendent of lighthouses for the California district, yesterday announced changes in six harbor lights in the Fish Harbor and West Basin areas, all effective within the next fortnight.

The Fish Harbor entrance light No. 1 will be changed from a fixed white oil lantern to a fixed green electric lantern, elevated to twenty-five feet above water and increased in intensity to 1000 candlepower. Fish Harbor entrance light No. 2 will at the same time be changed from a fixed red oil lamp to a fixed red electric lantern, raised to twenty-five feet and increased to 1000 candlepower. Four beacons in the West Basin will be shifted, to establish new channel lines to conform with the new channel just completed and to facilitate present dredging operations.

The 105-foot tuna fisherman Asama, suffering mechanical trouble at Magdalena Bay, was expected to be contacted yesterday by the Red Stack tug Woodman, sent from here last week to tow the disabled craft home. The Asama was on her maiden voyage following her completion at San Pedro boat yards for J. Shoji and Y. Hori, fishing for Van Camp Sea Food Company. A backfire caused $3000 damage to the 65-foot purse seiner Sunlight while moored at Wilmington Sunday. She is owned by M. Nonashita.

An ax and a paint scraper salvaged by a diver from near-by waters may play important parts in identification of the bandit who early Sunday shot John Pruller, watchman aboard the tanker Montebello, at San Pedro. Two lockers also were found opened and $300 is missing, besides an undetermined amount from the fire safe in the captain's cabin. Pruller was shot twice, one bullet lodging in the back of his brain. He is at San Pedro General Hospital in a critical condition.
